MAYOR CERMAK HOME TODAY TO TACKLE LABORS

Will Pick Cabinet, Hunt for Cash.

Cabinet appointments and the city's financial shortage will be the two most urgent matters awaiting the attention of Mayor Cermak today upon his return to Chicago from a two weeks' post-election holiday in Miami Beach, Fla. The mayor's train will reach the Illinois Central station at 7:30 o'clock this morning.

At Mr. Cermak's request there will be no demonstration at the station, according to his secretary, Henry Sonnenschein, who said that the mayor probably will go at once to his home. Shortly before noon he will go to his office in the city hall and plunge into the tasks awaiting him. He is expected to work steadily over the week-end.

Only One Position Filled.

Although 3,000 jobholders of the former administration, including cabinet heads, were ousted immediately after the election, Mayor Cermak has made only one permanent appointment to a major cabinet position, that of Col. A. A. Sprague as commissioner of public works. Francis X. Busch is serving a sixty day term as corporation counsel, and Joe Grein has taken the post of city sealer for an indefinite term, but other departments are in charge of the civil service deputies.

Among the positions to be filled are those of president of the board of local improvements, health commissioner, building commissioner, commissioner of police, controller, commissioner of gas and electricity, city collector, and members of the civil service commission.

Rumors Called Unfounded.

Although rumors concerning various appointments have been prevalent, the mayor's closest associates yesterday said they were mostly unfounded. Mr. Cermak, while in Florida, issued a statement asserting that no authentic announcements would be made until after his return.

Before leaving, the mayor recognized the pressing importance of the financial situation by ordering all expenses held to minimum during his absence. Due to the failure to market 1931 tax anticipation warrants, the city, as well as the other local governmental bodies, is facing the prospect of being unable to meet future pay rolls. It is believed that one of the mayor's first acts will be to confer with the Chicago bankers on the problem.

No Money for Teachers.

A $3,750,000 teachers' pay roll of the school board will fall due today, with no money in sight to meet it. The county paid its employés April 23, but has no funds to meet its next pay roll, May 8. The city will not be able to send out pay checks due May 1 or thereafter without more funds than it has at present.

Members of the city council steering committee, who have been working on council reorganization in Florida, will return with the Cermak party today. The committeemen, who have not completed their report, plan to stay in Chicago to finish the job.

The inaugural of Mayor Cermak will take place at a special meeting of the city council Monday evening. At that time several of the most important cabinet appointments will be presented, as well as the report of the steering committee.

Make Plans for Inaugural.

Tentative plans for the inaugural ceremony call for the presentation of a morocco bound volume of Mr. Cermak's eight year record as head of the county board to him by County Clerk Robert M. Sweitzer. County Commissioner Maurice Kavanagh will hand him a new gavel while one of the eldest members of the council will pin on him an official star. Arrangements have been made to broadcast the ceremony and to place chairs for the overflow crowd in the lobbies of the city hall and county building. The Lane High school band will play.

Among the special guests invited to the inauguration are United States Senator J. Hamilton Lewis and former Mayors Carter H. Harrison and Edward F. Dunne.

Except for brief responses Mayor Cermak will not speak at the inauguration. It is planned that he deliver his first full statement of the new administration's policies and program during the Chicago Jubilee, the week of May 11. This event, it is thought, will have more real significance than the inauguration ceremony, as it is far enough distant to let the mayor become thoroughly acquainted with the city's needs and problems.

A proposal that an inaugural ball be given to the mayor as a part of the Chicago Jubilee was discussed by the council committee aboard their Chicago bound train yesterday.

TRADE CENTERS OF ENTIRE CITY JOIN IN JUBILEE

CHICAGO JUBILEE.

The Chicago Jubilee committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce, No. 1 La Salle street, telephone Franklin 7700, will supply all information to those planning to participate in the Chicago Jubilee May 11.

All business districts of the city were geared into the Chicago Jubilee yesterday. The effect of this expansion will be to spread the celebration throughout Chicago, and to make the program truly metropolitan.

The broad scope of the Jubilee was discussed yesterday in a luncheon meeting of more than sixty business and civic representatives at the Palmer House under the auspices of the domestic commerce and publicity committees of the Chicago Association of Commerce. Robert C. Ross presided. The expansion was a natural consequence of the enthusiastic response with which all Chicago has welcomed the Jubilee.

Committee to Coördinate.

The first concrete act of the meeting was the authorization for the appointment of a coördinating committee. Frederick J. Ashley, publicity head of the Association of Commerce, was named chairman. He said last night that the commitee would consist of twenty members whose names would be announced today.

Outlying districts were fully represented at the meeting, as was the downtown area. Representatives of neighborhood chambers of commerce pledged complete support to make the Chicago Jubilee a success, and indicated they would plan parades or other celebrations harmonious with the general program of the main Jubilee.

The west, north and south sides were keyed to a civic fervor over the Jubilee, several spokesmen said, and would strive to outrival one another in splendor and pageantry.

All Sides of City Represented.

Among the spokesmen were F. J. Bilek, secretary of the West Town Chamber of Commerce; William Dudley, managing director of the greater central district, who also represented the far south side; Walter Roy of the South Side Chamber of Commerce, and Carl J. Johnson, Lions club executive and head of the Northtown Business Men's association.

Among those at the meeting, several of whom spoke, were R. C. McManus of Swift & Co.; Craig B. Hazelwood, vice president, First National bank; George B. Foster, Commonwealth Edison company; Charles G. Gambill, Gambill Motor company; H. W. Riegler, State street council; L. B. Reitman, General Outdoor Advertising company; Alexander H. Revell Jr.; John Burke, president, and J. K. Blatchford, secretary, Chicago Hotel Men's association; R. J. Thain, Carson Pirie Scott & Co.; F. V. Danielson, Charles A. Stevens company; Fred A. Slaten, Peacock's; G. R. Schaeffer, Marshall Field & Co., and Max Berns, advertising council.

Ashley Outlines Program.

The program planned thus far, according to Mr. Ashley, will begin in Chicago churches May 10, Sunday, when worshippers will be told of the Jubilee. The official beginning, the next day, will be featured by a mammoth night parade, probably several miles long, containing a host of gay floats and uniformed, marching groups.

On Tuesday night the American-French international Golden Gloves tournament will be held at Soldiers' field. A brilliant pyrotechnic display will be the big event Wednesday night.

Another event will be the dinner to delegates from forty-six nations on Wednesday. These delegates are to meet in Washington at an international chamber of commerce convention from May 4 to May 9, and have been invited to prolong their stay by Silas H. Strawn, Chicago attorney.

District Parades Discussed.

According to present plans, all city and park museums and institutions will be asked to remain open until 10 o'clock nightly during the Chicago Jubilee to accommodate out of town visitors. Another plan deals with the possibility of neighborhood parades to converge on the loop on the opening night to join the big parade.

As each hour passes, the list of active participants in the Chicago Jubilee increases. From all quarters yesterday came added proffers of assistance, many of these being received at THE TRIBUNE Public Service office at 1 South Dearborn street and relayed

CHILD AND DOG PROTECTOR ARE KILLED IN FIRE

Laddie, a mongrel police dog, yesterday afternoon was left in the rear room of 7513 Madison street, Forest Park, with Marjorie Eckley, 2½ years old, and Jackie, 6, while the children's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Eckley, completed moving their tailor shop equipment from their old place at 7616 Madison street. Gilbert Beranek, 1532 Marengo avenue, Forest Park, an employé, was working in the front part of the new shop.

Late in the afternoon Beranek heard Laddie barking and clawing at the door of the rear room. He rushed to the rear to find the room in flames. Unable to rescue the children, Beranek called the fire department. When firemen arrived they found Jackie had escaped unscathed. Laddie lay on the floor. He was dead, but under his body was Marjorie. Laddie had protected her from the flames with his own body, but his sacrifice was in vain. Marjorie died at the Oak Park hospital.

Poison Kills Son-in-Law of Woolworth

New York, April 23.—[Special.]—James P. Donahue, 46, son-in-law of the late F. W. Woolworth, founder of the chain of five and ten cent stores, died this morning at Harbor sanitarium, where he had been a patient since Sunday afternoon. Dr. Thomas A. Gonzales, acting chief medical examiner, after performing an autopsy, signed a certificate giving the cause of death as suicide by poison.

Luncheon guests at the Donahue home, East 80th street, told Dr. Dewey Weinberg, assistant medical examiner, that about 4:30 p. m. Sunday Mr. Donahue excused himself from the party, which included his elder son, Woolworth. He went to the lower floor bath room and subsequently told Gordon Sarre, a friend, that he had "done it," leading them to infer that he had taken poison. Another guest was Milton Dorland Doyle.

Two Transfusions Made.

After administering an emetic, Mr. Sarre had a physician called and Mr. Donahue was taken to the hospital. Two transfusions were resorted to in an effort to save his life. The tentative diagnosis announced was acute uremic poisoning and the luncheon story was not made public by physicians until after the autopsy.

With Mr. Donahue at the time of his death were his wife, Mrs. Jessie Woolworth Donahue; his two sons, James Paul Donahue Jr. and Woolworth, and other relatives. Msgr. Stephen J. Donahue, secretary to Cardinal Hayes, administered the last rites of the Catholic church.

Dr. Henry Craig Fleming in a statement to newspapers tonight diagnosed the cause of death as "uremia, probably induced by mercurial poisoning," but said "there is absolutely no evidence whatsoever that the poison was taken with suicidal intent."

Dr. Fleming's statement said he had charge of Mr. Donahue's case.

Suicide Verdict Stands.

However, the coroner's physician's verdict of suicide stands on the books and circumstances surrounding the taking of the poison seemed to bear out this opinion.

Mr. Donahue had been in ill health, and when he left the group of family friends after luncheon on Sunday and went into a bathroom his son sought to follow him. The father locked the door and refused to come out until a short time later. When he emerged he told the son to call a doctor, as he had swallowed some pills taken from a bottle. The bottle bore the label of a poison. Doctors were summoned, and, according to attendants, Mr. Donahue repeated several times that "he had been a chump to do it."

Friends were mystified and unable to give any motive for suicide excepting possibly ill health. Mr. and Mrs. Donahue had recently returned from a winter in Florida and reports had it that Mr. Donahue had lost heavily both in the stock market and at casinos in Florida, but friends insisted that any such losses were negligible when compared to the Woolworth fortune.

Upon Mr. Woolworth's death his estate, including title to the Woolworth building, which later sold for $11,000,000, was divided among Mrs. Donahue, Mrs. McCann, and Barbara Hutton, a granddaughter. Mrs. Donahue was reputed to be the most wealthy woman in New York City.

SUMMER DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME WILL START ON SUNDAY

Daylight saving time will be inaugurated in Chicago and the metropolitan area on Sunday. Clocks will be turned ahead one hour at 2 o'clock Sunday morning and the new time will continue until Sept. 27.

Railroads operating between Chicago and the suburbs will change their schedules to conform with the daylight saving time or operate on the new time. The Chicago, Aurora and Elgin, Skokie Valley, and Rock Island suburban trains will operate on the new time. The four de luxe trains of the Pennsylvania railroad running from New York to Chicago will arrive here one hour earlier during the summer. The schedule of other Chicago-New York trains will be unchanged.

5 Young Men Killed When Car Hits Train

Ten persons were killed in three collisions between automobiles and trains in the Chicago metropolitan area yesterday and early this morning.

Five young men, all residents of Libertyville, lost their lives in the first of two accidents early today when the automobile in which they were riding home from a fish fry crashed at high speed into a Soo line freight train on a crossing a half mile north of Antioch, in Lake county.

The victims were Herrick C. Harrington, 21 years old, the driver; Daniel Wigham, 24 years old; George H. Eaton, 24 years old; Gus Gustafson, 22 years old; and Edgar Lindroth, 21 years old.

Five Freight Cars Derailed.

They had attended the fish fry at Camp Lake. The train, with sixty cars, was moving north when they approached the crossing of route 21, passing at high speed another car that had slowed down to let the remainder of the train pass. Five cars in the middle of the train were derailed by the collision.

Young Eaton was a stepson of Mrs. John L. Taylor, wife of the Lake county coroner. He was graduated from Marquette university last year. Lindroth was clerk in a bank at Park Ridge. Gustafson was employed by the state highway department.

According to Coroner Taylor, the killing of five persons in one accident on the highways set a record for Lake county, the largest number ever killed previously in one crash having been four.

Two Killed on Far South Side.

In the second crossing accident early this morning two bridgetenders were killed when the automobile in which they were riding on their way home from work collided with the Indianapolis bound Midnight Special of the Monon railroad at 134th street and Commercial avenue. The victims were Albert J. Smith, 41 years old, 6137 South Francisco avenue, who was driving the automobile; and Leo Sexton, 35 years old, 9003 Latlin street.

The automobile was carried some distance by the locomotive before the train could be stopped. According to Victor Johnson, 13339 Commercial avenue, and Joseph Koen, watchman at the crossing, the occupants of the automobile disregarded their warning signals and drove directly into the path of the train.

Three Die in Gary.

Three men were killed yesterday when their automobile was demolished by a fast Pennsylvania railroad passenger train at the 17th avenue crossing in Gary. The dead are Jesse C. Johnson, 38 years old, and Joseph E. Melton, 36, both of Wheeler, Ind., and George Pazak, 56, of Gary.

The three were employed at the American Bridge works in Gary and were en route to work in Johnson's car when the accident happened. Lucille Jarrett, who saw the crash, said that the car stopped at the crossing and then suddenly drove onto the tracks and into the path of the train. The crossing is unguarded except for warning signs.

Both Johnson and Melton were married and had families. Pazak was unmarried.

The deaths of Smith and Sexton increased the Cook county motor toll for the year to 361.

U. S. Drys Raid Rockford Clubs, Take 26 Prisoners

Rockford, Ill., April 24.—[Special.]—Forty prohibition agents came into Rockford from Chicago last night and started a series of raids on so-called "key clubs" and restaurants. Early today 26 prisoners who had been arrested in the raids were in the Rockford jail. They will be taken to Freeport for arraignment before a United States commissioner.

The raiders also took possession of a large alcohol plant on the Grant highway east of the city. The plant had three large cookers and 1,000 gallons of stock on hand.

The Roads Are Fine, but in a New Car They're Better!

The highways leading out of Chicago this spring are better than ever. Many of them since last year have been widened and improved. Traffic that used to inch along in certain stretches now finds a smooth, broad highway.

This is one good reason why you'll get a lot of enjoyment out of a new automobile this spring that you couldn't have in earlier years. Another reason for buying a new car now is to be found in the cars themselves.

Have you seen them? Have you driven and ridden in them? Have you examined them inside and out?

Have you looked at the price tags?

You really owe it to yourself to think over seriously the proposition of acquiring a new automobile this spring. Values, there is no doubt about it, never were as high.

Dealers throughout the city and county are holding their Spring Auto Show this week. Drop in at any dealer's today or tomorrow and see the new cars at first hand!

SUPREME COURT FREES BARKER, PUBLIC ENEMY

Four Gangsters Win Favorable Rulings.

George [Red] Barker, who was ordered back to Pontiac reformatory by Judge McGoorty last Oct. 16 to serve four years of a term for larceny, was granted complete freedom by the decision of the high court. Barker is a leading public enemy.

Bonds of $40,000 for the liberty of Danny Stanton, who is fighting extradition to Wisconsin to stand trial there for the murder of Jack Zuta, vice monger, were approved.

James [Red] Forsythe and Simon Gorman, who were convicted of carrying concealed weapons and sentenced to a year in jail, plus fines of $200 each by Judge John H. Lyle, were granted new trials.

History of Barker Case.

Barker, a labor racketeer who was ousted a little more than a month ago from the leadership of the Coal Teamsters and Hikers' union, has a criminal record dating back to 1916. He has served one term in the Michigan penitentiary in addition to the one in Illinois, which comes to an end with the present decision.

The conviction involved in this decision was rendered in 1918. He was paroled after serving a minimum sentence and while on parole was arrested and convicted for robbery in Michigan. At the conclusion of his term he was sent back to Pontiac for violating parole.

He was again paroled and came to Chicago. In 1928 he was arrested for the murder of an attendant in a north side garage, but was freed at his trial early in 1929 when a witness changed his testimony and declared he had made a mistake in identifying Barker and two companions as the killers.

Freed by Peoria Judge.

On March 3, 1929, he was again sent back to prison as a parole violator. He remained at Pontiac until Sept. 12 of that year, when a writ of habeas corpus freeing him was granted by Judge T. N. Greene of Peoria. This jurist's action had the effect of conferring not a parole but a complete pardon on the convict.

On Oct. 16, 1930, in proceedings before Judge McGoorty it was argued that Judge Greene was without jurisdiction in the matter and that Barker, who admitted leaving the state of Illinois without parole board permission, should be in a cell.

Judge McGoorty upheld this contention and ordered Barker, who was estimated to have an income of perhaps $200,000 a year from his labor racketeering, back to Pontiac again. Before that day ended the racketeer was in prison garb, scrubbing the floors of the penitentiary.

The Supreme court in its ruling yesterday held that the action of Judge Greene was final in the case.

Stanton Bond Is Approved.

Stanton was held in connection with the Zuta slaying, which occurred near Delafield, Wis., after ballistics experts found that bullets fired into Zuta's head came from a pistol which Stanton owned. He fought extradition to Wisconsin before Gov. Emmerson and before Judge Philip Finnegan, losing in both instances.

Stanton then took advantage of his legal rights to appeal to the Illinois Supreme court, asking that he be not sent to the other state for trial. The plea was made that the evidence was insufficient to justify this. Several days ago the Supreme court decided to permit him liberty on bonds until a decision is made, probably not before the June term, and the action yesterday was acceptance of the property scheduled for bonds.

Forsythe, who was once held in the Lingle murder case, and Gorman, both known as members of the north side alcohol mobs, first appealed their convictions for gun toting to the Appellate court. There Judge Lyle's sentence was upheld. Yesterday's decision of the Supreme court makes it necessary to try them again on the same charge.

Sovetsky Conviction Reversed.

Another reversal was in the conviction of John Sovetsky, known to the police as the "millionaire fence." The police and prosecutors have been fighting for more than five years to convict Sovetsky and last fall they finally succeeded. The Supreme court, however, held that the evidence was faulty and ordered a new trial.

The state won a victory when the court upheld the conviction of Dr. Amante Rongetti for manslaughter. He will have to serve a 1 to 14 year sentence in the penitentiary. Rongetti has been through three trials and every time he has been convicted. The Supreme court reversed two of the convictions, the first of which carried the death penalty.

In the Rongetti case the court held that Rongetti, in view of his three trials, cannot complain that he has not had patient treatment from the courts. He was found guilty of murdering Loretta Enders, unwed mother, and her babe by abortion. The body of the child was burned in the furnace, it is charged.

Stewart Escapes Sentence.

Attorney William Scott Stewart was more fortunate than Rongetti, his client. The reviewing court set aside the three months' contempt sentence imposed by the late Judge Comerford against Stewart when he defended Rongetti in the first trial. In this case the court said:

"In reaching that conclusion [the reversal of the case] we desire to say that we base it upon two considerations. The first is the fact that the court in fixing the penalty considered matters that occurred out of court and with which the plaintiff in error was not really connected, that is, was not guilty of alleged indirect contempt against him; the second is that the court failed to accord to him due respect and consideration to which he was entitled as an attorney and officer of the court."

Other Decisions Rendered.

The court also rendered decisions in the following cases:

Affirmed the conviction of Frod Hrdlicka, Edward Kotek and Edward Kerstein for election frauds. They were election officials in the 27th precinct of the 4th ward at the judicial election of November, 1928. They altered ballots.

The conviction for robbery of Tony Ambalo was affirmed. His case was pending since 1927.

JUDGE REFUSES VOLPE PLEA FOR IMMEDIATE TRIAL

Vagrancy charges against Tony [Mops] Volpe were continued to May 26 by Judge Justin F. McCarthy in Jury court yesterday despite the plea of the gangster for an immediate trial.

"Other school children jeer at my twin boys," Volpe declaimed, "saying 'I see your dad got another continuance.'" Judge McCarthy continued the case at the request of the state and Volpe stalked from the court.

Similar charges against Anthony [Red] Kissane and Jack [West Side] Barry were requested nol-prossed by the state. Judge McCarthy continued the cases to May 4, indicating that at that time the gangsters will be freed when a court stenographer is present to make a transcript of the proceedings.

TROOPS FIRE ON PORTUGUESE MOB; RESERVES CALLED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LISBON, Portugal, April 23.—An anti-dictatorship riot is reported to have occurred at Oporto yesterday. Authorities dispersed the mob by rifle fire. One student was shot. Reservists of the 1927, 1928, and 1929 armies have been drafted, and all officers on leave have been called to duty. It is reported that 30,000 British rifles arrived yesterday, and were being issued to soldiers who were destined for home and frontier service.

The auxiliary cruiser Carvalho Araujo sailed this morning with troops for Porto Santo, an island 50 miles from Madeira, which is to be used as the base of the expedition against the revolting forces. Aboard the cruiser is Capt. Magalhaco Correia, minister of marine, who will await at Porto Santo for the arrival of the rest of the forces.

SURFACE LINES OFFICIAL KILLED IN HOTEL FALL

Frederick D. Hoffman, 51 years old, assistant secretary and assistant treasurer of the Chicago Surface Lines was killed late yesterday afternoon when he jumped or fell from a fire escape at the fifth floor level in the Belmont hotel at 3156 Sheridan road, where he lived.

After working all day in the offices of his company, Mr. Hoffman went to the hotel. With his father in law, George B. Coba, also a guest at the hotel, whom he met in the lobby, he went to his apartment on the fourth floor. There he and Coba talked briefly to Mrs. Hoffman.

Goes to Fire Escape.

Shortly before 6 p. m. Mr. Hoffman remarked that he did not feel well and was going to a drug store for medicine. Instead of going down to the lobby again, however, he took an elevator and rode to the fifth floor. His body was found a little later in an alley to the west of the hotel. The assumption was that he had gone on to the fire escape at the end of a hallway and had plunged to his death. Some believed he might have gone to the fire escape to get fresh air.

Mr. Hoffman's father-in-law said he had been ill with sinus trouble for some months. This was also corroborated by Frank L. Hupp, secretary, and Markham Orde, treasurer of the surface lines. Mr. Hupp said that he had not seen Hoffman yesterday afternoon, but had been in touch with him during the morning. Mr. Orde said that he had talked with him at about 2 o'clock.

Cheerful, Official Says.

"I remarked then that Mr. Hoffman looked better than he had for weeks," Mr. Orde asserted. "He seemed quite cheerful."

Both officials declared that Mr. Hoffman's accounts were in the best of condition and that there was nothing connected with the car line's business affairs to cause him to kill himself.

Mr. Hoffman had been with the Chicago Surface Lines since 1914. Before that he was with the Chicago City Railway company. At the time of his death he was still secretary-treasurer of this company.

LEAPS 15 STORIES

While his brother pounded on the door of his room, Walter Spinks, 35 years old, leaped to his death from the fifteenth floor of the Y. M. C. A. hotel, 826 South Wabash avenue, late yesterday.

The brother, George Spinks, 816 Roscoe street, said Walter had been mentally deranged for several months and that arrangements had been made to commit him to a psychopathic hospital.

COLLAPSES

JUDGE HARRY A. LEWIS.

Chief Justice Harry A. Lewis of the Superior court collapsed yesterday following a heart attack while seated in his chambers in the county building. He was taken to a sanitarium at 2837 Prairie avenue by his personal bailiff, William Claire. Dr. P. L. Clark, head of the sanitarium, said the judge's condition was not serious and that he would leave the sanitarium within a few days.

WOMAN SCALDED TO DEATH AS SHE TUMBLES IN VAT

Rockford, Ill., April 23.—Miss June Magnuson, 30, was scalded to death tonight in a vat of boiling water at the Illinois Veneer plant. According to police, Miss Magnuson and George Bressette, 33, had been making a round of roadhouses for the last 48 hours. Shortly after 7 o'clock tonight they entered the veneer company's plant unnoticed. Wandering about, they sat down to rest on a ledge near a 12 foot vat of boiling water used for stripping bark from logs. Miss Magnuson arose and attempted to shut a nearby door. Losing her balance she toppled face forward into the vat. She was dead before she could be rescued. Police are holding Bressette.

Mexico Orders Juarez Bars Shut to Help Dry Up U. S.

El Paso, Tex., April 23.—(AP)—Mayor Baltasar Adame of Juarez said today he had received orders from Gov. Andres Ortiz of Chihuahua to close all bars, cantinas, and questionable places along the 150 miles of American border between Juarez and Zaragoza, Coahuila. The orders were in line with the Mexican government's recently announced policy of close coöperation with United States authorities in preventing smuggling.

SENATE PASSES 3 BILLS TO END BAIL BOND EVILS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 23.—[Special.]—Three measures designed to get rid of bail bond evils were passed today by the senate. They were sponsored by the Commonwealth Club of Chicago, State's Attorney Swanson, and other Cook county law enforcement officials. One bill simplifies foreclosure by the county where bail bonds are forfeited.

Another provides for the licensing of persons in the bail business and provides penalties.

Statistics were submitted that in Cook county between 1916 and 1930 bail bonds aggregating $18,075,500 were forfeited in the Criminal court. Of that amount $2,337,600 never has been canceled and still is due. The amount realized on bail bonds forfeited in the Criminal court between 1916 and 1930 was only $54,530.

PRESS BILLS IN HOUSE.

With the passage by the state senate of the new bail bond bills the Commonwealth club of Chicago, sponsors of the legislation, yesterday inaugurated a campaign for favorable action by the house. Marshall Kelg, president of the club, said that the organization would urge early action by the house.

CONVICT TO BE TRIED AS KILLER OF WARDEN KLEIN

Authorities at the Joliet penitentiary yesterday disclosed that James V. Price, 31 years old, one of seven men who stabbed Deputy Warden Peter N. M. Klein to death before escaping from the Stateville prison in May, 1926, is in Sing Sing prison in New York, to which he was committed on March 31 for burglary. He will be brought back to Illinois and tried for the Klein murder, it was announced.

The other six killers all were arrested soon after their escape. While in the Joliet jail after being sentenced to death they made two attempts to get away. In one of these Gregorio Rizzo was shot and killed. Four of the band were recaptured and later hanged. They were Robert Torrez, Charles Duchowski, Walter Stalesky, and Charles Shader. Bernardo Roa, the remaining member of the band, was not caught.

PROBATION LAW WEAPON IS USED ON BOOTLEGGER

Invoke Statute for the First Time.

A provision of the federal probation law under which a bootlegger might be arrested after the end of his suspended sentence and sentenced again was applied yesterday by Federal Judge Lindley.

This part of the law, invoked for the first time in the Chicago courts yesterday, provides that an offender on probation may be arrested at any time during the maximum period for which he might originally have been sentenced. This might be fifty years, or more, even though his term of probation were only one year. And the new sentence may be for the maximum that might have been imposed originally.

Arrested on Second Charge.

On Jan. 23, 1930, Joseph Chiappori, 20 East 100th place, was sentenced to six months in jail and fined $250 for conspiracy and other offenses against the dry laws. Another sentence of a year and a day at Leavenworth penitentiary was suspended and he was put on probation for that period.

Chiappori served the jail term, and on April 3 of this year he was arraigned on another liquor law charge. The probationary term had expired, but Chiappori was arrested on a bench warrant issued by Federal Judge Barnes and yesterday was sentenced to a year and a day at Leavenworth by Judge Lindley.

Liable to Rearrest.

Assistant United States Attorney Walter Wiles explained that under the Jones law, which makes manufacture, sale, transportation, and importation of liquor felonies subject to maximum penalties of five years' imprisonment, a man might conceivably be convicted on enough counts to subject him to fifty years in the penitentiary. If he were put on probation he would be subject to arrest at any time before the fifty years expired and would then be subject to a fifty year sentence.

The law applies to all violations of federal statutes, but the suspended sentence is imposed most frequently in liquor law cases.

ROBS GIRL STORE CASHIER.

A lone robber entered Hartman's Furniture store at 2556 West North avenue yesterday and compelled the cashier, Miss Stephie Warsak, to give him $350, with which he fled.

LOOP PARKING BAN UPHELD BY SUPREME COURT

Chicago's loop no-parking ordinance, which has been in effect for two years, is valid, the State Supreme court held yesterday in an opinion handed down in the case of the city against William McKinley.

McKinley was fined in the Municipal court on a charge of violating the ordinance after he parked his car in Quincy street between Wells and La Salle streets and went into a building, leaving his car standing for three minutes. The ordinance permits motorists a stop long enough to discharge or pick up a passenger, except in the case of delivery cars.

"The plaintiff contends that the ordinance of March 18, 1929, is void and should not have been received in evidence because it is an attempt to amend an ordinance of Dec. 14, 1925, which was declared void," said the Supreme court.

"The city council had the right to regulate the use of the streets by ordinance."

BANKS COMPLETE REPORTS ON CASH OF 17 CAPTAINS

Jury Will Study Deposit Records Today.

All the banks of Chicago had responded yesterday afternoon to subpenas calling for the records of the financial affairs of seventeen police captains and the special grand jury planned to spend the day in examining the accounts. Two of the grand jurors are bankers and they are to give expert opinion regarding the deposits, many of which were in large sums.

J. A. Farmar, foreman of the special jury which was impaneled to investigate charges of police graft, said a statement would be issued by the jury after all the bank accounts have been studied. It was his opinion yesterday that suspicion had unjustly been cast upon the accounts of two of the captains whose deposits, Mr. Farmar said, were normal and contained nothing to excite the supposition of the acceptance of graft.

Get More Records Next Week.

Next week, Mr. Farmar announced, subpenas will be prepared in the names of the other thirty-five captains and the banks will be required to produce all accounts in those names. After all the police commanders' bank accounts have been obtained by the investigating body the captains will have opportunity to explain their acquisition of wealth, he stated.

Mr. Farmar confirmed reports that a dozen of the captains had made weekly, monthly, and infrequent deposits of sums far in excess of their yearly salaries of $4,000. But he declined to comment on the disclosures. The jury foreman emphasized that in selecting the first seventeen names no discrimination was shown—that the finances of all police heads are to be scrutinized and no especial significance attaches to the fact that certain captains were named before others.

Deposits Show Big Drop.

An incomplete survey of the records indicated that since the beginning of the grand jury investigation of the police department the deposits of police captains fell off to almost nothing a month, the jurors found. The jurors decided, according to an announcement, that if the complete investigation of captains' accounts warrants a further inquiry, the bank accounts of lieutenants, sergeants, and the detectives known as "captains' men" are to be investigated.

Capt. Dennis Malloy, whose accounts were found in nine banks and who was shown to have had numerous real estate transactions, declined to comment yesterday on the subject. He has been known for years as a wealthy man and he has been a captain since 1918, and a member of the force for forty years.

CAPTAIN CONDON IS SHIFTED BACK TO HUDSON AVE.

Police Captain Thomas Condon, who was transferred to the Brighton Park station before the mayoralty election April 7, was shifted back to his old post at Hudson avenue by Acting Commissioner Alcock yesterday. In the same order Alcock sent Capt. Michael Tobin, who has been at Hudson avenue, to Brighton Park. He also sent ten patrolmen each into the Hudson avenue and Chicago avenue districts.

PRINCE OF WALES BIDS $150,000 FOR STOLEN ANTIQUES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, April 23.—That the prince of Wales unknowingly offered more than $150,000 for an allegedly stolen suite of antique furniture at the British empire trade exhibition here was revealed by police today.

The furniture, composed of finely carved teakwood, believed to be more than 200 years old, originally belonged to a Hindu mogul. It came into the possession of Rear Admiral Lassere of the Argentine navy some years ago. The admiral's grandson, visiting the fair today, recognized the pieces as belonging to his grandfather. He said that shortly after the admiral's death the furniture disappeared from his house.

The prince of Wales when he was here had bid for the furniture, but the final negotiations for the purchase fell down when the seller was unable to establish his ownership. Police are investigating to find out how the furniture came into the hands of the exhibitor, who is an attorney in Buenos Aires.

Other officers elected are: Herman Olson, first vice president; Otto Cederwall, second vice president; O. C. Nylund, secretary; Austin J. Lindstrom, treasurer, and Arthur C. Brunell, Frank Gustafson, and Nils Tuveson, directors. An entertainment program followed the election.

BURGLARS LOOT FARM ESTATE OF MARTIN INSULL

Seize Woman in Tree in Another Robbery.

Loot estimated at $5,000 was taken by burglars who early yesterday broke into two lodges on the county estate of Martin J. Insull, utilities magnate, at Ridge road and West Park avenue, Highland Park. One of the lodges is occupied by Mr. Insull and the other by his daughter and son-in-law, Maj. William A. Rafferty.

Four buildings are on the estate, a large riding and racing stable, the two lodges, and the home of the caretaker, John Wilson. The Raffertys spend only week-ends in their lodge, living the remainder of the week at their home in Morocco, Ind. Mr. Insull, during the winter months, lives in his home at 428 North Sheridan road, Highland Park.

Smash Glass in Windows.

Both lodges were entered by smashing glass in large French windows. Although a pack of nine dogs run through the estate during the night, the caretaker said that no barking was heard during the time of the burglary.

In the Insull lodge a chest of plated silver was stolen, but the thieves overlooked a chest of sterling silver in another drawer. Bed clothing was the only other loot taken there.

In the Rafferty lodge the loot consisted of a black and white civet coat, valued at $500 ;a raccoon coat, valued at $450; two polo coats, valued at $125 each; bedding, linens, and general clothing. No jewelry was in either building.

Edward Maroney, chief of police of Highland Park, called in fingerprint experts. He said the burglary was apparently the work of a Chicago gang. The thieves' automobile had been parked on Ridge road.

Two years ago the home of Mr. Insull on Sheridan road, Highland Park, was robbed of jewelry valued at nearly $100,000 by burglars who entered the home while the family was at dinner.

Nab Woman in Tree.

The Glencoe police announced yesterday that five recent north shore burglaries were cleared up with the arrest of a womon burglar and the recovery of all the loot, valued at $7,000. The woman, held by Glencoe police since Sunday night, is Frances Hajek, 30 years old, 835 Grace street, Chicago.

She was captured in the home of Mrs. Mildred Ward, 900 Bluff road, Glencoe, as she was escaping with clothing and jewelry valued at $1,000. Mrs. Ward was returning from the theater when she noticed a light burning in a bedroom window and called the police.

Policeman John Beinlick climbed in an upper story window and forced the door of the bedroom. Miss Hajek climbed through a window and attempted to escape down a tree after threatening to take her life if not permitted to escape. Another policeman climbed the tree and she was seized. She was carrying the loot in a bundle.

At the station she confessed four other burglaries, giving dates. All the loot was found in her home along with a bankbook showing a balance of $400, which she said she had earned as a waitress.

The places robbed and the value of articles taken were: April 11, Henry A. Delfosse, 853 Sheridan road, Wilmette, $1,200; April 13, Fred Dickinson, 1228 Scott avenue, Hubbard Woods, $1,500; April 14, Jules Girardin, 778 Foxdale avenue, Winnetka, several hundred dollars in linens; April 16, Ralph D. Rogers, 514 Lincoln avenue, Glencoe, $1,100.

SNOW, RAIN, HAIL AND FOREST FIRES VISIT FAR WEST STATES

San Francisco, Cal., April 23.—(AP)—Snow, rain, wind, hail, sandstorms, frost, duststorms, lightning, forest and brush fires, and sunshine were visited in strange profusion on western states today.

Strong winds wrecked much of the tent city at the site of the Hoover dam at Boulder City, Nev., whipped orchards and crops in the Pacific northwest and Utah, damaged houses and trees in Utah, stranded motorists in Washington and interrupted wire and power service in several sections.

Reno, Nev., reported 11 inches of snow, the heaviest recorded in 50 years in April. More than a foot fell in California mountain districts and parts of Montana, Wyoming, Utah, Arizona, and Colorado were covered.

Wind and frost damage was reported in orchard districts of Washington by the state director of agriculture.

THREAT TO KILL JAPANESE PRINCE DOUBLES GUARD

Boston, Mass., April 23.—[Special.]—A woman's report that she heard two men talking of a plot to assassinate Prince and Princess Takamatsu of Japan led today to the doubling of the police guard when the royal couple arrived from Philadelphia.

Mrs. Clara Burrell, hostess of the Copley-Plaza hotel, told the police she overheard two men who sat in chairs in a side lobby speak of "assassination" and "Japanese prince."

She heard one man say: "How can we get them here? He has two bodyguards or more."

Two police cars rushed to the hotel, but just as they reached there the two men left the lobby and stepped into a taxi which sped toward the downtown district.

to the Jubilee committee of the Association of Commerce.

So far this office alone has enlisted thirty-one floats, forty bands, and twenty-four drum corps. It also received a pledge of support from E. J. Ryan, chairman of the business promotion committee of the South Side Chamber of Commerce.

Among the new offers were the following: A float from Metz men's shoe store, 78 West Washington street; a 120 piece drum corps and an 80 piece band, both of boys of the Morton High school, Cicero; four decorated trucks hauled by a tractor, of the International Harvester company; and fifty miniature pieces of fire apparatus, manned by 500 boys, members of the junior fire department, headed by Joseph Maloney.

Rail Passenger Rates Reduced.

That the Chicago Jubilee will make Chicago the Mecca for thousands of out-of-town visitors was shown by the announcement of Thomas Thompson of the Western Passenger association. According to Mr. Thompson, roundtrip passenger rates on the association roads will be reduced to one way fare plus one-third within a radius of 200 miles. Ticket sales will be from May 9 to May 16, with final return May 18. Similar action is expected from eastern roads today.

An invitation was sent yesterday to President Hoover to attend the Jubilee. This plan was announced several days ago in THE TRIBUNE. If the President cannot accept, Robert P. Lamont, secretary of commerce, probably will represent him and read a presidential message.

Educational and military organizations will participate in the Jubilee. President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern university praised the celebration and asserted it was time that Chicago proved to the world that it is a great industrial, commercial, and transportation center, and also a religious, hospital, and educational center. Northwestern will celebrate May day on May 14 on the campus, and this will be regarded as a phase of the Jubilee.

Naval Reserves to March.

From Capt. Edward A. Evers, head of the Illinois Naval Reserves, came word that he would turn out 500 men with rifles for the Jubilee parade. They will probably march behind the Great Lakes Naval Training station band, he said.

Support from the sanitary district was promised yesterday in a resolution praising the Jubilee. A committee of three will be named to direct the district's participation.

The latest offers of participation, received last night, included four choral groups and glee clubs from colored churches and associations. The American Legion also announced through William Schlepp, veterans' relief supervisor of Cook county, that eleven drum corps and two women's auxiliaries from the west side would participate.

Dr. John Dill Robertson, director of safety and traffic of the Motorists' Association of Illinois, announced yesterday that the corner stone of the organization's new $2,000,000 building at Michigan avenue and 24th street would be laid May 11. This date was selected over an earlier one to make the ceremony a part of the Jubilee. The building will be twenty-nine stories high and will include hotel quarters and a garage. Work will be begun immediately, said Dr. Robertson, in keeping with the material spirit of the Jubilee.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Unless it boasted a distinctly feminine phase, the Chicago Jubilee couldn't pretend to the success which now is assured. For the women are going to be in evidence almost everywhere, with some of the most important of the city's civic and social organizations discernible in the vanguard.

It is inevitable that thousands of women from other cities should throng to the downtown sections of Chicago for the duration of the Jubilee. For the parades, the air feats, the trade expositions, the style shows, the window displays of seasonable and rare merchandise, and the entertainment available in loop theaters. It is just as inevitable that leading women of the city should bid them welcome and extend the hospitality of a too much maligned metropolis.

Women's Clubs Lay Plans.

Prompt as always to uphold anything beneficial for Chicago, members of women's clubs having downtown headquarters already are deep in discussion of what to do and how to do it to help the guests of the municipality form a favorable opinion of Chicago. Elections of officers for next year, scheduled in several organizations for next week, are postponing the crystallization of enthusiasm into various plans, but tentative programs are already being advanced.

Some of the clubs in the loop district will probably decide to keep open house for visitors. Among other plans for the comfort and convenience of visiting women are the suggestions that prominent women serve on reception committees, that social afternoons be scheduled at various clubs, that information desks, guides, restrooms and correspondence facilities be provided, that musical programs be given, and art exhibits held.

They're All Interested.

Inquiry yesterday among the members of such large groups as the Alliance of Business and Professional Women, the Chicago Woman's club, the Chicago Woman's Aid, and the Woman's City club brought assurances of interest and the disposition to participate actively in the Chicago Jubile. Formal action of the business women awaits the calling of a board meeting next week to discuss ways and means of taking part, and the other clubs expect a change of officers before announcing their decisions.

"Personally I can say that I'm heartily in favor of the Chicago Jubilee and perfectly in accord with the spirit of it," Mrs. Murry Nelson, president of the Woman's City club, said yesterday at headquarters in the Tower building. "I think we shall have something to offer after a meeting next week."

"As soon as I can get our board together we will decide what we want to do—or, rather, what we can do," said Miss Elizabeth Eckert, head of the business women. "Meanwhile we're open to suggestions and will select the one that seems best for our purposes. We're all intensely interested."

THE HUB, 235 South State street, clothing—We will do our utmost to make the CHICAGO JUBILEE a success. The plan is a splendid move. THE TRIBUNE deserves high praise for assisting it. Details of our participation are to be worked out later.—George Lytton, president.

JERREMS, INC. (several stores), tailors—We heartily join the CHICAGO JUBILEE. It is a Jubilee, indeed, in which every real Chicagoan should participate. It will revive the old Chicago spirit that knew no obstacle and recognized no defeat. We will gladly coöperate and do everything we can to make this an outstanding week for Chicago.—Arthur W. Jerrems.

KRENN & DATO, INC., real estate—We ar every glad to lend our support toward the success of the CHICAGO JUBILEE. The city of Chicago has never had a better and more promising opportunity for real progress, growth and expansion in all branches of industry, commerce and culture. We feel that the Jubilee will mark the dividing line between the past and the future of greater and more worth while achievements.—Edward A. Dato.

MARINELLO SYSTEM OF BEAUTY CULTURE—There is no more appropriate time to open our new school than during the week of the CHICAGO JUBILEE. We believe the Jubilee will be one of the biggest moves to revive business in Chicago yet attempted.—Edward Sanders, manager.

ARTHUR T. MCINTOSH & CO., real estate—We think the CHICAGO JUBILEE is a mighty fine move. Every one in Chicago should coöperate in every way, as we expect to do.—E. T. Chalberg, general sales manager.

M'KEY & POAGUE, real estate—A natural attitude of confidence and optimism is finding expression in the CHICAGO JUBILEE. A crystalization of this feeling will prove to be a definite step toward a renewed prosperity.—George W. Kemp, president.

M'MENEMY & MARTIN, INC., real estate—You can count on our hearty coöperation in the CHICAGO JUBILEE. We are bullish on Chicago real estate.—Ward Martin, president.

MOLER SYSTEM OF COLLEGES, 512 North State street, barber colleges—Our business started with the jubilee of 1893, the Chicago World's Fair, and has continued ever since. We will do our share toward the present CHICAGO JUBILEE.—Arthur B. Moler, president.

SCHOENLANK & KIRSCHNER, real estate—We think the CHICAGO JUBILEE a wonderful movement. It will put lots of pep and ambition in our merchants. It will make Chicagoans and visitors, seeing our parks and boulevards, realize the possibilities of owning Chicago real estate. THE TRIBUNE deserves great credit.—Herbert H. Schoenlank, president.

THE 12TH STEET STORE, 1155 South Halsted street, department store—The CHICAGO JUBILEE is the first constructive move in the business world in two years. If it does nothing more than make people cheerful it will have worked wonders, as a general better humor will work for better business. We are in the band wagon.—Irving Klein.

WYLE HAT COMPANY (several stores)—Our hundred units will be right in line with the CHICAGO JUBILEE. Further, we intend to advertise the CHICAGO JUBILEE in our hundred stores throughout the country with the aim of bringing visitors to Chicago. — I. M. Joegel.

WOMAN BROKER FOUND GUILTY OF EMBEZZLEMENT

Mrs. Hilda Schroeder, former mortgage broker, was found guilty of embezzlement yesterday by a jury in Judge Charles A. Williams' Criminal court. She faces a sentence of 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary if her motion for a new trial, which will be heard Monday, is overruled.

Mrs. Schroeder, according to Assistant State's Attorney Wilkie Ham, has been accused of causing her clients to lose $650,000 by juggling of mortgages. She was tried only on the charge that she converted to her own use $4,215 intrusted to her by John Ouska. The prosecution has sixteen other indictments against her.

"We are not through yet," was the only comment of Mrs. Schroeder on the jury's verdict, which was returned after 40 minutes' deliberation.

AURORA OFFICIAL AND WIFE, PARTED 25 YEARS, REWED

George B. Hayward, 63 years old, a city commissioner of Aurora, who was reelected on Tuesday, announced yesterday that he had been remarried on March 10 at Salem, Ill., to his former wife, Mrs. Lydia Hayward.

The couple were divorced about 25 years ago. At that time Mrs. Hayward was considered one of Aurora's most beautiful women. Though legally separated for years, Mr. Hayward and his former wife remained good friends. He had visited her and was about to return home last March when he was caught in a snow storm and they decided then that a wedding planned for later in the year should take place at Salem.

Pending the election outcome, Mr. Hayward withheld announcement of his remarriage. Mr. Hayward had married again after his divorce, his second wife dying about a year ago.

$2,837,486 TAXES PAID ON THREE CHICAGO ESTATES

Springfield, Ill., April 23.—[Special.]—State Treasurer Barrett announced tonight that he had collected $2,837,486 in inheritance taxes on three large Chicago estates which will do much toward alleviating the state's financial difficulties.

The estates and the payments for each are: Ezra Fahrney estate, $500,000; Thomas D. Jones' estate, $1,237,486, and the Nettie Fowler McCormick estate, $1,100,000.

This sum will go far toward meeting the current pay rolls and paying interest on the waterway and soldiers' bonus bond issues which come due shortly, according to the treasurer.

SAVANT DIES AT SESSION TO HEAR OF 'IDEAL DEATH'

Dr. F. X. Dercum Stricken on Rostrum.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 23.—(AP)—The "ideal death" which men may expect a century hence came dramatically today to the famous neurologist, Dr. Francis X. Dercum, as he was in the act of opening a scientific meeting where this death of the future was predicted.

DR. F. X. DERCUM.

The forecast is that a man may expect to die unravaged by senility.

Dercum, 74, one of Woodrow Wilson's physicians, sitting as president of the American Philosophical society, faced a room well filled with distinguished scientists gathered for the annual meeting.

Carried Into Meeting.

He sat in the high backed "stepladder" chair of Benjamin Franklin, founder of this oldest scientific body in the United States. The stepladder is a folding arm, contrived by Franklin to use in climbing for books on high library shelves.

Dr. Dercum had been carried into the building ill with a weak heart, knowing that he faced death, kept alive, some of his friends said, partly by his great interest in presiding at this meeting, the seventh year of his presidency.

Seated, he directed the setting of some radio "mikes" and showed annoyance when a test momentarily cut in on a jazz tune. It was radio's first invasion of this ancient scientific gathering.

Sinks Quietly Into Death.

He seemed about to pick up the gavel and leaned slightly forward, as if studying papers on his desk. Then he sank so quietly into an attitude of rest in his chair that momentarily no one noticed.

Death came that moment, but this was not known until afterward. Friends and the audience thought he had fainted, and he was carried out.

Dr. Judson Daland, professor of medicine at the University of Pennsylvania graduate school, a friend who was present, attended Dr. Dercum immediately and said he had died in the chair.

"It was as easy and painless as this," he said, placing his fingertips on a friend's coat lapel and pressing lightly. "While he was working happily his heart stopped."

Program Carried Out.

After Dr. Daland's examination Prof. William Berryman Scott of Princeton university, a former president, took over the Franklin chair and said:

"Dr. Dercum is dead. The meeting will proceed as scheduled. He would have wished it to be so."

The society's annual dinner set for Saturday night was called off.

The "ideal death" was described by Lee K. Frankel of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company as part of the future in which man can look forward fairly soon to an average age of 70, and later perhaps to nearly 100. But more desirable than the lengthened span will be better health right up to the end. "A century of unimpaired usefulness" and then quick, painless death.

Jury Unable to Agree in Lot Sale Forgery Trial

When a jury after four hours of deliberation reported it could not agree, Judge Philip Finnegan yesterday declared a mistrial in the case of Fred L. Padden, brother of Judge Frank M. Padden, and Lawrence F. Parker, charged with forging a real estate deed. After four ballots the jurors stood 11 to 1 for conviction of Parker and 9 to 3 for conviction of Padden, it was reported by S. M. Campbell, foreman of the jury. The defendants were alleged to have forged a deed and sold a vacant lot on the north side. The real owner returned from California to find a 12 apartment building on his property.

MRS. RUTH WILDE SEEKS $3,600 FROM FORMER HUSBAND

Mrs. Ruth Williams Wilde of Libertyville filed a judgment petition with Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude yesterday to collect $3,600 from her former husband, Frederick A. Williams, wealthy New York manufacturer. She charges that this sum is now due her, representing monthly payments of $400 ordered for the support of a child, Margot, 6 years old, when she divorced Williams in November, 1928.

Mrs. Wilde was married to H. Hamilton Wilde three weeks after her divorce. Although her alimony of $100 a month ceased when she remarried, she contends that Williams has also refused to pay the support money ordered for the child. The case was continued until May 8.

Mrs. Wilde is a daughter of the late William K. Cowan, Chicago furniture dealer, who died in 1928, and has been an active member of the Junior league and other organizations.

HOUSE PETITION ASKS SECESSION OF COOK COUNTY

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 23.—[Special.]—Secession of Cook county from the rest of Illinois for the creation of a new state was asked of the legislature today in a petition filed in the house by Representative John C. Garriott Jr. [Rep., Chicago] in behalf of the Park Manor Improvement association, 7101 South Park avenue, Chicago. The petition was signed by the ten directors of the association.

JOHN C. GARRIOTT JR.

Replete with the phraseology of the magna charta and the bill of rights, the document had at its masthead the revolutionary war cry, "No Taxation Without Representation," and quoted copiously from the record of colonial times in substantiation of its point that the lack of legislative reapportionment is ground for separation from the commonwealth.

"Your petitioner," reads the message, "represents that there is a strong demand by the people of Cook county for reapportionment of the state into senatorial, Supreme court and congressional districts; for relief against unbearable taxation; for unification of local governments; for home rule and other matters; and that such matters can only be settled by amendment to, or revision of the constitution.

Cook County Big Taxpayer.

"Your petitioner further represents that of the thirty-five different state taxes, the greater part of which is paid by residents of Cook county, all of the proceeds of twenty-nine taxes go to the state of Illinois.

"Your petitioner further represents that it is not the ill-considered or inconsiderate zeal of a few; that it is not that impatience of power to which ambitious minds are prone, nor yet the baser consideration of personal interest which influences the people of Cook county elected by their superior motives, as they are incapable of cherishing a wish unfounded in justice, and are impelled by expending evils and irremediable grievances, universally seen, felt and acknowledged, to obey the irresistible dictates of self-preservation and seek for happiness by means honorable to themselves, honorable to you, and injurious to neither.

Invokes U. S. Constitution.

"Therefore, your petitioner prays that in accordance with article four, section three of the federal constitution your honorable body consent and that congress be petitioned for its consent to the formation and erection of a new state, to include that territory lying within the boundaries of Cook county; that you appoint a commission to determine what share of the indebtedness of the state that the inhabitants shall assume and that necessary legislation be enacted to grant the relief desired."

The petition was "placed on file," which is tantamount to oblivion.

SLAYER OF LINGLE CAUGHT; RELATE MORE OF DETAILS

Buster Becomes Bader; Is Trapped in Hotel.

CHAPTER XX.

With the net drawing ever closer around "Buster," the slayer of Alfred Lingle, Pat Roche and Charles Rathbun pinned their hopes of capturing the gangster almost entirely upon the information they were receiving from the detectives who maintained surveillance over the home and telephone wire of Benny Butler, south side gangster.

It has been shown that Buster talked with the wife of Benny Butler on the night of Dec. 19, when he and Butler were in a speakeasy at 224 North Dearborn street. Earlier Pat Hogan, gangster pal of Buster, who wanted to use Buster in newly planned crimes, had called from Excelsior Springs, Mo., and Mrs. Butler had transferred the call to the speakeasy.

Hold Buster in Readiness.

Late that night John Hagan, undercover man for Roche and Rathbun, who was with Hogan in Excelsior Springs, telephoned to the investigators that Hogan had talked with Butler at the speakeasy before Buster arrived there. Hogan told Butler to have Buster hold himself in readiness, and that he should leave for Excelsior Springs upon the receipt of a telegram from Hogan.

At 11 o'clock the next morning, Dec. 20, a call came from the Western Union to Butler.

WESTERN UNION—I have a telegram for you.

BUTLER—All right, read it.

BUTLER—All right.

Gets Information on Trains.

A few minutes later Mrs. Butler called Franklin 6700, which proved to be the information bureau of the Union station.

MAN—Information.

MRS. BUTLER—Does a train leave for Excelsior Springs tonight?

MAN—Yes, madam, at 6 p. m. Do you wish to make a reservation?

MRS. BUTLER—Yes.

MAN—I'll connect you with the reservations. . . . Please transfer this call to reservations.

WOMAN — Reservations, Union depot.

MRS. BUTLER—What is the fare to Excelsior Springs, Mo.?

WOMAN—One way or round trip?

Want One Way Ticket.

Mrs. Butler turned to man in the apartment and asked if one way or round trip. The man, undoubtedly Butler, replied, "No, one way."

MRS. BUTLER—One way.

WOMAN—We have Christmas rates $16.22 one way, lower berth $4.50. Do you want to make reservations now on the Southwest Limited?

MRS. BUTLER—Yes, please.

WOMAN—What name and what time will you get tickets?

MRS. BUTLER—I'll get the tickets at 5:45 p. m. [Asks man in apartment what name to give, and he replied, "Leo Bader."] The name is Leo Bader.

WOMAN—That will be lower 8, car 26, madam.

MRS. BUTLER—Thank you.

Chance for a Capture.

Here was material for a coup d'état! Buster was to take a train for Excelsior Springs at 6 o'clock, and Rathbun and Roche were in possession of the car number and the berth he would occupy!

And there was another important fact disclosed. The minds of the investigators harked back to the conversation on the afternoon of Dec. 19, when Pat Hogan had asked Benny Butler to "have Buster ready," and 38 minutes later had called Kenwood 3675 and asked for "Mr. Bader."

"Mr. Bader" was "Buster"! Kenwood 3675 must be the telephone number of his home. Inquiry revealed that the number was that of the Lake Crest Drive apartments at 4827 Lake Park avenue.

But more pressing than this was the question of whether Buster should be arrested on the Southwest Limited, which was on the Milwaukee road. It was reasoned that the same objections to attempting an arrest in the Lake Crest Drive apartment building applied as they had to the previous plan for seizing him, under the name of George Friedlander, in the Riviera hotel. Indeed, there was some confusion as to whether Friedlander, in the one hotel, and Bader, in the other, were the same man. There was no doubt that Bader was Buster, but what of Friedlander?

The story of how after hours of planning, a trap for Buster was laid in the Pullman coach No. 26, on the Southwest Limited, about berth No. 8, has previously been told, at the time of the announcement of the capture of the slayer of Lingle.

Wrong Man Is Caught.

Briefly, two of Roche's investigators, with two representatives of THE TRIBUNE, were planted in the car, posing as travelers. A man entered space No. 8, and in a twinkling his arms were pinioned and he was caught. But he was the wrong man! He had been misdirected by a baggage porter into the wrong space.

The berth reserved for Bader never was claimed, and a search of the train after it left the depot failed to disclose any one resembling the description of the Lingle slayer. The investigators returned to the Temple building headquarters, heavy hearted, and fearful that somehow Buster had been warned of the trap set for him; that he might have witnessed the "capture" of the wrong man, or that he might have taken other transportation to Excelsior Springs. There was no other train.

Why He Did Not Go.

The gloom was soon dispelled by a report from the detectives watching the Butler apartment. They said Mrs. Butler had called "Lil" at Triangle 9011 at 8:45 p. m. "Lil" appeared to be a relative of Benny Butler, and the gangster was there, asleep.

MRS. BUTLER—Did Buster call Benny there?

LIL—No, nobody called him.

MRS. BUTLER—He was supposed to leave at 6 o'clock. I suppose he didn't hear from Ben. Well, he can go tomorrow.

LIL—Gee, that's too bad.

MRS. BUTLER—Maybe he didn't come over. I left a note on the mail box for him, but it was still there when I came home. See you later. Goodby.

At 9:20 p. m. the same night, Dec. 20, Buster called Butler on the telephone, and a full explanation was given:

BUSTER—Benny, this is Buster.

BUTLER—Where have you been? You are supposed to be on a train for Excelsior Springs. I got a telegram.

BUSTER—Well, I tried to get you but no one answered.

BUTLER—I know we were out and I thought you would come over and we left a note for you.

BUSTER—I couldn't make it.

BUTLER—Where are you now?

Reads Him the Telegram.

BUTLER—Wait, I'll read the telegram. . . . I can't find it now, but it said send Buster to Excelsior Springs and have him register at the Schnapp hotel, signed Pat.

BUSTER—Under what name?

BUTLER—Under Bader, the name you use.

BUSTER—Gee, I can't make it.

BUTLER—What's the matter? Are you broke?

BUSTER—I got $25, but I owe the hotel.

BUTLER—Come on over here and I'll give you $30, the fare is only $16.50, we called up.

Says He'll Get There.

BUSTER—Well, I got to send them a night letter or telegram. I'll get there somehow. Let's see, that's in that same state, only 70 miles from Kansas City. ["That same state" meant Missouri, and Buster was wanted for murder in that state, in St. Louis.]

BUTLER—Well, are you coming over?

BUSTER — I don't know. What name did he sign?

BUTLER—Just Pat.

BUSTER—Well, I'll let you know what I'll do.

Buster Sends Telegram.

Forty minutes later came another call from Buster.

BUTLER—O, yes.

BUSTER—You know I know a lot of people down there. [There were some police officials who knew Buster, too, and wanted him.] But I'll go anyway. I can leave on the early train.

BUTLER—What time does it leave?

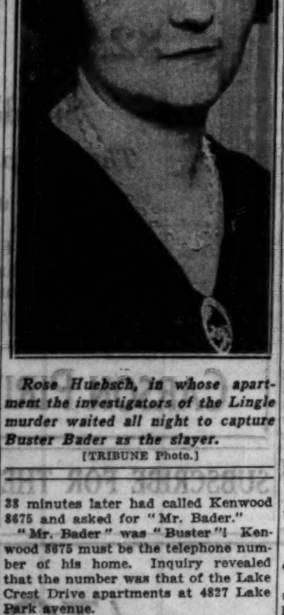
BUTLER—All right, Buster.

Six o'clock in the morning, Buster had said, but inquiry proved there was no train at that hour. Here was a puzzler!



Rose Huebsch, in whose apartment the investigators of the Lingle murder waited all night to capture Buster Bader as the slayer.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

STROKE OF FORTUNE

Then came that incredible stroke of fortune that spelled the end of freedom for Buster. This story, too, has been told before. Roche sat in his office, slouched in his chair, thinking. His mind ran to the Lake Crest drive apartments, and suddenly he thought of a young woman who lived in that neighborhood, a Miss Rose Huebsch, who had been his secretary when he was a government agent.

A glance in the telephone book and it was revealed that she lived in the same building! Miss Huebsch came downtown at Roche's request; she heard the story, and then returned to her apartment building to see if a "Leo Bader" was registered as a tenant.

Miss Huebsch called back, in high excitement, and said that Bader occupied apartment 410, and that this was directly opposite her own apartment, 411. What a coincidence! The fates were uncommon kind this night.

She was asked to watch Bader's door, which was easily done by peering through her own pantry door, left slightly ajar. The pantry door opened directly upon the hall corridor. Soon she reported that a man had entered Bader's room, and she described him: Tall, blond wavy hair, well set up, piercing eyes that seemed cruel to Miss Huebsch's glance.

It was the description of the slayer of Lingle! Never before had any one reporting to the Lingle staff ever seen Buster, and here was additional evidence added to what was already a certainty: That Buster was the slayer.

Roche and Rathbun led their men to the Huebsch apartment, and from 11 o'clock on the night of the 20th of December until 10 o'clock the next morning—11 hours—seven men and Miss Huebsch kept the vigil, watching every minute through that narrow slit in the pantry door for the door across the way, No. 410, to open.

Wanted Him Taken Quietly.

At any time during those 11 hours the customary police method of pounding on Bader's door, demanding entrance, might have been employed, but it was feared the gangster might attempt to shoot his way to freedom. This would arouse the other occupants of the apartment hotel, and it was the intention of Rathbun and Roche, if possible, to get Buster quietly, so that the investigation might go on without his friends being aware, and launching movements to free him from custody.

There was another reason for not considering the crashing of Bader's door. If he started shooting it would be necessary to kill him, and at all costs the investigators wanted to take the killer of Lingle alive.

Decide to Use Ruse.

It was thought that at 5 o'clock Bader might arise to catch a train at 6 o'clock. But he did not come forth. At 10 o'clock, weary from the hours of waiting under a tenseness such as none of the watchers had ever borne before, it was decided to get Bader out by a ruse.

A message was sent to Bader, by the house telephone, telling him to call "Benny" at once. It was known that Buster had no outside telephone in his room, and would be compelled to go to the lobby of the hotel to make the call. The message came back that Bader would call Benny in 5 minutes.

Finally his door opened. When he had stepped into the hall and closed his door behind him, the lookout signaled to Roche and the others, and they dashed into the hall, called to Bader to "stick 'em up," and before he had time to think twice, handcuffs were clasped around his wrists.

It was all done so quickly, and so quietly, that no one in the building was aroused. A search of Bader's room disclosed a .45 automatic pistol, loaded and cocked, ready for use. The prisoner was hustled out of the hotel, by a rear stairway, and to a waiting automobile which whisked him to the downtown hotel in which the investigators had established a secret headquarters.

The killer of Alfred Lingle was in custody!

So cleverly had the capture been effected that no outsiders, least of all the gangster's pals, learned of his arrest until it was announced.

In Excelsior Springs, Pat Hogan was confidently awaiting the arrival of Buster, who was to join him in new crime, and when Buster did not arrive he was mystified. He telephoned to the home of Benny Butler at 12:57 on the afternoon of Dec. 21 and talked with Mrs. Butler.

HOGAN—Hello, hello.

MRS. BUTLER—Paddy, Benny is not home.

HOGAN—Did he get my telegram?

Wants Him to Start.

MRS. BUTLER—Yes, he did, and Buster was to leave last night. We made reservations for him on the 6 o'clock train, but he never called Ben until it was too late.

HOGAN—Do you know where I can reach Buster?

MRS. BUTLER—No, but Ben does.

HOGAN—Well, I tell you, tell Benny to get in touch with Buster and have him leave tonight. Tell him to register at the Schnapp hotel and ask for Mr. Baker. How did Danny come out?

MRS. BUTLER—He's held over. I'll get Benny right away.

Tries to Locate Benny.

Mrs. Butler then called Triangle 9011 and was told that Benny had just left for the home of Danny Stanton's mother. She called there and left word for Butler to call her back and at 1:10 p. m. he called her.

BUTLER—What's up?

MRS. BUTLER—Patsy just called from Excelsior Springs and wants you to get a hold of Buster and send him right down.

BUTLER—All right.

MRS. BUTLER—Should I get dinner started?

BUTLER—No, let it go. If Buster calls give him that information. I'll call you later.

At 6:40 p. m. Butler was still trying to locate Buster. He called Midway 10016; talked with Ernie, and said if Buster came in to have him call him right away. But Buster didn't call. Little did Butler dream that at the time his pal Buster was undergoing questioning by Charles Rathbun and Pat Roche.

Butler Gets a "Job."

The next day, Dec. 22, Butler evidently had a "job" of his own to busy him. At 6:30 p. m. a man called him.

MAN—How it is?

BUTLER—Okay. What's new?

MAN—We have to work tonight.

BUTLER—Bill Iverson and his wife are coming over tonight, so where is the job at?

MAN—It is close enough so we will be back in an hour.

MAN—No.

BUTLER—Well, call me back in an hour and let me know where it is.

MAN—Okay.

At 8:15 p. m. Hogan called again.

BUTLER—Yes.

HOGAN—Where is he?

BUTLER—I got in touch with him and told him to come over and I would give him some money to get down there.

HOGAN—I sent him some money. Where in the hell is he?

BUTLER—I don't know. Maybe he is on his way down there now. I called up Danny Sullivan and Little Jimmy and they don't know where he is.

HOGAN—Well, if he don't show up in a day or so I will get somebody else to do the job. But try to get hold of him.

BUTLER—I will try again and let you know one way or the other. I will send a telegram.

Hogan Calls Again.

At 10:10 the same night, Hogan, evidently growing anxious, called again.

HOGAN—Did you get in touch with him?

BUTLER—No. I called two or three places and it didn't do any good.

HOGAN—Well, I will call you tomorrow and see if there is anything new.

BUTLER—Well, can I get in touch with you?

HOGAN—No, I will call you.

BUTLER—All right, and if I get in touch with him what should I tell him?

HOGAN—Tell him to keep in touch with you and I will call and tell you more tomorrow.

BUTLER—Okay. Be careful.

On the next day Butler sent a telegram to Excelsior Springs, addressed to "Mr. Baker, Schnapp hotel." It read:

"Could not locate Buster. Could not wire last night. BENNY."

At 6:40 p. m. on Dec. 23, Butler got another call which seemed to evidence his connections with thieves.

MAN—Hello, how is it?

BUTLER—Not so good. Who is it?

MAN—This is Roy. Where were you this p. m.? I called three times.

BUTLER—I was sleeping. I did not get in till 5 a. m. Did you do anything last night?

MAN—Yes.

BUTLER—In the city?

MAN—No.

BUTLER—Up north?

MAN—No.

BUTLER—O, that job out west?

MAN—No, it was—well, I will tell you later.

BUTLER—I am going to the show tonight.

MAN—I am going over to the joint.

BUTLER—Well, I'll see you later.

During this time, of course, Hagan was with Hogan, and had been informed by Roche of the capture of Buster. But Hagan never dropped even a hint that something of the sort might have happened. He wanted to maintain his connection with Hogan, on the chance that the latter might make some new moves, after Hogan learned of the capture of his pal, which would be of aid to Roche and Rathbun.

Then, by chance, the Schnapp hotel was held up, and although Hogan had no connection with this crime, he became fearful that he might be arrested and would be exposed as a fugitive from New York. He decided to leave Excelsior Springs.

John Hagan told Hogan he was returning to Chicago, and he told Hogan to keep in touch with him. Hogan said he was going back to St. Louis, and with this understanding they departed.

SHELDON GETS ARSENAL BACK; BUT IS IN JAIL

Los Angeles, Cal., April 23.—[Special.]—Ralph Sheldon, Chicago gunman who last Saturday was acquitted of assault with intent to murder a Long Beach policeman and two days later was jailed on perjury charges growing out of his testimony, tonight was in county jail, but was there with legal title to one high power rifle, threaded for a silencer; one automatic pistol, one sawed off shotgun, and three submachine gun stocks.

OFFERS REVISED ILLINOIS LAW ON CORPORATIONS

Is Work of Bar, Labor and Several Other Bodies.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 23.—[Special.]—A new general act in relation to corporations for pecuniary profit, to supplant the act of 1919, is proposed in a bill introduced in the senate today by Senator Arthur A. Huebsch [Rep., Brookfield].

SENATOR A. A. HUEBSCH. [Du Bois Photo.]

The revised draft, which carries the title, "The Business Corporation Act," was prepared by a general committee on revision of Illinois corporation law. It embraced representatives of the bar associations of Chicago and of Illinois, the law schools, the Illinois Society of Public Accountants, real estate boards, the state federation of labor, the Illinois Manufacturers' association, and the Chicago Association of Commerce. Its chairman is M. B. Kennedy, and that of the drafting committee is Fletcher Lewis, both of Chicago.

Its Purposes Declared.

The declared purpose of the proposed revised act is "to facilitate the administration of corporate affairs and to meet such requirements of modern business corporations as are consistent with sound principles of corporate practice and finance, and at the same time to give proper protection to the rights of shareholders and corporate creditors.

"This has been accomplished without violating the traditional conservatism of this state that forbids the use of our corporation laws for illegitimate purposes or merely to increase the revenue of the state," it is further stated.

Senator Huebsch pointed out that in sixty years there has been only one general revision of the Illinois statutes relating to corporations. The first comprehensive statute under the 1870 constitution was in 1872. This was supplanted by the revised act of 1919.

"It has been apparent for some time," said Senator Huebsch, "that the existing laws do not meet the requirements of present day business or of modern methods of sound corporate financing.

Handicapped by Present Act.

"Corporations organized under Illinois laws have been unnecessarily hampered in the conduct of their business. Many corporations organized under the laws of other states have been prevented from doing business in Illinois. Members of the bar too often have found it necessary to advise their clients to incorporate under the laws of other states, to avoid inadequate and burdensome provisions.

"This has resulted in an unnecessary loss to business, to shareholders of corporations, to investors in securities and in revenue to the state."

KISS STORY DENIED

MRS. BESSIE THOMAS.

Kansas City, Mo., April 23.—(AP)—The Rev. James Cornish, 52 year old grandfather, denied from the witness stand today that he had stolen a kiss from Mrs. Bertha Thomas, former choir singer and Sunday school teacher, who is seeking $5,000 damages for the alleged incident.

The Great Bend, Kas., pastor told the jury his first knowledge of the kissing charge came when he was invited to the Thomas home and there accused of forcing his attentions upon the 37 year old matron by her husband.

He repeated what he said was his conversation at the time.

"It is a falsehood. You can't blackmail me," Mr. Cornish said he told his accuser. The minister, then pastor of a Christian church here, said the accusation was made six weeks after the date upon which Mrs. Thomas has declared she was kissed while discussing church affairs in Mr. Cornish's study.

The $30,000 "hot dog stand" which James Murray plans to operate when he is released on parole from Atlanta penitentiary on May 26, was looked over yesterday by federal probation officers. Murray, whose 25 year sentence for participation in the $2,000,000 Rondout mail robbery of 1924 was commuted to 12 years, making him eligible for parole, will not be permitted to turn his hot dog stand into a roadhouse, the officials said. The two story stand is at Harlem and North avenues.

SECRET LETTER STIRS FAMILY OF MISSING DOCTOR

St. Louis, Mo., April 23.—[Special.]—Indications were tonight that Dr. Isaac D. Kelley Jr, reported kidnaped last Monday night, has established his first contact with his wife and friends through the medium of a letter from him, presumably from Chicago in which he set forth that he is being held for a ransom of not less than $100,000 and that, as yet, he is unharmed.

Reports that such a letter was to be received by Mrs. Kelley between 5 and 6 o'clock tonight were obtained this afternoon. Reporters at the Kelley residence, 33 Portland place, checking on this information, learned that a letter written in pencil and in longhand was delivered by a special delivery messenger at 5:45 o'clock this afternoon.

Immediately upon receipt of the letter the several attorneys who have acted as Mrs. Kelley's advisers since the physician's disappearance went into conference, the nature of which they declined to discuss. A deduction advanced is that the letter was from Dr. Kelley, in which he detailed the demands made by his abductors and gave instructions, at least of a preliminary nature, as to how his release might be effected.

With the first contact apparently established, the procedure by which this large sum of money is to be obtained is a matter with which the family is now immediately concerned. It is known that as soon as it was agreed that Dr. Kelley had been kidnaped Mrs. Kelley got into communication by trans-Atlantic cable with her two sisters in Paris. They are Mrs. Birch O. Mahaffey of St. Louis and Mrs. Balfour Stuart Craib of New York. A third sister is Mrs. William D. Orthwein II. of St. Louis. All four sisters are daughters of the late William Cullen McBride, oil magnate.

SPAIN'S REPUBLIC CALLS ELECTIONS FOR PARLIAMENT

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, April 23.—The provisional government of the Spanish republic tonight decided to go ahead with utmost speed to permit the people to determine what form of government they want, because, after all, it was their revolution.

Elections for a constitutional parliament will be held on Thursday, June 21, or a week later, depending on what life the provisional government can inject into the electoral machinery inherited from the monarchy. The elected parliament will select the type of government to rule Spain and to succeed the present régime of Provisional President Alcala Zamora.

Alfonso's Last Chance.

The monarchists, as well as the republicans, will be represented in the elections, as will all shades of political opinion. It is pointed out that, should the monarchists win, King Alfonso XIII. would restore the monarchy. Likewise, if the republicans are victorious, a regular constitutional republic will be established.

Rejecting the counsel of those who wanted to see the republic's drastic program enacted entirely by decree, the government, by calling the elections, takes the path of prudence and avoids the charge of substituting a new tyranny for the old one.

The elections will be held according to the old electoral law, the only modification being the lowering of the legal voting age from 25 to 23 years. This gives Spain's youth, which is overwhelmingly republican, a chance to speak its mind.

Expect Spain to Repeat Self.

It is presumed that the general elections will confirm the previous republican victory at the municipal elections, but Alfonso refuses to abdicate or renounce his rights until the people have spoken their mind in June.

The decision to go to the polls at once is generally conceded to give the enemies of the monarchy a greater advantage than if they waited for whatever Bourbon sympathy that is left to organize itself.

ALFONSO'S AUNT DIES

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 23.—Infanta Marie Isabella Francois, 79 year old aunt of King Alfonso, died here this afternoon, the first member of the Spanish royal family to die in exile. The French nuns tending her in the quiet hospital in the narrow, crooked street in East Paris tonight indignantly said:

"She died as a direct result of her fatiguing flight from Madrid. Her journey into exile killed her. She died from a pulmonary congestion induced by her long, hard and sudden trip which her already paralyzed body was unable to endure."

Watched over by her sister, Infanta Eulalie, and Infanta Beatriz, sister of Queen Marie of Rumania, Isabella mumbled prayers shortly before her death through paralyzed lips from time to time. Preserving consciousness to the end, the woman, beloved by all Spain, succumbed peacefully.

Victoria Speeds to Hospital.

Queen Victoria with her two daughters and two sons arrived from the suburb Fontainebleau too late to see her alive. They mourned at her bedside until late afternoon and then returned to their new home. Alfonso was notified immediately.

Infanta Isabella had long been a sufferer from spinal trouble and was confined to her bed when the royal family fled Madrid last week. Alfonso, aware of her great popularity in Spain and that she would not be harmed, left her in the care of Infanta Beatriz. He expected her to follow the family to France later.

But the aged infanta, still ailing, insisted that she would not remain in Spain. She packed up last Monday and was carried to the train in Madrid on a stretcher.

The infanta was banished from Spain once before. Her mother, Queen Isabella, was dethroned in 1868 and she left the country during the brief life of the republic. Infanta Isabella was married to Gaetan, prince of Bourbon, in the same year. He died three years later.

Alfonso to Cut Visit Short.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 23.—Informed of the death of his aged aunt, Isabella, in Paris, Alfonso de Bourbon tonight shut himself up in the privacy of his hotel suite to mourn her passing. He declined to make a statement. It is believed he will leave for Paris tomorrow to assist in making the funeral arrangements.

Earlier in the day Alfonso had taken a short auto ride with his chamberlain, the duke of Miranda.

Several left wing Laborites heckled Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson in the house of commons this afternoon over the admission of the fallen monarch into England. He was asked why other foreigners, such as Leon Trotzky, Russian exile, had been excluded.

The hecklers were told there was no reason to treat Alfonso differently than when he came to England on previous visits. It was pointed out that he was an ordinary visitor and not a refugee.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 23.—[Special.]—Salvador de Madariaga, whose appointment as Spanish ambassador to the United States was announced in Madrid by the new government, will be acceptable to the United States, it was indicated in administration circles.

It was said that caustic criticisms of American policy and activities written by the new ambassador in articles published in the past most likely will be ignored.

All indications today were that the state department, now that it has accorded diplomatic recognition to the new Spanish republic, is eager to avoid any rift in the relations between the two governments.

There will be no necessity of re-accrediting Irwin B. Laughlin as American ambassador to Spain, state department officials said today. When American recognition was extended to the new government yesterday it was not known whether Mr. Laughlin would be required to present new credentials, in view of the fact that he had been accredited to the Alfonso government.

The decision to have the ambassador continue as though there had been a mere transfer of authority from one administration to another under normal conditions was due in part to an understanding that this would accord with the wishes of the provisional government. Mr. Laughlin has continued to act as ambassador since the Alfonso régime fell.

Flee to Mountains with Troops in Pursuit.

[Copyright: 1931: By the Associated Press.]

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, April 23.—Federal troops turned back the rebel forces today in a desperate battle at Chamelecon, driving the enemy out of the area and saving the railhead at San Pedro Sula, not far away.

In the past two days that sector has seen the most vicious fighting since the rebellion began. The rebels attacked once, were repulsed; attacked again and were driven off, then spent all they had in the battle today.

Plan to Pursue Rebels.

Railway communications between San Pedro Sula and Puerto Cortes were resumed today and the federal forces, leaving a guard for the line, prepared to press their advantage. The government is claiming important victories all along the line, but the losses at Chamelecon have not been estimated. Yesterday 29 men were killed and many wounded in a series of minor engagements along the north coast, where the rebels succeeded in paralyzing wire communications with Tegucigalpa.

A strong group of rebels were reported in advices from San Salvador to have been captured and interned by Salvadorean authorities when they attempted to invade Honduras from that point. Under the leadership of Ladislao Vasquez and Pedro R. Ordonez, they were said to have been planning an attack on the Valle district near Fonseca bay.

The rebels defeated at Chamelecon were routed to the mountains and the government said they were now believed to be heading for the interior, possibly for the Indian territory around Intibuca and Quimvagley. Government advices were that they were led by Gen. Ferrera. They were being pursued by a large number of government troops.

Rebel Groups Cleared Out.

According to information from the general staff, all rebel groups now have been cleared out of the Cores area. They were believed to have abandoned the hope of attacking San Pedro Sula.

President Vicente Mejia Colindres, alluding today to the attitude of the two major political parties in Honduras toward the rebellion, gave the following statement:

"Liberals of the republic, especially in the zone affected by the rebellion, spontaneously and unconditionally offered their coöperation to the government as soon as the revolt broke out. They offered their blood and their property to help quash the revolution.

"Nationalists also have offered their support and some of their most distinguished persons, such as Gen. Martinez Funes, have volunteered to assist."

Reports Revolts Fading Out.

Washington, D. C., April 23.—(AP)—Conditions along the east coasts of Honduras and Nicaragua were described as quiet today in a report to the navy department from Rear Admiral Arthur St. Clair Smith, chief of the special service squadron. Despite rebel activities in Honduras and movements of Sandino bands in Nicaragua, Smith's message said work was being resumed on farms. Naval forces in Nicaraguan waters were augmented by the arrival at Puerto Cabezas of the aircraft carrier Langley and destroyers Schenck and Dupont.

CHICAGOAN TRADES NEWS ON RADIO WITH YANKS IN NICARAGUA

Trading the daily baseball scores for the latest news of the guerilla leader, Augusto Sandino, in the Nicaraguan earthquake area has become the nightly pastime of Fred H. Schnell, Chicago radio operator. Schnell's station in the bedroom of his home at 4915 North Sawyer avenue, the most powerful in Chicago, recently has become a clearing house for communication between the United States marines stationed near the ruined town of Managua and their relatives and friends in this country.

For about three hours regularly each night the Chicago operator, who is technical adviser to the Chicago police on radio matters and chief of staff of the Radio and Television institute, maintains direct communication with a shack erected by the marines about 2 miles south of Managua.

Such personal messages as, "Ask the wife how the bank account is," "Love to the girl in St. Louis," "The heat and the beer down here are rotten," are typed by Schnell and sent to their destinations in this country. In return for this service and summaries of the news, the marine operators take time off from hunting the bandits to discuss the situation in Nicaragua.

PUBLISHERS VOTE TO WAGE WAR ON "UNFAIR" RADIO

Legality of Advertising to Be Investigated.

New York, April 23.—[Special.]—The American Newspaper Publishers association, at its forty-fifth annual convention at the Hotel Pennsylvania today voted to take direct action toward curbing the allegedly unfair competition of the radio with newspapers.

Three resolutions were adopted. The first instructed the directors of the organization "to investigate the question of the legality of radio broadcasting of direct advertising under exclusive government franchise of twelve lengths in competition with other advertising media not enjoying similar government protection."

This was interpreted as a move toward possible action against the radio combines under the anti-trust laws.

Want Pay for Space.

A second resolution stated that "Whereas, with few exceptions, radio programs as published in newspapers relate solely to advertising in one form or another therefore, be it resolved that such programs if published should be handled as paid advertising."

This same resolution further instructed the organization's radio committee to take up with the Associated Press and other news gathering organizations the question of the broadcasting of news reports, with the object of confining broadcasting of such reports to press associations and newspapers and bringing about proper regulation of such news broadcasting by press associations and newspapers.

The third resolution indorsed the efforts of its committee on federal laws to impose upon radio stations the same restrictions regarding lottery advertising now applying to newspapers.

Amendment Indorsed.

The convention also indorsed in principal the following amendment offered by the committee on federal laws to the radio bill:

"No program of any kind containing any advertisement of any lottery, gift enterprise, or scheme of any kind offering any prizes dependent in whole or in part upon lot or chance or containing any list of prizes known or awarded by means of any such lottery, shall be broadcast by any station operating under a license of the United States.

"Whoever shall knowingly broadcast or cause to be broadcast in violation of the provisions of this section or shall knowingly deliver by mail or otherwise shall be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned not more than two years or both. Any radio station which broadcasts anything herein forbidden shall have its license revoked in addition to the penalties heretofore specified.

Discussions Are Lengthy.

The adoption of these three resolutions followed long discussion by the members. The instructions to bar radio programs listing and to support action against alleged lotteries were adopted unanimously.

The other resolution, offered by George E. Graff of the Williamsport, Pa., Sun, calling for a study of the legality of radio broadcasting of direct advertising, was adopted by a large majority, in the face of vigorous opposition by some of the members who were averse to what they considered a direct attack upon radio. The directors of the organization were instructed by the resolution to report their findings to the association.

In the discussion which preceded adoption of the resolution, Col. R. R. McCormick of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE declared that "radio has certain advantages over newspapers of which it cannot be deprived."

"We can stop no public speaker from using this instrument, nor can we compete with broadcasting of athletic events," Col. McCormick continued. "In items of startling interest broadcasting has taken first place and newspapers must occupy the second, beyond that, how great is the value of the radio in the dissemination of news? If broadcasting of news could be forbidden by law, I do not think any radio station would suffer very much, because the basis of radio's appeal is music.

Not Good Advertising Buy.

"Everybody wants cheap advertising. The cheapest that he can get it by buying an hour on the air and getting his program advertised free in almost every newspaper in the United States. Radio itself is not a good advertising buy, but the matter in newspapers about radio programs is a good buy.

"I suggest that we do not allow broadcasters to collect cash for advertisements we are giving their clients."

Other publishers who spoke on the radio situation were J. D. Barnum, Syracuse Post-Standard; George E. Graft, Williamsport [Pa.] Sun; W. F. Wiley, Cincinnati Inquirer; A. Schaefer, the Fort Wayne Journal-Gazette; E. Q. Boddy, Los Angeles Daily News; Frank E. Tripp, Gannett newspapers; O. S. Warden, Great Falls [Mont.] Tribune; Walter A. Strong, Chicago Daily News; Harry Haines, Paterson [N. J.] Daily News; Charles H. Taylor, Boston Globe; Hilton U. Brown, Indianapolis News; and H. Ponting, Detroit News.

The convention today accepted the report of its open shop committee which vigorously opposed the five day week. A resolution adopted in 1929 condemning the five day week plan as uneconomical was reaffirmed by today's session.

SCHWAB PLEADS FOR SYMPATHY IN MANAGEMENT

Never More "Optimistic" About Business.

New York, April 23.—(AP)—A plea for sympathetic, humane management in American industry was made tonight by Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board of Bethlehem Steel corporation, at a dinner of the bureau of advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers' association.

Management, Mr. Schwab said, is "the most important leg" of the three-legged stool of big business. The other two legs, he said, represent capital and labor.

"I am proud of my reputation of being an optimist," Mr. Schwab said. "Never in my life have I been more optimistic of this country's prosperity than today. Industry is just as romantic and just as full of poetry as anything else in the world, but business must have a soul, in the form of sound, intelligent management, to be successful.

Best Brains Required.

"In the great mergers which are taking place all about us the best brains that can possibly be obtained must be employed, and the men who do get the job must have the interest of the business at heart, and, to some extent, the spirit of individual ownership of the old days.

"Let us have less legislation and less announcement of plans for future prosperity, and let us drop this political talk that the President or any one else is responsible for this depression.

Urges Concentration.

"Instead, let us go to our own offices and concentrate on our particular job. Whatever we do in business, good management will insure its success; so approve and encourage your workers. We can't conduct big business with a peanut point of view. We must have big men and we must have humane and sympathetic management.

"Laugh when you can and be as happy as you can, and find your chief pleasure in life in the completion of the task you have set for yourself to do."

TAXPAYERS TOLD NOT TO DELAY IN HOPE OF FUNDING

County Attorney Hayden Bell yesterday warned taxpayers not to withhold payment of their 1929 taxes, which are now due, in anticipation that the tax collection will be postponed and funded through a bond issue.

Mr. Bell said that he doubted the legality of the bills now pending in the legislature to permit funding of the taxes and declared, furthermore, that funding of the 1929 taxes would be an impossibility since about $20,000,000 of the taxes have already been collected. After May 15, he pointed out, all taxpayers who are delinquent, will be penalized one per cent of their bill for each month that the bill remains unpaid.

NEWSPAPERS HAILED AS BEST AD MEDIUM FOR MOTION PICTURES

San Francisco, Cal., April 23.—(AP)—Newspaper advertising has been and will continue to be the backbone of motion picture campaigns, Charles E. McCarthy, head of the advertising department of the Paramount-Publix corporation, told the company's international convention here today.

"There is no better medium than the newspaper for advertising a specific attraction for a specific time and place," McCarthy said. "Careful surveys have proved the terrific drawing power of an attractive advertisement. Because of this Paramount-Publix will increase its appropriations for newspaper space next season to the highest point in the company's history."

George Akerson, former secretary to President Hoover, now an executive of the corporation, said motion pictures were salesmen extraordinary, "selling America universally."

HOUSE PASSES BILL FOR U. S. FOREST UNITS

Springfield, Ill., April 23.—[Special.]—The bill to give the federal government the right to acquire lands in Illinois for the establishment of national forest units passed the house of representatives today. It was introduced by Representative William Z. Black [Rep., Champaign].

Units have already been established in Minnesota, Michigan, and Wisconsin and a representative of the government toured southern Illinois several weeks ago, reporting that there are several hundred thousand acres there which would be fit for the purpose. No request has yet been made for purchase.

3 Girls Charge Man of 80 with Attacking Them

Ole Nielson, 80 years old, 3256 East 136th street, was held to the grand jury by Judge Matthew Hartigan yesterday on three charges of rape. The complainants were three girls, sisters, one 14, one 15, and the other 16 years old. They asserted that he had hired them to work in his home and then attacked them. Another charge that the octogenarian was the father of the child of one of the girls was continued to June 10.

WILLIAM OBEE TO HEAD BOARD OF LAKE COUNTY

The board of supervisors of Lake county yesterday held its annual reorganization meeting, the first since the election, and by unanimous vote chose William J. Obee of Deerfield township as chairman of the board. He succeeds Harry Stratton. During eleven years of service with the board of commissioners Obee has been a member of each of the 34 committees. On April 29 the committee on committees will appoint all committee members.

WOMAN SHOOTS HUSBAND; CLERK WOUNDS HIS WIFE

3 in Hospitals After Rows in 2 Families.

CRIMINAL COURT.

James Stewart, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary; Martin Manchovsky, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary; John Tramer, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary; Joseph Loncalo, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in Pontiac reformatory; Stanley Bakata, larceny, sentenced to 2 years in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Joseph Burke.

Quarrels in two families ended in violence yesterday. An Oak Park husband attacked his wife with a hammer and then tried to commit suicide and a Chicago wife shot her husband.

The family affrays involved William E. Thon, 54 years old, of 1015 North Hayes avenue, Oak Park, his wife, Elizabeth, 49 years old, and Mrs. Vera Stevens, 23 years old, who shot and perhaps fatally wounded her husband, Clarence, in their home at 1610 Wilson avenue.

According to Oak Park police, Thon, a clerk for the Standard Oil company in its Chicago offices, believed that his wife was about to become a mother. Staying home from work yesterday as the result of a quarrel, he seized a hammer and struck his wife over her head, fracturing her skull. He then slashed his own throat with a butcher knife. The wife's screams attracted neighbors, who called the police. The couple was removed to the West Suburban hospital, where it was said they would recover.

Mrs. Stephens told the police that her husband, a dispatcher for the Chicago Motor Coach company, came home intoxicated and started to abuse her. Finally, she said, she obtained a pistol and shot him three times in the body. She immediately called the police and told what she had done. Her husband, meanwhile, insisted that he had shot himself. He was taken to the Ravenswood hospital where it was said his condition was critical.

LIQUOR RAIDS AT MICHIGAN U. ARE CALLED FOOLISH

Lansing, Mich., April 23.—[Special.]—A special committee of the house, which has been investigating the fraternity rum raids at the University of Michigan several weeks ago, reported back to the legislature today that drinking is not prevalent on the campus at Ann Arbor, that the city police were not justified in their attitude in regard to the raids, that the prosecutor was guilty of poor judgment, and that the university's administration is perfectly capable of handling student disciplinary problems.

"The use of intoxicating liquors by the students is not a major problem at the university," states the report.

Gets Minimum Penalty for Killing Wife While Drunk

Frank Okasik, 30 years old, 1239 Early avenue, was sentenced to 14 years in the penitentiary—the minimum sentence—for murdering his wife during a domestic quarrel on Jan. 16. Judge Joseph B. David of the Criminal court imposed the sentence on the recommendation of Assistant State's Attorney George S. Lavin. The defense produced testimony in mitigation showing that Okasik tried repeatedly to become reconciled to his wife and that he was intoxicated when he shot her.

Argue Over the Form of $160,000,000 Deal.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The proposed decrees for the sale of the surface lines for failure to pay mortgage and other debts were presented to Federal Judge Wilkerson yesterday afternoon. The proceeding marks the foreclosure on street car lines valued at more than $160,000,000.

Horace K. Tenney first presented a decree for the Harris Trust and Savings bank, trustee under the first mortgage of the Chicago Railways company—the west and north side surface lines. Then followed William B. McIlvaine for the First Union Trust and Savings bank, trustee for the first mortgage bonds of the Chicago City Railway company and the South Chicago and Calumet street railway company—south side lines. Bruce Johnstone, attorney for the Chicago City and Connecting Collateral Trust, brought in the third form of decree.

Some There to Object.

Former Attorney General Brundage was there objecting to the form of the decree on behalf of the holders of participation certificates No. 2. Former Judge Harry Hamlin stepped up to the bar to protest for certain undeposited first mortgage bond holders and holders of "B" bonds. Henry S. Robbins objected on behalf of participation certificate holders No. 1. Frank Harkness entered his objections for the Elkins estate and the McCormick estate. Attorney C. M. Doty filed his objection on behalf of Harrison B. Riley and the Chicago Title and Trust company, trustees for certain other securities.

Any One Can Bid.

The decrees of sale provide that any one can bid for the surface lines at the county building on a date to be fixed later upon deposit of $1,000,000 in cash, or $1,500,000 in first mortgage bonds as an evidence of good faith. If, however, the bidder has a financial scheme to offer he must present that plan to the special master who will be appointed to conduct the sale.

Everything is to be sold, including the renewal and depreciation fund of about $20,000,000, the special renewal fund of several more millions and the damage reserve fund of about $5,000,000.

Reference was made to the terminable permit ordinance under which the newly formed Chicago Local Transportation company will submit a bid. The form of decree asserts that the "sale shall be made without valuation, appraisement, exemption, or extension and free from any right of redemption."

Objects to Form of Decree.

There was objection made to the form of decree. Charles Babcock told the court that in his opinion the surface lines cannot be sold for less than the 1907 ordinance valuations. Attorney Robbins objected to the form because the sale is not to be made subject to the orders of the higher federal court, which he claimed now has jurisdiction of some phases of the subject.

These and other objections were made by Attorney Harkness in his list of 13 formal protests, which were adopted by Attorney Brundage. Perhaps the most stinging of his objections is his thirteenth, which reads:

"Said proposed decree is erroneous in that in substance and in effect it provides for the sale of real estate and divers interests in real estate, not at a public sale, as required by the act of congress in such case made and provided, but at a private sale to a single bidder named in said decree."

Must Acquire All Lines.

In other paragraphs Mr. Harkness refers to the newly created Chicago Local Transportation company and objects to the way it is to be treated in the decree. The terminable permit, approved by the electorate on July 1, last, provides that the new company must acquire all of the surface lines and the elevated roads before it can legally accept the franchise. Provision is made in the decree forms for obtaining the "L" lines before the surface lines are sold for the unpaid mortgages.

Not all of the objectors had sufficient time to present their protests before court adjourned and Judge Wilkerson will resume the hearing next Wednesday morning.

PEORIA SOON TO MAKE ITS BOW AS A SEAPORT

New $400,000 Terminal Is Nearly Ready.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Peoria, Ill., April 23.—[Special.]—This city is preparing for a jubilee celebration in June, a forerunner of what may be expected all along the Illinois valley and the drainage canal during the next two years, as barge transportation from the gulf area is pushed nearer and nearer to Chicago.

Peoria is the first and Peoria is ready. With foresight and energy they have prepared a $400,000 terminal for the handling of water borne freight, a terminal which compares favorably with anything offered in the ports of the world—a movable crane for handling heavy freight, an escalator for the smaller packages. And only a few feet from the water the rail transportation is waiting to take this freight to Chicago or elsewhere.

With the arrival of the locomotive crane on May 12 and the floating dock, which is being built at Jeffersonville, Ind., at a cost of $65,000, at an earlier date, the equipment will all be installed, and all that remains is the publication of joint rail and water rates, which have been ordered by the interstate commerce commission before July 1.

U. S. Officials to Attend.

In June, therefore, a dedication program will be held, with high government officials, both federal and state participating, and the channel open at last to the sea. For more than forty years this project has been in and out of politics, and even today the momentum of the railroad inspired antagonism to the new freight route is being felt. No great amount of business is expected immediately, yet those that have faith in the waterway as the solution of the economic ills of the valley look to a big reward in the future.

The federal government has spent $1,500,000 in dredging work between Peoria and the Mississippi and a nine foot channel is now ready for boats at low water, with the exception of the two locks at La Grange and Campsville, which draw seven feet. Col. W. C. Weeks, United States army engineer in charge of this district, has postponed repairs to these locks until after the present navigation season, but is getting ready to bring the depth there to nine feet. In the meantime he has marked the channels with buoys so that mariners cannot make a mistake, and is helping boats through the locks.

Lake Peoria, which is to be for a time the head of navigation, stretches out to a width of half a mile opposite the city and is three miles long. It provides an ideal inland harbor. The new terminal, built from the proceeds of a bond issue passed in September, 1929, is at the foot of Main street, only two blocks from the courthouse. It is built of brick and steel and contains every convenience for the quick handling of merchandise by electrical machinery.

This terminal will be the headquarters of the Inland Waterways corporation, a government concern known as the Warrior Service, now operating in the main rivers of the south. The company will take over the terminal, paying the city 15 cents a ton net on all freight passing through there. In this way the city expects to get its bond money back in about twenty years.

There is a concrete approach to the terminal, which begins at the western end of the city's waterfront park. Bulk walls have been made by driving steel piles 60 feet to bedrock and filling in behind them. On this land the rails are laid for the traveling crane and for freight cars, and a tractor can be loaded on a barge from here in a few minutes. If it were destined for South America, the next port of handling would be New Orleans.

Escalator Conveys Freight.

There is track space now for 80 cars and room for an expansion to 200. The floating dock is to be moored against the warehouse, and freight taken up in an escalator or machine conveyor, which is controlled so that it can be raised or lowered as the cargo depth changes. There is a loading range of 8 feet. The dock has eight openings, fitted to the standard barges, so that work can go on through eight doors at the same time. The terminal can now handle between 3,000 and 4,000 tons a day and can be expanded to double this capacity.

Jacob A. Harman, Peoria engineer who had charge of the construction of the terminal, first made arrangements with the railroads. The Peoria and Pekin Union railroad, a terminal system serving seven main lines, now has direct access to the warehouse. The Rock Island also has direct access. The Burlington has the privilege of direct access by paying interest on track costs for four blocks. There is to be one rate on shipping between all the railroads and the terminals.

"This is one of the most favorable contracts ever made for a water rate," said Mr. Harman. "We expect to handle lots of canned goods and package freight from the Pacific coast and South America. Until the channel is all the way through to Chicago and even afterward, it will pay Chicago merchants to ship from here. Six railroads that touch here traverse the Chicago area. They can be served through the Peoria switches at less cost and more promptly than through the belt line terminals in Chicago.

A Boon to Chicago.

"This all helps Chicago, for as industry is stimulated here and pay rolls increase, Peoria becomes a greater wholesale buyer. Both profit when one profits. That is what the waterway means. The valley states have lost 13,000 industries and 17 congressmen. The drift of population in recent years has been toward the seaboard. That is because industry has been stimulated there by low rates.

"If we do not get a low cost of transportation for our commodities we are stalemated. The railroads cannot give lower costs. When the business of the interior is increased and employment increases, the railroad business will take on a different form, but it will be greater than it has been.

"The necessity is for lower cost. We are not fighting the railroads, but for the life of this region. On the waterway the contract and private carriers will handle freight at from 1-3 to 1-5 the rail cost."

The biggest river business now is in cement. It is made at the Marquette mills at Oglesby and brought to water at La Salle, where the 9 foot channel is completed. It is loaded on barges in bulk and delivered to the bulk storehouses in St. Louis or sent on down to Louisiana, where this company has a contract for 750,000 barrels. It is estimated that from $2,000 to $3,000 is saved in freight rates on each trip. Peoria expects to divert much of the freight that is going to water at Cairo.

CHINESE BANDITS FREE KIDNAPED CHICAGO WOMEN

2 Mission Workers Held for 6 Days.

HANKOW, China, April 23.—(AP)—The Swedish Lutheran mission headquarters received advices from Kingchow saying two Chicago missionaries, Miss Esther Nordlund, 5255 North Sawyer avenue, and Miss Augusta Nelson, 5245 North Christiana avenue, were released today by bandits who kidnaped them April 17. Headquarters of the mission are at Chicago.

MISS ESTHER NORDLUND.

The dispatch gave no details and did not mention the Rev. Oscar Anderson, also of Chicago and connected with the Mission Covenant church, kidnaped at the same time. The releases, which came unexpectedly, are believed to have resulted from provincial military pressure against the brigands.

The captors had demanded a ransom payment of $100,000 Mexican, or about $21,000 in gold.

Turn to Athletic Games.

Washington, D. C., April 23.—[Special.]—Chinese bandits apparently have turned to American athletic games for relaxation during the intervals while awaiting the receipt of ransom money for the freedom of captured missionaries.

The state department today announced that bandits holding the Rev. Bert. N. Nelson of Minneapolis for $10,000 (Mexican) ransom, have notified American diplomatic authorities that in addition to money they now desire the mission authorities to supply gramophone records, tennis rackets and balls, basketballs, chess boards, wrist watches, fountain pens, footballs, fresh fruit, ammunition, and numerous other articles.

Nelson will be released, it was said, if the $10,000, minus the money expended for the list of athletic equipment and other articles, is forwarded. Nelson has been held captive by the bandits since October, 1930.

War Lords Open Hostilities.

Chungking, China, April 23.—(AP)—Fighting began today 100 miles northwest of this city between two war lords of Szechwan province. Striving for control of the mountainous region between Chungking and Chengtu, each began marshaling several thousand men with artillery. Chungking authorities doubled the guard about the city against a possible surprise attack.

Sign Extraterritorial Pact.

NANKING, China, April 23.—(AP)—The foreign office announced today a Chinese-Norwegian extraterritoriality agreement had been signed. A similar accord of the Chinese and Dutch governments was expected to receive signatures tonight.

BOOK BY FOKKER MAKES BALCHEN HERO OVER BYRD

Gives Bernt Credit for Admiral's Fame.

New York, April 23.—[Special.]—Anthony H. G. Fokker, whose name is more familiar blazoned on an airplane than on a book, has made a grab for the laurel wreath of Admiral Byrd to place it on the reluctant blond head of Bernt Balchen.

ANTHONY FOKKER. [K. & E. Photo.]

In his vigorous autobiography, written in collaboration with Bruce Gould and to be published tomorrow, the noted aircraft designer and manufacturer contradicts parts of the admiral's accounts of his exploits, incidents in connection with the trans-Atlantic flight of the Fokker plane America, and credits Balchen with many of the achievements for which Admiral Byrd has been acclaimed.

Balchen Finds No Mistakes.

Moreover, Balchen, the retiring Norwegian flyer who was Byrd's pilot on the flight to the south pole and co-pilot on the trans-Atlantic flight, acknowledged today that he had read the chapter of the book dealing with Admiral Byrd and "didn't find any mistakes in it."

Among the statements made by Mr. Fokker are these:

"I could never understand why he [Byrd] did not take off before Lindbergh. He could easily have done so." But "after the most interminable series of test flights it has ever been my grief to witness . . . I began to wonder whether Byrd really wanted to make the trans-Atlantic flight, which was basically hardly more than an elaborate advertisement."

Lindbergh and Chamberlain Go.

While Byrd delayed, Mr. Fokker recalled, Lindbergh, "playing a lone hand," made the perfect flight for which Byrd was preparing, and then Clarence Chamberlin, with Charles A. Levine as passenger, flew to Germany.

When the Byrd flight eventually did get under way, Fokker says it was found necessary for Balchen to take the controls "on all the bad spots."

He's Right, Says Byrd.

Boston, Mass., April 23.—[Special.]—Commander Richard E. Byrd, when asked for a statement tonight in connection with the Fokker statement issued from New York, in which the latter declared that Bernt Balchen should have been given chief credit for the Byrd overseas flight, made a brief reply.

"I have no objection to Mr. Fokker's saying that Balchen did the better job on the trans-Atlantic flight than I did," he said. "I have always felt that way myself."

THE PROPOSED STATE INCOME TAX.

THE TRIBUNE has received a number of letters from the Illinois Agricultural association in the last few days accusing us of misunderstanding and misrepresenting the facts with respect to the income tax bill which has passed the state senate.

The burden of the complaint is that the income tax is not just another tax, as we have said, but will replace in large part the present levy for state purposes. That levy accounts in all for only 7 per cent of the Chicago property owners' annual contributions to the costs of government, state and local. If the income tax bill becomes law the maximum saving to property owners in Chicago can be only 7 per cent of their present bills. There can be no little doubt that to many and probably the great majority of taxpayers in Cook county and the other urban centers the income tax will be "just another tax" in that it will add more than the 7 per cent reduction saves them. There can be no slightest doubt that in the aggregate the tax bills of city dwellers will be heavier by many millions of dollars if the bill is enacted. And that can only mean that the cost of living and the cost of doing business in the cities will be increased, with a probable loss in industrial activity, in employment and eventually in population.

The bill does not even permit the taxpayer to deduct his property taxes from his income tax. That provision would not have made the bill acceptable to Chicago, but at least it would have indicated a desire on the part of the downstate legislators not to impose any additional burden upon urban property owners. It is no accident that associations of real estate owners and dealers, which for years have been fighting for an income tax, are opposed to this bill. The reason, of course, is that it would give no relief, at least in the cities, which need relief fully as much as the country. It might reduce somewhat the contributions of farm owners, but there is little doubt that they could achieve at least as great a saving by the simple and easy expedient of consolidating counties and thereby reducing the duplication of governmental overhead.

If the agricultural association is devoting its energies to the enactment of the income tax rather than to the more obvious remedy of county consolidation the reason is that the bill now under consideration is merely an opening wedge. After the principle has been established that the income tax is to pay the expenses of the state government, the next step will be to impose new burdens upon the state government which are now borne by local taxation. The ultimate object is to tax the salary and wage earners and the industry of Chicago for the support of job holders downstate. "It is time Chicago business leaders recognise their debt to the country," says the spokesman for the agricultural association with charming candor.

Precisely. And it is time that downstate spokesmen recognize that Chicago will fight to the end against any new form of taxation in the state until the legislature is reapportioned in accordance with population. It is impossible to believe that the refusal to reapportion is intended for any other purpose than to impose unfair taxation upon a helpless majority of the population represented by a minority in the legislature. Chicago already contributes disproportionately to the costs of the common government and the intent is to add to the disproportion. How else can the refusal to reapportion be explained?

THE VAGRANCY PROSECUTIONS.

Chief Alcock's testimony to the practical usefulness of the vagrancy statute in the campaign against gangdom should offset the persistent attempt in some quarters to disparage it during the primary campaign. "Unquestionably," says the acting police commissioner, "we are making progress. There have been some failures because of incomplete evidence, but in the carefully planned cases we are getting convictions. In my opinion the vagrancy prosecutions have been successful."

Thirty-seven undesirables have been convicted. It is true the higher-ups have not been reached and probably cannot be unless the phraseology of the statute is broadened or the courts are more liberal in its interpretation than it is probably advisable for them to be in applying criminal law. But it was worth while pressing the statute as far as it could be made to go against notorious gangsters and the net gain has been substantial. It is certainly important that the rank and file of organized crime should be harassed and disciplined. The common thugs and wastrels, the anonymous killers and professional bad men who carry out orders as well as engage in miscellaneous criminal activities of their own must feel the pressure of the law even though men who direct them and use them are more difficult to reach. The vagrancy prosecutions have alarmed and weakened the forces of the underworld, as Assistant State's Attorney Ditchburne has publicly testified, and they are a permanent addition to our resources in the war on the underworld.

This new application of the vagrancy statute is also of importance as suggesting the possibilities of a more enterprising exploitation of the means we already have of coping with crime. This law had been on the books for a half century, but it was not until the present campaign against crime that its usefulness against the modern gangster was discovered. The statute was in a sense dormant, or at any rate less than half alive. Another case in point has been disclosed by Judge David, who has called the state's attorney's attention to a provision of the habitual criminal act under which criminals who commit new crimes while out on probation may be returned to the penitentiary for life.

This law against incorrigibles should certainly not be allowed to lie dormant. A large proportion of our most serious crime is committed by habitual offenders who show by their manner of life and repeated offenses that they are virtually incorrigible and a perpetual menace. When this has been demonstrated they ought not to be at large, and our law seems to have recognized this and provided for it. Only the inadvertence or lack of resourcefulness of prosecution makes it ineffective. We need all the means the law allows in the fight on organized crime.

TO FIGHT FUTURE DEPRESSIONS.

The able chief of the American Federation of Labor, William Green, has taken occasion in an address at Harvard to urge the summoning by the President of a national economic conference, to be made of outstanding representatives of industry, finance, labor, the government, and economists, for the purpose of deliberating upon the major economic and related social problems of the day. Out of such a conference he suggests should be created a permanent economic council to deal especially with unemployment and other general economic problems in a practical and scientific way.

We think the proposal wise and timely. There will be skepticism as to its practical value, but we think such skepticism is shortsighted. Conferences often come to little in the way of concrete and immediate results. Often they produce benefits which are not noted, but are substantial in the long run. We think there is a good prospect that the conference proposed by Mr. Green will have substantial results, and especially his idea of a permanent council deserves adoption. An industrial leader, Mr. Gifford of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, asserting his faith the other day in America's future, prophesied that we shall go forward "by the democratic road—by the thought and effort of thousands of intelligent people—by the wisdom of the many." This we, too, believe, but intelligence and energy must be organized, democratic progress must be planned, the diverse and intensely competitive activities of a free people must be given as much coördination and consistency as is compatible with the vital principle of free initiative. This it seems to us points the need of reliable and permanent agencies of criticism and guidance in our interrelated main economic, financial, and social concerns.

The American idea is opposed to compulsion. We have political institutions designed to perform the essential functions of political government, but it is not the true American way to impose upon them the functions of economic government. Our alternative, if we seek an ordered economic progress, as broad and stable as possible, is the creation of voluntary means of direction and control in the economic and social field. We need conference upon the common concerns. We need collective guidance, criticism, and voluntary regulation in the common interest. This cannot be provided by impromptu discussion at moments of crisis, by diverse advices and belated reproaches. We need agencies of continuous observation and as much influence in persuasion and direction, in warning and moral restraint as their character and our general intelligence can give them. Such agencies should be voluntary, but we may reasonably hope that their influence will be substantial and increasing.

Perhaps this is too optimistic. Perhaps we must pay for liberty the heavy price exacted by lack of a common foresight and self-restraint. But that is a prospect we are not forced to accept. We ought on the contrary to resist it and to experiment courageously in means to avoid it. We do not think it either impossible or even improbable that our economic, financial, and social activities can contrive means of coördination and self-discipline in the common interest. We believe American brains and character are able to devise and maintain better means of avoiding or at least mitigating the evils we suffer from today, and while we are in the midst of these evils is the time to begin determined effort to create means to avoid them.

Editorial of the Day

THE CHICAGO WORLD'S FAIR.

[Detroit News.]

Bills await action at Lansing for Michigan participation in Chicago's 1933 World's Fair. There may be opinions and yet other opinions concerning Chicago and fairs, whether the latter be world or otherwise. While that it true, there can be no other opinion than that when Chicago promises a world's fair she will produce a world's fair. Chicago is a doer. In 1892-'93 Chicago won a name in the world's fair business that still holds the championship.

A high mark was then set which now, in spite of the damper cast by intervening efforts to rival or excel, must be transcended if the 1933 celebration is to succeed fully. If any city can, Chicago will make her 1933 World's Fair remembered decades afterward, as her Columbian exposition forty years ago was remembered.

What does that reading say to us in this state? Business is picking up. By 1933 we shall certainly be at the threshold of a new era in the commerce of the nation and the world. It is not a time to hold back. California has appropriated $100,000; Minnesota, $75,000, and nine other states from $10,000 to $30,000. The eye to business and opportunity will see we cannot afford to let other states outdo us in forward looking promotion.

Chicago is in better position. The ouster of Bill Thompson and the thorough substitution in the city government, with prospects of a much needed clean-up, increase confidence in the success which Chicago energy can score. The World's Fair, in celebration of Chicago's 100th year as a city, is not to be anybody's side show. That such a city, the second largest in the United States and the fourth largest in the world, is only 100 years old of itself constitutes a marvel of the present day world. Michigan and Detroit will indeed be laggard if they fail of representation at the celebration on a scale befitting the other marvel which the growth of Michigan and Detroit in population, wealth and power also constitutes.

TO MAKE BABY GROW TALL.

THE advantages of having plenty of vitamin B complex in the diet are of several kinds, some on the positive and some on the negative side. Dr. S. R. Hoobler finds that when babies are given a powder composed of two parts dried extract of wheat germ and one part dried watery extract of yeast, in addition to ordinary foods, they grow rapidly in height or length, whichever you choose to call it. It would seem that if a mother wants her baby to grow tall she should add these articles to her diet, or give him other foods equivalent in this vitamin.

These babies did not increase in weight any faster than other babies. Their gain was in stature. In addition Dr. Hoobler found that babies who had a tendency to rigidity lost that tendency as a rule when they had this diet. This rigidity, something of a nervous tension, but far short of the level at which convulsions appear, is prone to develop in babies that are not getting as much of this vitamin complex as they need.

This observation by Dr. Hoobler raises the question as to the advisability of giving yeast and wheat germ or their extracts to babies who have convulsions frequently—those with marked spasmophilic tendencies.

Referring to the good effects of vitamin B complex foods in rigidity carries us over into the negative group alluded to above. When people are fed for a long time on diets poor in one of the vitamin B group they develop pellagra. If they are switched to foods rich in this vitamin they escape. Such foods are yeast and yeast extracts, wheat germ or its extracts, lean meat, salmon, peas, and beans.

When people are fed for a long time diets that are poor in another part of this vitamin they develop beriberi. When they are switched to a diet rich in this vitamin they escape it. There are conditions akin to beriberi and pellagra, but much milder, which are due to moderate deficiency of diets in this vitamin.

They are forms of neuritis, various neuralgic pains, some so-called rheumatic complaints, constipation, and various minor skin disorders. These get well when the amount of vitamin B complex in their diets is increased. When people take cod liver oil or viosterol without increasing their intake of vitamin B complex foods they sometimes develop mild evidence of vitamin B complex starvation. This is remedied by adding more of these foods to the dietary.

And, finally, when prospective mothers and lactating mothers get plenty of these foods they nourish their babies well and the babies are apt to be vigorous and to thrive.

EATING COFFEE.

M. R. M. writes: Will eating ground coffee, before it is made for drinking, injure any one?

REPLY.

WHY BOTHER!

Mrs. R. M. McA. writes: My baby has infantile eczema and has had it since he was about two months old. It is not the kind that comes in sores, but is just very rough and red skin. It is very irritating. I have had him to two doctors, but he is no better and I wondered if you could help me. I give him cod liver oil, orange juice, some kinds of vegetables, no porridge, baked apple, dried toast. He is seven months old now and has two teeth. He is a bottle fed baby.

REPLY.

Diet is the probable cause of the baby's trouble. The food most liable to be the offender is milk. If you would leave it out of his diet his skin might clear up. But the gain would not be worth the price. Since the trouble is not great why not let it ride until the customary change in diet as he gets older leads him out of trouble?

COLLECTION OF DEBT.

Chicago, April 11.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A owes B $7.50 for repairs on car made some time in October, 1930. It was supposed to be a friendly job and when A could get the money he was supposed to pay B. Since A is out of a job and could not pay, B gave the case to a collecting agent to collect. The collection agent gave him the money and A was told he must pay the bill and some more besides. A did not receive a bill for the work done. 1. Must A pay all the money, because at present he is not working and when repairs were made on car A was not 21 years old and at present is of age? 2. B did not tell A anything about giving bill to collecting agent. 3. Must A's parents stand the expense? F. G. S.

1. It seems probable that what was said would be sufficient to imply an obligation to pay within a reasonable time.
2. This would not alter the rights of the parties.
3. Not on the bare facts stated. We assume that the debtor is not a minor.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

PRACTICE DISCONTINUED.

Chicago, April 19.—[Friend of the People.]—Can something be done about the lot on the northwest corner of Madison street and Latrobe avenue? It is being used as a dump. This morning a city worker came with a barrow full of street sweepings. I told him not to dump it there, but he said "city cleaning." Will you please do something about this?

A. S.

Report is made that street sweepings referred to have been removed. However, this street dirt was only placed there temporarily by cleaner, pending removal. Report also states that all refuse has been removed from lot and notices served throughout vicinity to stop further dumping. Location will be kept under observation to see that notices are complied with.

JOSEPH J. BUTLER,
Superintendent of Streets.

SPECIAL FACTS MUST EXIST.

Chicago, April 11.—[Legal Friend of the People.] — 1. Is it possible in the state of Illinois for a woman to divorce her husband, who is insane? 2. Is it possible to obtain a divorce if he has served time in prison before he married her and she was ignorant of that fact until after they were married? 3. He is wanted on serious charges in another state. Would this help get a divorce?

M. E. P.

1. Yes, it is possible on special facts.
2. No.
3. We do not see how it would be material.

HOWDY DO, SPAIN, HOWDY DO!

And, likewise, we have recognized the Spanish republic. We were afraid the Truly Good, who rule this country, wouldn't let us speak to Spain until she stopped those horrid bull fights. But, Spain, we recognize you; your face was familiar, but we had forgotten the name. Ah, Miss Republic, certainly, to be sure. Bueno Dios! Caramba! Mañana! Viva el Toro! Chili con carne! Howdy, Spain, gladtameetcha!

Yes, indeed, Miss Spain, we're certainly glad to have you join the family. You see, we're a republic ourselves over here. We are the ones who started that thing of giving kings the air. Yes, indeed. Right over here is where it all started. We started the idea of letting the people rule. We invented Liberty in this country. Over here every man is free; he can do as he likes. Miss Spanish Republic, permit us to drink your health in a brimming glass of buttermilk. Sh—soft pedal, Miss Spanish Republic; sorry, but we can't drink your health in wine. This is a free country, all right, in a manner of speaking, but—well, after you've been free over there in Spain you're going to commence to find out a lot of things that you can't do.

AFIELD AGAIN.

Once more he is afield again—that faithful farmer fellow;
The air is pure, his plow is keen, the soil is moist and mellow.
Down by the fence the buttercup has donned its crown of yellow,
And, at its side, the may apple has raised its green umbrella.

Once more the birds are building nests, again the sun is shining,
There's not a creature, not a flower, that's moping or repining;
There's not a cloud upon the sky, there's not an ill wind blowing,—
Hard times have been, hard times may be, but now's the time for sowing.

Ay, now's the time for sowing, and for dreaming and for singing,
Or rich or lean the harvest time the summer may be bringing,
Though some may reap not as they sow, and there's an end to dreaming,
Good Amalthæa's horn, today, with promises is teeming.

And you who struggle on amid the city's strife and peril,
Where brick and stone and steel have made the earth inert and sterile,
Where spring is mocked, and mocks you, and there's naught but ill winds blowing,
Who seek to reap throughout the year, with never time for sowing:

Lift up your hearts and know that he is tilling every acre,
With faith renewed in mankind and the mercy of his Maker;
Once more he is afield again—that humble farmer fellow—
Where Nature never faileth, and the soil is moist and mellow.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 24, 1915.

LONDON.—Furious warfare is in progress in the vicinity of Ypres, which the Germans regard as the key to Calais. Half a million Germans are concentrated in the neighborhood. "The critical moment has arrived," says the Daily Mail correspondent, who tells of the transportation of picked troops to the Flanders front. He says the British blow at hill No. 60 was an attempt to strike first. Another dispatch says: "All through yesterday a tumult unspeakable raged around hill No. 60. For many hours the British held on grimly against the most terrific bombardment they had ever experienced. The Germans brought the whole of their heavy artillery to bear upon the hill, which became a scene of fury, shattered and smashed. Germans flying over the hill flung hundreds of incendiary bombs upon the British temporary entrenchments. They also used asphyxiation bombs but without grave consequences." The German report says that the kaiser's troops took the villages of Langemarck, Steenstraate, Het Sas, and Pilken, and claims 1,600 French and British soldiers were taken prisoners, and thirty cannon, including four heavy guns, were captured. If this is true the Germans must have made an advance of at least two or three miles.

CHICAGO.—John Cudahy, one of the founders of Chicago's great packing industry and a millionaire Board of Trader leader, died at his home, 3254 Michigan avenue. He was born in Callen, County Kilkenny, Ireland, on Nov. 2, 1843, and was brought to Milwaukee by his father, Patrick Cudahy, in 1849. It was there the elder Cudahy entered the packing business. When John Cudahy came to Chicago he became a partner in the packing firm of Chapin & Co., which later became Chapin & Cudahy.

APRIL 24, 1901.

CHICAGO.—Joseph Kipley discharged himself from the position of superintendent of police. He called on Mayor Harrison and asked if he were to be retained during the next two years. The mayor told him he was not, whereupon the chief issued a general order assigning Assistant Superintendent of Police John E. Ptacek to duty as acting superintendent. Then Superintendent Kipley closed his desk and went home. It was his last act as head of the police force of Chicago.

CHICAGO.—Mayor Phelan of San Francisco asked Mayor Harrison about the Illinois laws on publishing lottery lists in newspapers. The mayor turned the inquiry over to Corporation Counsel Walker, who sent a collect telegram giving the Illinois law on the subject. The telegram cost Mayor Phelan $25.26.

CHICAGO.—Formal announcement was made of the retirement of John M. Clark from the presidency of the Chicago Telephone company and of the naming of John I. Sabin of San Francisco as his successor. Mr. Clark will become chairman of the executive committee.

APRIL 24, 1881.

LONDON. — No doubt now exists that the proposed conference of the European powers to concert measures against Nihilists and Socialists will be held. Sir William Harcourt's speech gave great encouragement to this step. The English government, however, will not accept the invitation. Public feeling here is decidedly opposed to the subversion of the right of asylum at the demand of the second holy alliance.

ST. PETERSBURG. — Executioner Frohloff received 100 lashes for mismanagement in the hanging of the Nihilist, Michaeloff, whose rope broke twice.

LONDON.—Great anxiety is felt at Newmarket because of the ill health of F. Grettan, owner of Prestonpans, the favorite at Epsom on April 27. It is the general opinion that James R. Keene's Foxhall is one of the finest horses in the world, but it is expecting almost too much of him to win with the weight he has to carry. Mr. Keene's horses have not become quite acclimated and this may account for the poor showing they made the last week at Newmarket.

LETTER FROM RUSSIA.

ODESSA, U. S. S. R.—We have been watching Mr. Wales' experience in Moscow with interest, for we have just come from there. We hope he comes to Odessa, for prices here make you feel Moscow is a cheap place to live. They are all set for the Americans on a cruise due here May 5. All the seaports are ready too, and they will not accept their own ruble in payment for the goods they are offering for sale. You cannot blame them, for the new rubles seem to have the same serial number. We have a collection of them with the same number.

One orange	1.25
Roast beef	3.00
Garnish of vegetables (carrots, beets)	3.00
Ice cream (good)	.75
Salad—mostly pickled green tomato	3.00
Russian champagne, 1 liter	16.00
Bread (bun-like affair)	.30
Butter (one square inch)	1.00

They have two sizes of stiff paper napkins—six inch and eight. The eight inch are cut diagonally and a half is given each guest.

They use no kopecks here; nothing less than a ruble. Your check always figures to 25 kopecks over the even amount in rubles. No waiter is going to chance your believing their no tipping law. Then, too, they always compute your bill in their heads and never present a check to you. When served in your room the price will vary with the waiter.

Don't use the date or my signature, please. AN AMERICAN.

TOO MUCH BASEBALL.

Chicago, April 18.—My work is of a confining, creative nature, which makes it necessary to shut myself away from human contact for long hours each day. I have come to depend on the radio to an almost unbelievable extent; the music provides real inspiration, ofttimes. It is proverbial among my friends that when I am engaged in work my radio is quite likely to be turned on constantly.

The advent of the summer season with its eternal baseball works an absolute hardship on music lovers. There is but one station in Chicago that does not broadcast the games. But with so many stations broadcasting the games, should it not be possible for some of them to continue with musical programs? LYNN TERRY.

CALLING THE CHILDREN.

Chicago, April 20. — I don't know whether we have to thank the board of education or the principal of the Belding school, but for the last week, instead of ringing a bell to summon the children, blasts are sounded from what is apparently an auto horn discarded because it frightened pedestrians to death. The ears and nerves of the neighborhood are assaulted thus eight times daily. I. ASKYOU.

A MEMORIAL TO ROCKNE.

Chicago, April 18.—I have been informed that a recommendation has been made by some one that a monument to Knute Rockne be placed at the site of the tragic accident. While there is no denying his abilities, has not the matter gone far enough? After all, he was only a football coach. M. C.

SUPERIOR MONARCHS.

Riverside, Ill., April 8.—In your issue of April 8 one of your talented editorial writers set forth complacently to exalt the American method of democracy and government, and to praise the current system of appointing its officials. According to this writer's assertions, the only two competent rulers produced under the monarchic systems of the ages were Gustavus Adolphus of Sweden and William the Third of England; he asserts that the Tudors were royal roughnecks, Charles XII. a madman, Peter of Russia engaged primarily in warmint bouts, etc., etc. No man can find fault with a writer of any nation upholding his government, but this editorial is more typical of what one might expect from a superficial student of the Gene Tunney caliber than from the pens of historical writers of a journal with the store of data, wealth, and talent such as THE TRIBUNE can command.

First of all, the writer's premises were false or written with both eyes closed to the lessons of history. Charles XII. was far from being a madman, despite his insane feats of daring on the battlefields; judged solely as a statesman, he is excelled by only one American—Lincoln; and the writer seems unaware of the accomplishments of Gustavus Vasa, Charles X., Charles XI., Gustavus III., and Oxenstierna—men who were not to be compared to any American executives save Lincoln in spite of the fact that circumstances compelled them to devote their best years to repelling attacks. And that is only to consider one small nation. Egypt has its Thotmes, Rameses, Hetasu, and Amenophis; Sumeria its Sargon and Tiglath; Persia produced the great organizer, Cambyses; Macedonia could boast of Philip and Alexander. Rome had an Augustus, Diocletian and Justinian; China numbers one of the greatest of rulers in the indefatigable Shi Hwang-Ti; France's great statesmen are legion, and England has to its credit Alfred, Canute, Edward the First and Second, Henry the First and Second, and the great Elizabeth. To generalize, therefore, that monarchies are unable to produce great men is absurd. The fact is that the heir apparent is usually pretty well trained for his future job, whereas the democratic method is a gamble, its chief merit lying in the ability to fire the ruler after four years of power. Certainly the last three chief executives have been a sorry lot, and a system that produces Big Bills, Len the Small, et al., is badly in need of renovation. No man in his right senses will assert that the American judiciary is to be compared with the Canadian or that the mayors can be contrasted with the old German stadtholders. The civil service exams of the United States—O well, why mention them?—and the current system of turning over the appointment of school teachers and professors to a bunch of grafting teachers' agencies would not be tolerated elsewhere. SCRIPPS.

WORKING OUT THEIR TAXES.

Chicago, April 17. — There are thousands of us small home owners who have no work and will be unable to meet our taxes. I suggest that we could be given work of public or semi-public nature and paid probably 25 per cent in cash and 75 per cent in vouchers good to apply on taxes. I would be glad to accept such a proposition. WILLIAM M. FITTS.

ARCHANGEL HAS 1 AUTO FOR EVERY 1,782 PERSONS

City of 140,000 'Boasts' Two Movie Houses.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MOSCOW, April 3. — [By Mail.] — Conforming to what seems to be a Russian habit, the railway does not run right into Archangel, but stops abruptly about 5 miles away, on the opposite bank of the Dvina. In the summer time there is a ferry, and in winter rails are laid on the frozen river, and freight cars and lumber flat cars are shunted back and forth.

A Hungarian agricultural expert, whom I met on a train on a recent trip to Archangel, drove me to town in his Ford, and deposited me at the Severoleso hotel, a large wooden building with a nice room, and telephone (not working), and electric lights, and a hot water faucet. My exuberance received a set back upon visiting the washroom where the communal system prevailed "in extenso."

78 Autos in City.

Archangel's population is 140,000. It stretches along the river bank, 4 or 5 miles from one end to the other and only ½ mile wide. There is a tramcar line, 78 automobiles, or one for every 1,782 persons, two movies, a statue of a reindeer, a military prison, and about thirty sawmills.

Solovetski penitentiary, founded by the czars for religious prisoners, such as priests and monks found guilty of felonies, and carried on by the bolsheviks for political and criminal offenders, is on an island a few hundred miles out in the frozen White sea. Solovetski is said to be at the extreme bottom of the list of places that prisoners would choose to be relegated to if they had their wish. Last summer, I was told, several hundred convicts from Solovetski were brought to Archangel to help load the timber ships, but were removed following Washington's protest on forced labor.

Erecting Paper Pulp Mill.

The soviet timber trust is erecting a giant paper pulp mill at Archangel to ship wood pulp instead of timber. Experts, however, are not convinced that this process will be economically sound, as wood pulp, air dried 30 per cent in bales, must be stowed in the hold, whereas the average lumber vessel carries more than one-third of her cargo on deck. This increases the cost of transportation of pulp.

Most of the existing sawmills are equipped to handle four raw logs at a time, but the three new ones can handle twelve logs. There also is a leather factory here, treating skins of various animals killed in the northern forests, but its business is decreasing.

Navigation in the port of Archangel usually opens in May and closes in October, although the big state icebreakers have forced passages through in December. The Lenin, sister ship of the Krassin, which rescued Umberto Nobile, is in the harbor, waiting to take out a convoy next month.

Soon after navigation begins the river opens, the big, yellow Dvina and its principal tributary, the Pinega, smashing through the ice and carrying down the huge log rafts along the banks for hundreds of miles inland. The sea rafts are towed to the sawmills by tugs from a point 20 miles up the river.

Warm water basins of the approved American design have been constructed in front of most of the saw mills, with submerged steam pipes to heat the water sufficiently to keep it from freezing at night in the early days of spring and late autumn.

Few Houses are Painted.

Not more than one house in a hundred is painted in Archangel, where the cold preserves the wood anyway. Those houses which have been painted are invariably a bright canary yellow. Inside most of the homes are unplastered, with log slabs for walls, and, of course, no wallpaper. There are a few brick structures in town, the churches, the government buildings, and a few apartment buildings.

RUSSIA INSISTS U. S. CUTS OFF ITS OWN NOSE IN TRADE WAR

MOSCOW, April 23. — (AP) — The growing independence of the soviet republic and the intention of the government to retaliate against those countries, including the United States, which obstruct trade with her, form the basis of an editorial today in Isvestia, official organ of the state.

Commenting on the recent action of Austria in lifting an embargo on Russian eggs and fowls and that of the soviet government in stopping trade with Canada, the newspaper says "the effect of the soviet counter measures is already felt by Austria and they soon will be apparent to Canada."

"There is still another country where it is being learned that to hinder soviet exports is cutting off the nose to spite the face," the editorial continues. "That country is America. According to the latest figures, soviet purchases in America dropped sharply after the introduction of stupid measures there to interfere with our trade."

After a considerable "cleansing" period, the communist party announced today that 996,10 members had been expelled on a variety of charges, including sympathy with Leon Trotzky, exiled leader, anti-soviet activities, drunkenness and "anti-morality."

HELD FOR KILLING EX-PUGILIST.

William Charles Klasing, 51 year old, 640 West 43d street, special policeman for the Union Stockyards and Transit company, was held to the grand jury yesterday on a manslaughter charge by the verdict of a coroner's jury. Klasing shot and killed Samuel Kahn, an ex-pugilist, on Wednesday.

HOLD UP RUSSIAN LUMBER AT U. S. PORT AS TEST

Customs Men Will See if It's Convict Produced.

Providence, R. I., April 23.—(AP)—Soviet Russia's long expected "test case" cargo of lumber arrived here today on the battered old Finnish tramp steamer Anversoise and found United States customs officials uncertain as to whether it should be admitted.

A three hour inspection of the cargo itself and a long discussion between representatives of the treasury department and the A. C. Dutton Lumber company, consignees, resulted in no decision. It was then announced all data collected by federal officers, together with evidence submitted by the Dutton company purporting to show the lumber was not produced by convict labor had been forwarded to Washington.

Early Decision Expected.

An early decision, possibly by tomorrow, from the commissioner of customs at Washington, was hoped for, Federal Attorney Henry M. Boss Jr. said.

Boss said that if it was established the lumber was produced within the four northern districts of Russia that fact would be regarded as prima facie evidence that convict labor was involved, and the lumber, therefore, inadmissible.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, in orders promulgated against products of convict labor, listed the four soviet districts north of latitude 60 as an area in which convict labor was employed. Leningrad, the port from which the Anversoise shipped the cargo of 3,200,000 feet of spruce, is below this area.

Burden of Proof on Russia.

Capt. Arne Stenroos, skipper of the Anversoise, said free Russian labor and modern machinery was employed in loading his vessel, but that he knew nothing about the production of the lumber.

The burden of proof rests with the Dutton company and the Amtorg, soviet trading corporation, to show the lumber is the product of free labor.

Washington, D. C., April 23.—[Special.]—Treasury officials expressed the opinion today that the long awaited shipment of soviet lumber which arrived at Providence, R. I., today will not furnish a test case involving the recent embargo against convict labor produced lumber from Russia. Indications are that the lumber will be permitted to enter.

Legge Suggests Credit Plan to Build Grain Bins on Farm

Alexander Legge, former chairman of the federal farm board, suggested a plan of distribution last night to the annual banquet of the National Lumber Manufacturers' association, which is holding a convention at the Congress hotel. Mr. Legge is now president of the International Harvester company.

"As I understand the situation, your yards are filled with lumber that is not moving and you are paying insurance and taxes on it," Mr. Legge said. "Why not sell this lumber to the American farmers as we in our business sell them tractors and farm machinery?" Mr. Legge then suggested that the lumber dealers work out a credit plan for farmers.

"Perhaps the most urgent need of the farmer is lumber to provide grain storage. In the wheat growing sections the situation is acute.

Facing Storage Crisis.

"The result is that the storage facilities of the nation are going to be taxed to the utmost to take care of the coming crop and there is no place where a portion of this wheat could be stored so economically as back on the farm. It costs about a cent and a half to store a bushel of grain for a month in an elevator. The farmer could do this for a third of a cent or less on the farm and the difference could pay for the construction of his own granary.

"Possibly the financing of lumber for the farmers could be arranged through an acceptance corporation. We have found losses from goods sold to farmers on the installment plan to be negligible."

The convention has been considering four problems—timber conservation, control of production, trade extension, and Russian dumping.

Officers of the association said that because of economic conditions there is a tendency to cut timber beyond the market demand.

Recently the industry, through the widespread dissemination of statistics has secured some control over production, and it is now said to be producing daily less than is being sold. It is hoped by officials of the association that this control may be made more effective through liberalization of the anti-trust laws.

Fear Russian Imports.

The discussion was enlivened by the arrival yesterday at Providence, R. I., of a cargo of lumber from Leningrad, Russia.

Russian lumber has not seriously affected the American market thus far, the lumberman said, but it is feared that the soviets' five year program will quadruple their output and flood the markets of the world. The Russians confiscate timber lands and mills, pay no particular wages, ship over government owned railroads, and have no capital cost, the lumber dealers declare.

LOOSE
what it is—how to remove it
how to treat scalps that itch and burn
Great dermatologists declare that a normal, healthy scalp is extremely rare. Some go as far as to say that there is no scalp that is not troubled in some way, to some degree. The most common—and humiliating—condition is loose dandruff.
Infection makes fat glands overactive
Dandruff is caused by overactivity of the fat glands of the scalp—which expel a greasy, whitish substance known as sebum. This overactivity is the result of infection, many dermatologists claim. They advise immediate treatment. Whatever the cause, this activity should be checked lest the condition continue and cause eczema, falling hair, and baldness.
Why Listerine checks dandruff
Frequent shampoo, vigorous massage, and the use of an antiseptic constitute effective treatment for ordinary cases of loose dandruff.
The success of Listerine in combating this condition is due to certain unusual qualities.

Since it is a safe though powerful germicide, Listerine combats any irritation that may be present on the scalp.
It dissolves and removes incrustations of sebum from the hair and scalp, assuring antiseptic cleanliness.
It produces on the scalp an astringent effect, exhilarates and invigorates the tissue around the hair roots.
It allays itching, and soothes inflammation and eruption frequently associated with dandruff.
Results achieved quickly
You simply use Listerine as a part of the shampoo, or independent of it. Douse it on the scalp full strength and massage vigorously. Keep the treatment up, using a little olive oil if the scalp is excessively dry. You will be delighted to see how quickly you get results. Frequently loose dandruff disappears after one or two treatments. Sometimes however, if the case is stubborn, a week or two and perhaps more will be required. WHAT'S MORE FUN THAN WORKING IN A GARDEN PATCH?

Eating the Vegetables and Fruits, of Course!

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

When April showers dance in and out of spring sunshine, who can resist the urge to arm himself with trowel and hoe and start the garden patch? For the small landowner with a few square feet or the suburban farmer there is a thrill in the first sowings and the anticipation of flower bordered beds overflowing with ruddy leaved beets, crisp green lettuces and herbs for seasoning both soups and sauces a month or two hence.

An acre of ground will grow an abundance to use, to store, and to give away, but the small home lot is quite sufficient for average needs and will produce a surprising amount of fresh spring greens for the kitchen kettles. Quality and not quantity is the rule in the well cultivated back door garden, because the row of carrots which supplies the family six or eight times during June may be followed by a row of string beans ready for picking in August. And when these have been enjoyed a third crop may be sown—spinach—ready for the table in October.

Vegetables Bordered by Flowers.

In the kitchen garden, where order is truly the order of the day, my preference is for a path running straight down the middle, bordered with such hardy annuals as petunias, verbenas, asters, zinnias, and candytuft. Narrow, winding paths are charming in a real flower garden picture, but quite out of keeping with the idea of the kitchen patch, and certainly inconvenient for the man with the wheelbarrow and the spraying apparatus. Behind the flowering border will peep the heads of pepper plants, eggplants, tomatoes and cabbages, long rows of peas, string and lima beans, and at the end of the garden the stately corn tassels.

A plant's title to admittance in the kitchen garden is proven by its ability to please all members of the family all the time. Certainly, no dish that the garden yields is so enticing, so wholesome, or so generally welcome as the salad. Into it anything goes; that is, if it's fresh, but one overripe tomato, one tired lettuce leaf, or one bruised celery stalk may spoil the whole bowl. So it behooves the careful gardener to make several successive sowings of lettuce and tomatoes, radishes, and cucumbers, so that the supply may not fail the summer through.

If lettuce plants have been started in a hotbed, now is the time to transplant them to the garden. Lettuce grown in midsummer is better if sheltered from the burning sun by the grape arbor or the broad leaves of the cauliflower plants. In this same category there might well be a few plants of romaine, winter endive and French endive, all of them greens that deserve to become generally grown in American gardens. There is little room in the small garden for many cabbages, but ten or twelve heads will be sufficient for the average family and add considerable decoration to the picture.

Ah, the Tomato!

Then there is the tomato, one of the favorite fruits of the garden. Three dozen plants, well cared for, will produce, literally, bushels of fruit, and over a long season, from late July until well into October. And 36 vines are none too many, even for the busy housewife, to stake carefully and trim judiciously. Early in May the peppers and cucumbers are set out. These greens will meet with tomatoes, chives, and lettuce in many a salad. Also during the spring months radishes, beets, carrots, water cress, and spinach should all be in varying degrees of progression toward the table.

There must be room for the "nine bean rows" immortalized by Mr. Yeats. Well it is for the inexperienced gardener to count his rows so that he does not let his patch run to beans and corn. Two rows of string beans are enough for the average family if followed by a planting of the wax variety, and these again by bush limas. Nor should there be beans to the exclusion of peas, another member of the great family of legumes. Just as soon as the ground can be worked is the time for the first sowing of this popular vegetable.

Our national vegetable, corn, must be relegated to the rear of the garden. It is well to avoid the impulse to plant all the seed at once, because the gardener is likely to find that performance will outrun the family's desire for the vegetable. If the space is small, it is wise to gauge the appetite as closely as possible and plant only as much seed as will yield the required number of ears for four or five days.

No Room for Potatoes.

Potatoes seldom find a place in the back door garden for they are a crop to engage the attention of the farmer or truck gardener. Among the root vegetables are turnips, salsify, and parsnips, as well as carrots and beets, but these I recommend omitting if a choice must be made between any or all of them or between corn, peas, beans, tomatoes, and lettuce. Nearly every market or huckster's cart offers root vegetables of better quality than peas, lettuce, and tomatoes, whose flavor may be impaired by standing.

There are hundreds of other possibilities for the small garden, all depending, of course, upon the family taste and your own inclination for gardening. Celery should be a strong contender for at least one row. Then there is the onion, which determines the character of more than one sauce and stew.

Last, but not least, are the old fashioned herbs without which grandmother's garden was incomplete. She had a sprig of mugwort over the door to ward off lightning and a bed of sage to insure the success of the master of the house. Nevertheless, it is the herb that adds spice to the "potpourri" of summer fragrance and gives savor to many dishes.

Even the names are aromatic—anise, basil, caraway, catnip, hoarhound, lavender, mint, and thyme. Not one of them is difficult to cultivate if started in a hotbed in March and transplanted to the garden on a dark day in May. What is more, they are not necessarily one season plants, for with a little care over the winter months, they will be there to start off next spring's little kitchen garden.

JOBLESS HELPED BY NOURISHING FOOD IN WINTER

Improvement in Condition of Many Is Noted.

Nourishing foods, as well as economical ones, have been credited by social and welfare leaders in Chicago this week with having enabled them to feed unemployed men and keep them in fit condition, even though the winter's passing has caused the evacuation of many "soup kitchens."

"There has been a decided improvement in the morale of the colored men we have been feeding since last fall," dclared A. C. Thayer, in charge of the Urban league's job of feeding as many as 1,100 men a day. Their breakfast consisted of cereal and milk, rolls or bread, and coffee.

"I don't know what there is in milk, but it seems to perk the men not well right up," declared Chef Green in the league kitchen.

Salvation Army Notes It.

Brigadier Wood of the Salvation Army's New Start lodge also commented on the improvement in the physical condition of the men in his letter of appreciation to the Milk Council of Chicago, through which organization Chicago milk dealers supplied charitable groups with milk during the winter gratis.

"Last October you would have noticed the poor, underfed condition in which these poor, unfortunate human beings were in at that time. But today, thanks to the good supply of milk which we were able to give the men every morning with their cereal, they are now in a very healthy condition. One of them worked thirty continuous hours to earn $13 during the big snowstorm, which speaks well for the food we served."

Children Improved.

Likewise, in the North Shore shelter, where school children from seven Chicago schools receive their noon meal, including Saturday and Sunday, the usual rolls and black coffee are noticeably absent. A typical meal includes meat, potatoes, a raw vegetable, two cooked vegetables, bread and butter, milk and cake.

Any leftover milk is made into cottage cheese and mixed with a vegetable or fruit the following day. The poor and malnourished children are found to make outstanding improvements in physical and mental condition.

ACREAGE IN MELONS ABOUT EQUAL TO '30 IN PRINCIPAL STATES

If Chicago housewives found sufficient supplies, at the price asked, when they bought melons last summer, it is likely they will find the same condition in retail markets within the next few months.

Government reports have been tabulated at Washington to determine the total acreage of melons in California, Florida, Texas, and Georgia. In 1930 growers planted 53,510 acres in these four states, and this year apparent plantings are 53,390 acres.

Intermediate states including the important melon sections of Arizona, California, Indiana, Maryland, Arkansas, and New Mexico probably will see acreages totaling 56,220. This is an increase of 2,850 acres over 1930, according to reports of what truck farmers in thirteen so-called intermediate season melon states intend to plant.

BY JOHN CONWAY.

Corned beef and cabbage! There is a dish that has helped to make this country what it is today.

It was one of the favorite orders of the husky giants who built the transcontinental railways, and is in much favor with the intrepid men who are erecting the magnificent skyscrapers of our times.

Corned Beef Hash.

This fare is not discarded after one meal, for the thrifty housewife assembles the "leftover" and creates therefrom corned beef hash, or a pleasing corned beef salad, both of which are entitled to honorable mention among substantial foodstuffs. Browned corned beef hash, garnished with a fried or poached egg, is something to write home about. The salad, concocted with beef, mayonnaise and pickles, makes a delicious afternoon lunch.

To obtain good results for corned beef, yearling brisket or rump is used and placed in a barrel of brine for at least 14 days.

How to Prepare It.

Here's a method that will always give you the correct amount of salt to use. Place an egg in the brine, and if it floats you have enough salt to provide for fourteen days. Some like to keep the beef in the brine longer, but if this is wanted one adds less salt.

A formula observed by cooks in preparing this palatable dish is here set down for the uninitiated. For a family of four "good eaters," a nine-pound piece of the beef is placed in a boiling pot and cooked over a low flame for about three hours. The cabbage is soaked in cold water for about fifteen minutes before boiling, and is then cooked in the juice of the beef. Serve with jacketed potatoes.

MILKMAN KEEPING LATER HOURS SO HE CAN INCREASE SALES

"Up with the milkman" no longer is a good term to use for rising exceptionally early in the morning, according to a new trend in distributing milk in Chicago, as well as many other large cities.

The milkman, it appears, is beginning to work more on daylight hours as it has been found that before daylight delivery is becoming unnecessary.

Bruce C. Parcels of Indianapolis served as chairman of a meeting of milk dealers recently in Chicago and gave reasons for this change in hours. Milk keeps sweet longer, he says. Refrigeration permits breakfast milk to be served from deliveries of the day before. This lets the wagon driver call at an hour when he can use his salesmanship to get housewives to buy commodities such as butter, cheese and eggs.

DOES NOT FADE OR STREAK

GOOD housekeepers do not tolerate soiled walls. They are gloomy and depressing—dangerous, too, because they breed germs. Any woman can make her walls like new with NO-STREKE, water and a sponge. No hard rubbing required—finger marks, dirt spots and grime disappear like magic. It will not streak. Ask for NO-STREKE at your hardware or paint store.

If your walls are streaked—don't blame the paint—try NO-STREKE. Leading painters and decorators use NO-STREKE in their work. It must be good if they prefer it.

SOUTH INDEBTED TO COLORED FOLK FOR TASTY FOOD

Cuisine Knew No Rules, but It Does Now.

BY META GIVEN.

The south is famous for its excellent cooking. And without doubt this reputation has been earned because of its colored cooks. Nowhere in the world is their cuisine excelled. And not often is it equaled. Most colored women just seem to be born cooks. Of course, their mothers before them were good cooks. Mothers and grandmothers had an opportunity to acquire the finest technique. The French taught them much and the Indians not a little.

In the days of slavery and long after their emancipation the practice they had gave them valuable experience. Provided with a profusion of game, fish, fruits, vegetables, nuts, and cereals, they did not lack for inspiration. Neither did they live without encouragement. Masters, mistresses, and young bloods were never stingy in their praise. And their cookery deserved commendation. It was a blend of Negro application and French art. And the blend was largely art, not science.

Old Cooks Know No Rules.

Those old cooks knew no rules, no measurements. It was a handful of this and a pinch of that. They cooked by feel, by sight, by instinct, by kitchen. They had no thermometers to tell them when a sirup had boiled to the soft ball stage or to know when a cake was done and a roast was roasted to a turn. Nevertheless they knew. And they rarely made a mistake. The only time they did fail was when they tried to tell others how to cook. There was no way of learning from them; only to live with them and keep one's eyes wide open. To write down their recipes as they gave them was a waste of time. True, their recipes were rich with suggestion but poor in precision.

To make these old recipes useful they have had to be standardized by trained home economists. Observation, measuring, testing and retesting have been necessary. Persistence, however, has brought good results, and now we have excellent recipes for these old fashioned southern foods.

Standardizes Southern Recipes.

We are indebted to Mrs. Margaret Range of 5808 Indiana avenue for the following recipes. Some of these recipes are Mrs. Range's own development, while the others are southern recipes which she has standardized. While Mrs. Range was born in Kansas, she was raised in the south and learned to cook there. She is a home economics graduate from Spellman college.

In feeding her family as well as in cooking, Mrs. Range makes use of her food and dietetic training. Unlike many mothers, she has had no difficulty in getting her children to drink milk, but she has had to use many schemes to induce them to eat enough vegetables. She has found that cutting the vegetables with fancy cutters will do the trick.

The fluted cubes, triangles, latticed discs, and balls, and curls of carrots, turnips and potatoes make them so interesting that no one could refuse to eat them. These fancy cuts she boils carefully in salted water, then drains and adds butter. She suggests that white sauce is not a desirable accessory to this style of vegetable because it masks the pretty shapes.

Times Her Cooking.

Mrs. Range has a commendable system of going about her cooking. She prepares all of her foods before she actually begins to cook. Each food is ready then to be put on the stove or in the oven at the proper time. For example, peas which require about 45 minutes to cook are put on the stove about 22 minutes before mealtime. Potatoes and carrots need to cook about 20 minutes, so she puts them on about 22 minutes before mealtime. With this arrangement all foods are done at the same time and they may be served when they are at their best.

Some other useful hints which Mrs. Range gives are as follows: Put a teaspoon or so of sugar in all vegetables to improve the flavor. Add a little sugar to biscuits to give good flavor and to cause them to brown nicely. Mrs. Range's recipes:

"WEENEY" BISCUITS.

4 level teaspoons baking powder.
1 tablespoon sugar.
1 teaspoon salt.
1½ cups buttermilk.

Prepare the above biscuit dough by sifting dry ingredients together. Work in the lard and butter, add milk and stir quickly until well mixed. Turn out onto a slightly floured board and knead slightly and roll or pat out ¼ inch thick. Cut in squares 2 inches long, 1½ inches wide. Take frankfurters that have been washed, dried and heated in melted butter, roll up in the biscuit dough and bake in moderate oven [400° F.] until brown. Serve with bread and butter pickles. These are good for picnic lunches.

TOASTED SLICED TOMATOES.

Salt and pepper.
2 cups cracker crumbs.

Select firm ripe tomatoes, wash and cut into slices ¼ inch thick. Place in well buttered pan, sprinkle with salt and pepper. Have prepared cracker crumbs finely rolled; cover slices of tomatoes with crumbs, dot with butter and cook in moderate oven until crackers are toasted. Arrange on hot platter, garnish with parsley and serve at once. Yield: 6 servings.

BANANA PUDDING.

Pinch salt.
2 tablespoons butter.
4 tablespoons flour.
1 cup granulated sugar.
2 eggs.
1 teaspoon vanilla.

Scald 1 cup milk, add salt and butter. Mix flour and sugar and the other ½ cup milk together, to form a smooth batter. Add beaten egg yolks and the scalded milk, then cook in double boiler until thick, about 15 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from fire, add vanilla and stiffly beaten egg whites. Set away to cool. Have ready a large dish lined with vanilla wafers, then cover with a layer of bananas that have been peeled and sliced. Cover with a boiled custard. Put another layer of wafers, bananas and custard until the dish is full. Crumble some of the wafers on top, put in ice box to chill for 3 hours. Serve with whipped cream. Yield: 8 servings.

This pudding is easily made when a good thick dessert is desired.

SHRIMP AND HAM.

1 medium slice of ham.
1 tablespoon butter.

Wash shrimps, clean and cut in half. Cut ham in small pieces, fry in butter and add frankfurters cut in small pieces. Add shrimps, then enough water to cover and cook until shrimps are done and nearly all the water is evaporated. Serve with boiled rice.

BANANA PUDDING—YUM, YUM!

Shoulder of Beef Economic Buy for Coming Week-End

In its regular weekly report issued for the guidance of consumers, the committee on marketing information of the Chicago meat council states: "The shoulder of beef is recommended to the housewife of Chicago as the most economical meat buy for the coming week-end. The fore quarter cuts of veal are also recommended as representing especially attractive values. Attractive pot roasts and stews can be prepared from these cuts."

RETAIL PRICES OF FOOD LOWEST IN MANY YEARS

Butter, Eggs and Cheese All Decline.

BY PAUL POTTER.

The family food budget for April and May can stand the light of husband-and-wife conference with a more satisfactory mien than for a decade or more in the past.

Only those who shop most casually or from a distance can have overlooked the declines of from 10 to 25 per cent, and in some cases almost 50 per cent in retail prices in the Chicago area.

Not since today's housewives were girls have they been able to buy the quality at the price that now beckons from the shelves of staples, refrigerated cases, and open counters of perishables in the nearby food marts. City folk now get their table supplies on a parity with what the farm folk were getting them a year or two ago—in freshness, variety, and cost.

Figures Prove Statements.

Here are set down some authoritative figures to bear out these striking if not joy provoking statements.

Butter and eggs, selling wholesale here for the lowest prices since 1911, could be purchased at retail for one-third to one-half of their cost in 1929. The wholesale quotations on 92 score grade butter were 22 to 23 cents, while retail prices vary from 26 to 40 cents a pound. "Extra first" grade eggs were wholesaling at 16 to 18 cents a dozen, with retail prices varying between 25 and 40 cents per dozen.

Such typical meats as beef, including steaks, mutton, new spring lamb, and most pork cuts were selling wholesale at declines of 7 to 35 per cent compared with two years ago. Retail prices in most meat markets reflect a somewhat less decline, but by watching for "bargains" based on temporary surpluses of particular meats, housewives are able to save from 10 to 25 per cent compared with one year ago.

Cheese Lowest Since 1914.

Cheese, particularly American and other more popular types, is selling this week at the lowest price since 1914. Milk in quart bottles is retailing for one cent less than a year ago. Condensed and evaporated milk is selling at lower prices per can, but the cans in most cases have been reduced in size.

Bread prices, both wholesale and retail, are either lower than at any time since before the war or contain a higher percentage of food values, such as milk solids.

Coffee prices, due to enormous foreign surpluses, are still declining in wholesale markets, and the retail prices have been reduced appreciably compared with two years ago.

Few items in the fruit and vegetable departments of grocery stores have remained at their 1929 or 1930 price levels. Even such so-called luxuries as strawberries are selling at 29 @35 cents per quart, which is considered an outstanding value by food merchants for a pre-season crop.

Citrus friuts, lettuce, and other perishable commodities have established record low prices for this time of year in recent weeks, and the savings are expected to continue in favor of consumers for several months at least.

Retail Food Prices Down.

"Retail food prices in the United States," as reported to the federal bureau of labor statistics, "showed a decrease of about ½ of 1 per cent on March 15, 1931, when compared with Feb. 15, 1931, and a decrease of a little less than 16 per cent since March 15, 1930."

Chicago, with 35 other American cities, has witnessed declines of 16@20 per cent in retail prices of foods in this same year, according to the labor bureau. Reports on 32 food items are used in arriving at these conclusions.

CRABS, CANNED OR FRESH, ARE APPETIZING DISH

BY META GIVEN.

Mrs. E. V. H. makes this request: "When you have time and space will you tell of crabs and crabmeat served hot?"

It is predicted by those who are not familiar with fish propagation and conservation that the time will come when lobsters will be so scarce that they will cease to be an article of food. But no one seems to feel that way about crabs. They are one of our most prolific crustaceans. On the Atlantic coast, especially around the Chesapeake bay, the water almost swarms with them. Here the blue crab flourishes.

To provide room for growth, the crab eliminates its old shell, or molts, each year. During this molting period, which occupies two or three days, it is a "soft shelled" crab. In this stage it is much more valuable because consumers consider the flesh more deliciously flavored than that of the hard crab. Soft crab season extends from about May 1 to Nov. 1, but the season is in its height in June. Hard crabbing is carried on during the whole year, but the bulk of the catch is obtained during the summer.

Reach Four Pound Weight.

The Dungeness crab of the Pacific is much larger than the blue crab of the Atlantic. Sometimes they weigh as much as four pounds. This variety is not taken in the "soft crab" state because they are obtained in baited traps and the molting crab does not seek food.

Crabs should be alive up until they are cooked. If they die in shipping they should be thrown away. To prepare soft shell crabs, lift up the flaps on each side of the back shell, and remove the "feathers" found under them. Remove the "apron"—the pointed piece at the lower part of the shell.

To prepare hard shell crabs, wash and plunge them headfirst into rapidly boiling salted water [1 teaspoon of salt to 1 quart of water]. Cooking requires from 20 to 60 minutes, depending on the size. After cooking, plunge in cold water. Pull off claws and remove apron. Remove shells and gills, intenstines, and sand bags; the latter are under the head. The fat is dark green or black and looks unedible, but it is good.

This method of cooking [putting the live crab into boiling water] produces the most desirable flesh and one does not need to feel wicked about the method of cooking because the crab dies instantly in the boiling water. If the meat is to be deviled or made into crab à la Newburg [but there is so much deviling and Newburgiaring of food of this kind that it is good to see it prepared in other ways], save the shells, one of which will hold the meat from two crabs.

Canned Crabmeat.

When crabmeat is canned, it is first boiled and then picked. Artemus Ward says that as the colored employés pick the crab meat from the shell and claws they do their work to the tune of "We'll Put John on the Island" and "I'm Traveling to My Grave." After the flesh is picked from the claws and shells it is weighed, inspected, canned, sealed, and processed as all other canned fish.

The canned crabmeat, which may be used in the preparation of any dish calling for crabmeat, is as delicious in flavor as the fresh, to my mind. However, I am not as discriminating a judge of flavor of sea foods as are individuals who are reared on the coast. There are a number of ways of preparing crabs. Salad, bisque, Newburg, and deviled recipes will be sent on request.

CRAB MEAT AU GRATIN.

3 tbsps. butter.
3 tbsps. flour.
¼ tsp. pepper.
¼ tsp. paprika.
1½ cups thin cream.
1-2 cup bread crumbs.
1 tbsp. Parmesan cheese.

Pick over crabmeat and remove bones. Melt butter in a saucepan, remove from heat and stir in flour, salt, pepper, and paprika. Add the cream gradually, return to heat and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Put crabmeat in a baking dish, add sauce, cover with crumbs, and sprinkle cheese over the top.

MEAT OF YOUNG HEIFERS, STEERS SAME QUALITY

The age old argument of whether young heifer or steer meat is the better has been run to the ground and a final decision rendered by the United States department of agriculture.

In coöperation with college experiment stations in Illinois, Ohio, Michigan, Missouri, Colorado, Mississippi, and Arkansas, the meat experts in Washington have discovered that "the meat from well finished heifers is equally as palatable as that from steers when the two are slaughtered at the same age."

"These findings are significant in view of the present market demand for lighter weight meat animals of good finish," declares E. W. Sheets, federal official. "The housewife likes to buy small but well finished cuts of beef. She likes steaks thick, if not otherwise too large, and would buy roasts more often if she could get them small enough."

The results of five years of testing are summarized in the department's report, which also shows that the young heifer ordinarily reaches an acceptable market finish more quickly and at lighter weight than do steers of similar breeding and feeding.

Chicago Is Called Largest Peanut Market in World

BY EVERETT SWINGLE.

"Peanuts! Five——"

Wait a minute. How would you like your peanuts? Chicago, as the peanut center of the world and the "peanut capital" of the United States, has sufficient peanut brokers, peanut storage facilities, and peanut manufacturing establishments and salesmen to supply peanuts in any form desired.

And so one can have peanuts salted, blanched, roasted in the shell, in the form of oil in salad dressing, or in the form of peanut butter, or in candy, or breakfast food, or shortening.

Then again, forgetting appetites for the moment, peanuts provide useful by-products from hulls and the oil in hulls and hearts or the whole nutmeat. Some of these by-products are shoe polish, cosmetics, harness dressing, and pressed meal for cattle feed.

150,000,000 Pounds a Year.

Approximately 150,000,000 pounds of peanuts arrive in Chicago annually from the south and southeastern states, according to Hamilton Smith Newsom, member of a firm of brokers which deals especially in peanuts, as do about fifteen other brokerage firms in the Chicago wholesale trade. He estimates that four-fifths of these are manufactured into food products before they move on again, while about 1,000 carloads are reconsigned to other markets or are stored for awhile in Chicago and then shipped on to other cities.

Proof that this is the peanut center of the United States is found in the fact that Chicago handles as many carloads as do the next seven cities, including New York, which are important in peanut trading and manufactures.

To learn after all this that the peanut is not a nut, but is a legume like beans and peas, may be a surprise, but that is the truth about the peanut's genealogy. Two types are found on the market. The most common is the small Spanish, usually the kind that is salted with the hull. These come mainly from Georgia, Alabama, Texas, and Arkansas. The Virginia, a larger goober, comes from Virginia and the northern parts of North and South Carolina.

Responsible for Monument.

From 500 to 1,000 pounds of peanuts in the shell can be harvested from an acre of land. Because less labor is involved than with raising cotton and because the peanut will thrive where cotton succumbs to the boll weevil, residents in Coffee county, Alabama, erected a monument to the boll weevil for driving them into peanut growing for their cash crop. It reads:

"In profound appreciation of the boll weevil and what it has done as a herald of prosperity, this monument is erected by the citizens of Enterprise, Coffee county, Alabama."

When the crop is ready for harvest, the farmer cuts the tap rot and pulls up the vine along with roots on which the peanuts have grown. After a few hours on the ground the vines are stacked on the field in small piles with the vines to the outside and the nuts on the inside to dry and cure four to six weeks.

At the Shelling Plant.

Then the peanuts are picked or threshed and the pods taken to shelling plants, except for the portion of the crop that is to be sold in the shell. At the shelling plant, dirt is removed, shells are cracked by machinery, stones are removed by a pneumatic process and the kernels are graded, with damaged and split and small kernels removed. Then they go to the factory.

What happens in Chicago is another interesting phase of the peanut industry. To make salted peanuts a process something like French frying of potatoes is used. The kernels are immersed in kettles of hot oil. After cooking, the excess oil is removed and the peanuts are cooled rapidly with fans, after which the salt is added.

Some plants for salting peanuts handle more than a carload or 30,000 pounds in a day. Some peanut butter factories consume a carload of nuts in a day and several Chicago candy factories often use up four to five carloads of peanuts in one day.

Go in Cold Storage.

Joseph Esler, western manager of a peanut trade journal, reports that cold storage warehouses in Chicago have more room for storing peanuts than any other market. Peanuts must go into cold storage, to come out gradually as they are needed, when warm weather arrives.

He classes Chicago as the largest peanut market in the world by stating that more peanuts are used here for the manufacture of peanut butter, salted peanuts, chocolate coated peanuts and other peanut products and more persons are engaged in the handling, manufacture and selling than in any other city.

Railroads are criticized by Chicago's peanut brokers, for permitting storage in transit rates to apply in other cities and not in Chicago from some of the producing centers, it is said. As a result, Chicago as the storage center for the peanut crop is losing some of this business to cities like St. Louis, Cincinnati, and Atlanta, a condition which dealers here report they are trying to have changed.

TRUCK GARDENERS PREPARING FOR BIG SWEET CORN CROP

Sweet corn likely will be both plentiful and cheap this summer when Cook county fields begin to supply the Chicago market by truck to wholesale and retail stores.

At least there are prospects of a heavy supply of sweet corn, based on planting intentions, according to O. G. Barrett, Cook county farm bureau adviser.

He also observes that an even greater increase in potato plantings is intended in small and large fields throughout the Chicago metropolitan area. The weather alone will determine how much of these two truck crops is produced, says Mr. Barrett.

FOLKS who've kept gardens know that sweet corn loses much of its fine flavor and tenderness unless it's prepared within less than an hour after it's picked.

Only minutes after SAVOY CORN is gathered, all of its rich, buttery goodness is sealed in.

That's why it's so superior to even the "freshest" of sweet corn found at city markets.

Treat yourself to Savoy Corn—in your favorite variety (always specified on the label). Try SAVOY CUT GOLDEN BANTAM, for example. Note that there are only the tender tips of kernels, entirely free of the core-like ends that lie next to the cob. There are no "strings" or silks. Just flavory, buttery morsels that almost melt in your mouth.

The proud SAVOY Label is an iron-clad guarantee that the variety specified is the genuine, unmixed, true type—whether it's Golden Bantam, Midget, Fancy Maine, Whole Kernel, or any of the other delicious varieties available.

WOMEN LOOK ON AS BERLIN MEN COOK FOR PRIZES

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 23.—Men, women, and children competed for Hausfrau laurels at a giant cooking and hosiery exhibition in Berlin recently, and never were the exhibition halls so crowded. The show was a gastronomic triumph unparalleled in the history of this country where good food always play an important part.

The first years after the war, the mamas and the Hausfrau were so thankful for any food obtainable that from the gourmet's point of view, eating was a duty, not an adventure in Germany—or, if an adventure, then a very disapointing one. The Food Fair showed that these sad days are over—that the Hausfrau still must save, but that she has learned to do it artistically.

The most amusing sight at the Food Fair was the cooking marathon for men, with their spouses, offspring, or sweethearts looking on, proud of cooking, critical, or admiring. When the women cooked, stout ladies formed the majority of the audience, but the performance lacked the kick the cuisine found in the sight of 160 fat he-bears—mostly fat—men wielding cooking stick or cooking spoon.

Use Minimum of Gas.

The first day, 250 women cooked a menu prescribed by the cooking jury — soup, pork, vegetables, and apples were given to each contestant. The objective of each contestant was to turn out the best tasting meal out of these ingredients, using a minimum of gas.

The meals prepared by the men were more elaborate. One hundred and sixty competed. Soup, veal filet, with macaroni, and a pudding were the hurdles in the men's cooking competition. The first prize was a gas twirler, and a bottle of cognac.

The children felt very important. A nine year old miss won the first prize for the best egg pancakes, and a delicate dessert, out of sixty versions of pancakes and chocolate dessert.

Then, as final climax, Berlin's theater and movie stars marched into the cooking hall to demonstrate their favorite dishes.

Exhibits by All Dealers.

There were exhibits by all the leading sausage makers, the breweries, the dealers in wines and liquors, the cooking utensil and restaurant outfitting concerns, the bakeries, the coffee grinders, and the dish washing machine manufacturers. In fact, everything connected with eating at home or elsewhere.

DECORATIONS FOR ULTRA MODERN TABLE

DON'T SHY AT HASH; IT'S GOOD IF HOME MADE

BY FLORA MARTIN.

Have you received a proper introduction to hash? Or did you scrape up an acquaintance with it in one of its tasteless forms, thereafter shying from it and considering it one of the foods to be avoided? If the latter is the case, you are probably strong in your belief that all hash is the same and not worth the trying.

Admittedly, some of the hash that is turned out in restaurants should be tabooed. It's a poor imitation of the real thing and to most people's way of thinking is composed of everything but the kitchen sink.

Leftovers Made Tasty.

Homemade hash, however, will change your opinion and will overcome whatever prejudices you may have developed. True enough, it is usually made up of the meat left over from the night before. That, in some people's estimation, is enough to seal its doom. But, after all, leftovers can be fixed up and can be made even more tasty than they were in their original form.

Take corned beef, for instance. Although its admirers are many, there also are an equal number who would not offer two cents for the best corned beef dinner. However, corned beef in the guise of hash might appeal to them.

Not only is the ground corned beef presented in a different makeup in hash, but the boiled potatoes, which are ground up with it, also appear in a new light. So thoroughly disguised are the meat, potatoes, and onions that an entirely new and interesting dish is created.

Some Add Carrots.

Some recipes recommend carrots as another component; other include green peppers. Meat, potatoes, and onions, sprinkled with the proper amount of seasoning, are the important parts of perfect hash.

Sometimes it is served with a small portion of tartar sauce on the side to add to its tastiness.

2 cups chopped cooked potatoes.
Salt and pepper.
½ cup milk or water.
2 tablespoonfuls butter or other fat.

Grind beef, potatoes, and onions in food chopper and season. Pour the milk into a frying pan with half the fat, and when this is warm turn in the hash, spreading it evenly and placing the rest of the fat, cut in pieces, on the top. Cover the pan and place it where the hash will cook slowly for half an hour. There should then be a rich, thick crust on the bottom. Do not stir the hash.

Slow Heating Best.

Fold it as an omelet is folded and place it on a warm platter. This slow process of heating the hash gives it a flavor that cannot be obtained by hurried cooking. Yield: 4 servings.

1 cup of milk.
1½ cups chopped carrots.
3 onions.
1 teaspoon of minced parsley.

Put meat, carrots, potatoes, and onion through food chopper. Mix thoroughly and add milk and seasoning. Put in casserole, cover with coarse bread crumbs, dot with bits of butter, and bake an hour.

PEACOCKS ONCE IMPORTANT DISH IN OLD ENGLAND

BY ANGELA PETESCH.

According to our present standards of living peacocks are not given a berth on modern bills of fare. The flesh is dry and tasteless. But in old England an important dish at feasts was a "peacock in his pride." The appearance of the peacock at the table wound up the feast as directions were to "serve him for the last course."

As many as 400 birds were prepared and served at a great feast given by George Nevill, chancellor of England, in the days of Edward IV. And the practice appeared as late as 1791 at which time a dinner was given in the West Indies for H. R. H. the duke of Clarence and the "royal bird with his tail spread was placed in the middle of the table."

Feathers as Decorations.

Without a little explanation one might think when he reads "with his tail spread" that the bird was dished up in his animated state. But take heart, the feathers and the spreading tail were only decoration for the roasted bird. First the peacock was skinned and stuffed—stuffed with spices and sweet herbs. The skin with all the feathers and tail attached was put aside to be replaced later when it was "served whole with the comb entire and the tail spread." The head of the peacock and the neck were left on and were covered with a wet cloth to preserve the feathers of the crown while roasting.

A recipe in the language of the day [1400] put it this way:

"Fle him the skyn and the ffethurs togidre and the hede still to the skyn of the nekke," and when roasted "Wynd the skyn with the fethurs and the tail abought the body and serve him forthe as he were alive." As a little sid.. issue let us draw your attention to the fact that the spelling seems to have little or no standardization, the word "feathers" having been spelled two different ways in the same paragraph.

Served By Most Distinguished.

Sometimes the peacocks were covered with gold leaf rather than the gay feathers being replaced. In this case, too, the head and neck were left intact and a bit of cotton which had been dipped in spirits was put in the beak and set fire. It is probable that the gold leaf idea was used to decorate the more sober plumaged birds.

According to the old custom the honor of serving the peacock was left to those guests most distinguished either in birth, rank, valour or beauty.

THE CLICK OF THE GATE

By Alice Campbell

SYNOPSIS.

Iris de Bertincourt lives in a remote section of Paris with her 13 year old daughter, Clare. She and Maj. Alan Charnwood are desperately in love, but there are barriers to their immediate marriage. They are spending the last evening they will have together in several months, as Maj. Charnwood plans to leave next day for Africa. Clare is acting in a school play and is to be brought home by friends.

Iris has been separated for years from her husband, Marcel de Bertincourt, a man of enormous charm but utterly lacking in moral sense. Iris and he are cousins, and the possible heirs of their aunt, Victoire, the Comtesse de Castelmaurou. Iris plans to divorce her husband and marry Alan when he returns, but she is keeping her plans secret, as she wishes to avoid the interference of her tyrannical aunt, who has until recently ruled her life.

INSTALLMENT V.

AN AUTOCRATIC VISITOR.

Six minutes later the Comtesse de Castelmaurou arrived.

Iris had just managed to bundle the coffee tray and her husband's unwelcome flowers into the kitchen and to fly upstairs to make a quick change in her dress. As she slipped on a loose coat of apple green velvet and thrust her feet into mules she caught sight of her flushed cheeks in the glass and wondered guiltily if her aunt would be taken in by her fiction of illness.

She was in the act of drawing the chaise longue close to the fire when the comtesse's car rolled up. At the sound her heart began to flutter absurdly. In a second's space she had changed from a self-sufficient woman to a timid delinquent, dreading a reprimand. How unreasonable to be so affected by the very thought of her aunt's presence! It was a weakness she could never hope to make Alan understand, but, ashamed though she was, she could never quite overcome it. She found herself rubbing her lips violently to remove the invisible mark of recent kisses.

The tap tap of a cane now beat upon the flags outside. Another moment and she held the door open to admit the comtesse and the latter's shrinking maid, Ursule.

"How's this? Not in bed?" A harsh voice grated on her ear, while a pair of gimlet eyes bored into hers from beneath the high brim of a feathered hat.

Iris explained that she was waiting up for Clare.

"I must let her in, you know. Mathilde is spending the evening with her brother in Montrouge."

"So! You permit your servant to go out and leave you alone in the house? Your rashness stupefies me!"

"But I'm not really ill—only a slight cold."

"It is quite evident you have a fever."

Bestowing a formal peck on each of her niece's cheeks, the comtesse stalked majestically into the salon. Well over seventy, she was still powerful and erect as some gnarled old hornbeam—no hint of compromise in her bearing, no suggestion that any command issued by her could possibly be disobeyed. Her rather musty garments of heavy silk rustled with the voice of autocracy, superior to passing styles; her old-fashioned hat, perched like a platform above a "transformation" crinkled and dried like the stuffing of a mattress; on her feet were kid shoes with elastic sides.

At no time could she have been good looking. Her chin was too pronounced, her nose a veritable beak thrust forward to scent out misdoing. Her small, darting eyes, full of suspicion, were sunk to mere burnt coals in the depths of her face, which was puckered and brown like a withered magnolia petal.

In the center of the room she paused, looking slowly round. Iris saw her fix her gaze on the ash tray and trembled lest she should notice that the stumps it contained were of English cigarettes. However, she made no comment and continued her relentless exploration till her glance fell on Iris' uncovered chest. Then she spoke.

The maid vanished, could be heard prowling about overhead, prying amongst Iris' belongings. Indignation surged in the victim's breast, but she knew how idle it was to protest.

Ursule returned, tucked a shawl round Iris' shoulders, then stood by with folded hands and a cringing demeanor. She was a little, wrinkled woman, brittle and spry, all life crushed out of her long ago. Her watery eyes dwelt watchfully on her mistress, her fingers, swollen with rheumatism, plucked at the cuffs of her sleeves.

"Put more wood on the fire and if there is a window open close it. . . . That will do. Now wait in the dining room—and shut both doors."

The words had an ominous implication. Iris was now convinced that her aunt knew about Alan Charnwood, though through what channel she could not guess, for she had taken no one into her confidence. Curiosity mingling with her dread, she braced herself, swallowing nervously.

However, the comtesse delayed, seeming indeed to lose some of her habitual directness. Returning to an old bone of contention, she denounced Iris' mode of life, the slummy neighborhood, the dangers of a detached villa.

"Your habitation is not only unsuitable for a woman in your position, but positively unsafe. No concierge, no man servant! How long, pray, do you mean to continue this undignified existence?"

Not daring to show resentment, Iris replied that she liked the Passage de l'Oratoire and would certainly remain in it till she could afford something better.

"A poor excuse! As you are well aware, financial considerations need not weigh with you. No, I am forced to the conclusion that your reasons are entirely selfish."

"Selfish!"

This was the last accusation Iris had expected. She stared, astonished, at her elderly critic, who lost no time in making her meaning clear.

"I used the word advisedly. In order to indulge your willful craving for independence you constantly sacrifice the well-being of innocent persons."

"But whom?" cried Iris, still amazed.

"Your daughter, chiefly. I, too, suffer humiliation, but that is of small account. Clare is now at a critical age. Instead of being safe in a convent school, under the supervision of good nuns, she goes daily to a vulgar lycée, traveling in public vehicles through sordid streets at the risk of being followed, insulted. Who can say what may come of it?"

"But she seldom goes about alone, Tante Victoire," objected Iris. "Surely you know that I take her to school in the mornings and that she is called for by Mathilde. Nothing whatever could happen to her."

"You cannot be certain. I strongly suspect that she has much greater freedom than you realize. Besides, she is undoubtedly forming friendships which can do her no good. Still, let it pass. At the moment I have come here because I knew I should find you alone to speak about a matter of far greater importance—one which I regard as the root and source of all lesser troubles. In fact——" Here she drew herself up and paused to give full weight to her next words. "I wish to speak about your husband."

"Marcel?" cried Iris, startled.

She was right, then. In some mysterious way the comtesse had guessed her intentions, meant to ferret out the truth. Moistening her dry lips, she tried to show surprise and only succeeded in looking guilty.

"Yes, Marcel. He tells me he has written to you, but that you refuse to answer his letters. Is that so?"

Iris nodded. This was something she had concealed from Alan, not wishing to distress him. Marcel had written, not long ago, tentatively suggesting an interview, but, considering his overtures impertinent, she had done nothing about it. She knew very well why he was approaching her now she had made a success and a life of her own. It was simply his colossal vanity, his inordinate desire to prove that his ability to fascinate still held good. He was like that always. It hurt his pride to know that any woman could become indifferent to him.

"He has no real reason to want to see me, Tante Victoire," she said, her face hardening. "It is a whim, nothing more. I had hoped all this was over, that you would never mention our relations again."

"I should not have ventured to do so," the old woman returned with remarkable clemency, "if Marcel's attitude had remained what it was. No one could have execrated his past conduct more severely than I have done, nor more deeply sympathized with you. However, you are wrong. If he is endeavoring to come to some understanding with you it is because his character is wholly changed. In short, he is earnestly desirous—he has told me so—of reassuming his duties as a husband and a father."

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Seeks Electrical Appliance.

"I am an old woman, alone in the world, and have an affliction which causes poor circulation. As I must work every day I would like to get some electrical appliance which would help to improve my condition. Do you think you could secure this for me through your column? E. S."

An electric vibrator or sun machine would have an improving effect on this woman's condition, I am sure. If you have either of these and do not use it, won't you donate it to her?

Bright Sayings of the Children

Harriet, my little 4 year old neighbor, had a new playmate, Jean, whom I hadn't seen.

She was telling me about her and I said: "Is she cute?"

"Well, she would be cuter if she had a different face," replied Harriet.

Recently Billy was busy eating a doughnut and his grandfather kindingly asked him if he ate the hole, too.

Take Skin Troubles in Early Stages; Avoid Woe Later

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

As I said yesterday, the acne complaints are pouring in heavily. They do at this time of year. It isn't necessary for me to enlarge on the mental suffering of girls subject to acne condition. The discouraging feature is that acne is not an overnight descent upon a skin surface. It's been quite a long while in the making. Consequently, it takes a little time to get the face completely cleared of the blemishes.

So, first, I would urge mothers, interested in the development of good looking daughters [and what mother shouldn't be?] to watch the small daughters around 11, 12, 13, and 14 closely for the symptoms of later acne cases. Inspection for signs of acne should be made early with children. And there should be no sparing of soap and water to spoil the perfect school girl complexion.

Especially at the age of puberty, when the blackhead formation begins to show clearly, make the girls wash their faces three and four times a day with a good, bland soap and warm water and always insist that they follow this with a cold rinse. The proper diet at this period must be observed, too, and any constipation tendency corrected, even if medical aid has to be solicited.

For the advanced stages, where the removal of blackheads is difficult, the use of a local application becomes necessary. There is a well known lotion commended by reputable skin men, called lotio alba, highly effective in acne treatment. In having the lotion prepared, note in your instructions that the ingredients be dissolved separately before mixing them. Better have the lotion prepared by a good, reliable chemist.

The formula is one dram each of potassium sulphuret and zinc sulphate to four ounces of distilled water. Apply enough of the lotion, preferably on retiring, to create a visible film of powder on the skin. In obstinate cases make more frequent applications. Don't use any oily cosmetics while you are treating the face. And be most particular to remove all makeup application with a good soap and water cleansing.

If you want more detailed information on the care of the skin cleaning up of blemishes, I suggest that you send for my booklet on the subject, for in it you'll find much information of value to those seeking a clear, unblemished skin of beauty.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

L. R.: A COLD SHOWER IS healthful, but it is not sufficient for cleanliness. In addition to the morning shower, a warm bath should be taken at night. A warm bath relaxes the muscles and nerves and induces sleep.

Printed Organdy Is Smart for Summer

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Flowered organdie is back for summer afternoons. The demure sprigged muslins so dear to the hearts of sweet girl graduates in the early 1900s are among Chanel's very smartest contributions to the latest Paris fashions. Of course they are intended for young girls or girlish young women, but then you've noticed that Paris has returned to her old love of ingenues and the siren is by way of suffering another sartorial eclipse.

Ardanse calls the adorably ruffled flowered organdie gown sketched today L'été, which means summer, and it would be hard to find a more appropriate name for it. It is of white organdie printed all over with tiny sprigs of deep rose roses.

Its skirt has a fitted yoke at the top outlined by an incrusted finely plaited band and another one runs right down the center front of the skirt. The rest of the skirt is all made of petal panels outlined with finely plaited flounces of organdie bound with rose taffeta that mount vertically on the skirt in the way Paris likes to mount ruffles now. Double ruffles of the taffeta bound organdie tied with rose taffeta bows finish the elbow sleeves and edge the round yoke underlining the moderate décolleté.

Critic Acts as Ringmaster of Book Circus

FRIDAY seems to be circus day for us. Five rings, all of them filled with excitements, novels, and short stories, performing in one biographies and memoirs cavorting in another; travel tales and books about far places doing voodoo in a third; mystery yarns making the audience catch their breaths in a fourth, and books of nonfiction dispersing thrills in a fifth.

CHARLES PETTIT.

In the first ring, ladies and gentlemen, you will see "THE IMPOTENT GENERAL" [Liveright], by Charles Pettit, who delights in oriental indiscretions. He wrote "The Son of the Grand Eunuch," "The Woman Who Commanded 500,000,000 Men," "Elegant Infidelities of Madame Li Pei-fou," and "Feial of the Rose," you remember, all of them witty and a little wanton.

The hero of his latest oriental phantasy was overtaken with ludicrous and ridiculous misfortunes—after a life of fabulous success in war and love. The whole story is translated from the French by Una Lady Trowbridge.

Baby, by Genevieve Nolan [Brewer & Warren], is as different an act from M. Pettit's as it is possible to imagine. Miss Nolan talks about people and places and things that everybody knows about. The heroine, although 35 years old, is treated like a baby by every one. Her personality is battened down by her family and all the things she wants to do and to be (including a loving wife) look as if they were going to be scuttled. But there is a good rousing storm and Baby emerges from the hold and does all the things she wants to do, including being a song writer and wearing a wedding ring that "takes so little room on a finger, so much room in a life."

The Shiny Night, by Beatrice Tunstall [Doubleday-Doran] is a strong, clear, impressive English act which lasts sixty years, beginning with a murder and ending with the murderer's complete conquest of his enemies. These enemies the hero symbolized by images which he hewed from stone and which were to him the outward and visible sign of his vengeance and his curse. "The Shiny Night" on which the hero was trapped at his poaching was Oct. 15, 1830.

Salute to Heaven, by Manfred Hausmann [Knopf], is a shorter turn. It has for principal performer a pleasant person named Lampion, a cheerful, educated soul, who is delightfully a tramp. Eight stories either are told to him or shared with him in their crises. He retells them with charm. "Salute to Heaven" is translated from the German by Caroline Fredrick.

American Earth, by Erskine Caldwell [Scribners], is a collection of short stories which are labeled "close to the earth." They look more like tubers than morning glories to me.

The Web of Youth, by W. E. Suskind [Brewer & Warren], is the star performer on today's fiction program. News about it will be found on tomorrow's book page.

In the second ring four volumes give the public a swell show for their money. "FLYING DUTCHMAN" [Holt] is the amazing life of Anthony H. G. Fokker, inventor of the airplane which bears his name, who at 40 has had more things happen to him than you ever dreamed of in your philosophy, Horatio. He was only 23 when the world war ended. He then was a multimillionaire, apparently a man without a country, for, born in Holland, he had been made a German citizen when his airplane designs were accepted by the Germans. Incidentally, he built a plane before he saw one in the air and he taught himself to fly. A young man of his day, this Tony Fokker. He tells his story to Bruce Gould, who sets it down.

Two ladies of a past generation are celebrated in biographies today, Lydia E. Pinkham, whose "love for the human race" used to be sung with glee by glee clubs, and Helena Petrovna Blavatsky, who founded Theosophy. C. E. Bechhofer Roberts has written in "THE MYSTERIOUS MADAME" [Brewer & Warren], a human and absorbing volume about Mme. Blavatsky. Strangely enough, it is the first fully documented biography of the woman who founded one of the great popular religions of the day.

According to Robert Collyer Washburn's "THE LIFE AND TIMES OF LYDIA E. PINKHAM" [Putnam], there was also a great deal of missionary spirit about the inventor of the vegetable compound.

Mock Turtle, by Barnaby Brook [Minton Balch], is a volume of pseudonymous reminiscences of the Victorian age by some one who is indiscreet about the great, but in a typically though charming Victorian manner.

In ring three one book gallops off with your attention, "Under the North Pole," by Sir Hubert Wilkins [Brewer-Warren & Putnam], the whole story of the proposed Wilkins-Ellsworth submarine expedition to the north pole, that we've been hearing so much about lately. It tells how the idea happened and gives the complete plans for the expedition.

In ring four mysteries give you chills of fear and fevers of excitement. Dashiell Hammett's "The Glass Key" [Knopf] is such a grand thriller about dirty politics that it seems more of a social picture than a casual spine-tickler. But there's a murderer for you to pursue and TRY to catch.

The Second Ghost, by Anthony Berkeley, is the Crime club selection for May. It starts with a real murder that takes place during that popular game, "Murder." Snappy idea, that.

And in ring five P. D. Ouspensky, author of "Tertium Organum," gives the world "A New Model of the Universe" [Knopf]. It is a volume on the "principles of the psychological method in its application to problems of science, religion, and art." Ouspensky is acknowledged as one of the most brilliant of Russia's philosophers.

FACE LIFTING FOR MEN PREDICTED AS AN ECONOMIC HELP

Oakland, Cal., April 23.—(AP)—Face lifting, instead of being a mere fad of foolish women, is in many cases an economic necessity, so declared Dr. Vilray P. Blair, professor of clinical surgery in the Washington university medical school, St. Louis. He spoke at the sectional meeting of the American College of Surgeons here today.

He predicted the day would come when not only many women would resort to it, but that many men would find it a solution of their sense of inferiority. It is not, the surgeon averred, the society women alone who have face surgery performed, but working women who find it helps them hold their jobs.

The best face liftings should endure six to eight years, he said, and not all persons should have such operations performed. Fat faces, for instance, can not be helped. There is, too, an element of risk.

D. A. R. Censors Hamilton Fish's Speech on Reds

Deletes Criticisms of U. S. Nicaragua Policy.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 23.—Rap the communists; but don't rap the United States government for not rapping the communists as much as you think the communists should be rapped.

That, substantially, is the theory on which the Daughters of the American Revolution worked today when they blue penciled an advance copy of the speech which Representative Hamilton Fish of New York is scheduled to give their 40th annual tomorrow before congress.

HAMILTON FISH.

The original speech rebuked the state department for its alleged indecisive policy with regard to Nicaragua, and intimated that a more penetrating official eyesight would have seen that communist money was buying the guns that killed Americans in Nicaragua.

The board of directors of the D. A. R. looked over the speech; got worried, "due to the fact that the reading public has too often interpreted the utterances of our speakers as being the expression of policy of the society," sent it back to Mr. Fish with the request that the offending paragraphs be deleted.

"To this request," read the notice which the D. A. R. sent to the press, "he most graciously consented."

And in return for this concession the D. A. R. shortly after the amended speech is delivered tomorrow is expected to adopt a resolution praising Mr. Fish for his investigation of communist activities.

The original speech, by the way, will not be thrown into the waste basket. Unsponsored by the D. A. R., but helped by their publicity, it will be begun in the talkies Saturday.

With 50 per cent of the speech deleted, the convention turned its attention to deleting two of its nine candidates for the seven vice presidencies. The counting of the votes went on late into this evening, and later the election of the following was announced: Mrs. Charles E. Herrick, Chicago; Mrs. Herbert Fay Gaffney, Georgia; Mrs. William H. Vaught, West Virginia; Mrs. William H. Pouch, New York; Mrs. James T. Rountree, Texas; Mrs. James B. Crankshaw, Indiana, and Mrs. Charles F. Bathrick, Michigan.

Mrs. James Franklin Trottman of Milwaukee, who previously had complained that a whispering campaign was making "the ridiculous accusation that I am a friend of La Follette's," was defeated. So was Mrs. Walter C. Johnson of Tennessee.

Remarks Stricken Out at Request of the D. A. R.

Washington, D. C., April 23.—(AP) Later the office of Representative Fish made public a statement described as the substance of the deleted remarks.

Referring to the announcement that the American government would not use force to protect its citizens in the interior of Nicaragua, Fish said:

"Nine American citizens, at work on their plantations in Nicaragua have been brutally murdered by the bandits under Sandino, financed by the communist All-America Anti-Imperialist league, with headquarters in New York City, and the only answer is that our policy has been changed again and we will withdraw our marines next month. . . .

"I never had much sympathy with sending marines to Nicaragua or any other Central American country, and the sooner they are withdrawn the better. However, I am afraid that the state department has made a serious mistake by retreating under fire after nine American citizens had been murdered in cold blood."

Mrs. Walker told of "instances where communists were detected as starting runs on banks by whispering campaigns."

She spoke in praise of D. A. R. chapters which already "have taken the initiative of pledging themselves not to buy anything made in soviet Russia."

10,427 Pastors 'Wouldn't Fight in Any War'

Most of 19,372 Oppose Military Training.

New York, April 23.—(AP)—More than ten thousand Protestant clergymen in the United States are personally prepared to state it in their present purpose not to sanction any future war or to participate as an armed combatant.

The number—totaling 10,427—represents 54 per cent of 19,372 ministers who replied to a questionnaire sent out by ten New York clergymen under the auspices of The World Tomorrow, edited by Kirby Page.

The other 8,945 clergymen were divided in groups of willing to participate, 6,628; in doubt, 2,930; no answer, 254.

Eighty-three per cent of the 19,372 clergymen were opposed to military training in schools; 66 per cent believed the United States should enter the league of nations; 80 per cent favored a reduction in armaments, even if the United States were compelled to take the initiative and make a proportionately greater reduction than other nations are yet willing to do.

Sixty-two per cent believed the policy of armed intervention in other nations for the protection of American citizens and property should be abandoned, and a like number believed the churches now should go on record as refusing to sanction or support any future war.

Thirty-four per cent said they could not conscientiously serve as an official army chaplain on active duty in war time, and 37 per cent did not regard the distinction between "defensive" and "aggressive" war as sufficiently valid to justify participation in a war of "defense."

Mr. Page pointed out that the replies do not reflect the attitude of several important religious bodies, namely, the Jews, Catholics, Lutherans, Southern Baptists, and Southern Methodists.

"The total number of clergymen in the country exceeds 100,000," he said, "and it was necessary on the grounds of expense and time involved to limit the inquiry to 53,000."

Of the 53,000 clergymen circularized 33,628 failed to send replies before the closing of the canvass.

The groups represented in the answers are the Methodist Episcopal, Presbyterian, Congregational, Protestant Episcopal, Baptist, Disciples of Christ, Reformed, United Brethren, Evangelical synod, Unitarian and Universalist, theological seminaries and miscellaneous clergy.

"It is significant," Mr. Page said, "that 17,700 persons, or 91 per cent, expressed a willingness to have their names and replies made public."

Parents and Teachers Act for Abolition of Wars.

East St. Louis, Ill., April 23.—(AP)—The Illinois congress of parents and teachers, representing 118,400 members, adopted a resolution at the final session of its annual convention here today reaffirming "our stand in favor of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act," and urging "vigorous and impartial enforcement of all laws."

The convention also voted to approve the action of its board of managers, which recently wrote Gov. Louis L. Emmerson a letter commending his veto of a bill for the repeal of the state liquor enforcement laws and the Illinois search and seizure act. A few of the women, however, said "no" when asked to approve the board's action.

Another resolution said, "We believe that war between nations as a settlement of international dispute is a crime against civilization and we would build the lives of our children such ideals and attitudes toward justice and good will as will remove the cause of war and lead to universal peace."

The convention indorsed health education "which will guarantee every child freedom from remediable defects, and the establishment of habits, attitudes and needs of physical health."

The congress again went on record as favoring education as to the use of tobacco, alcohol, and "other habit-forming drugs, and we especially deplore the use of cigarets by minors."

The convention urged improved methods of maternity and infancy care, as well as in rural sanitation and health service. It favored teaching of safety measures and indorsed a legislative bill providing for motor car drivers' licenses.

The proposal for a national department of education, with a secretary in the cabinet, was indorsed.

Two Winners of Scholarship Play for Stock

BY EDWARD MOORE.

THE popular concerts of the Chicago Symphony orchestra closed last night at Orchestra hall on a note of cheery jubilation unusual even for the popular series. For one thing, the two winners of the Frederick Stock scholarship fund contest played the Paderewski Concerto for piano.

The jury sitting on this contest found themselves on a tie vote as to the winner, wherefore they dcreed that Miriam Ulrich should play the first movement of the work in this performance and Wanda Paul the second and third. Hearing both of these young artists last night, I can quite understand why it was that the jurors came to a deadlock on the question. They are both pianists of more than common ability, both of them technically proficient, and both with a sense of music that goes deeper than correct note playing.

But this was not all. After Eric De Lamarter had finished conducting the suite from his music to "The Betrothal," an uncommonly likable set of music, he appeared against bearing a message to the effect that some one wanted to hear the "Blue Danube" waltzes. Whereupon Dr. Stock came to the platform, took the baton, and instead of merely conducting the orchestra, turned to the audience and besought them to sing the tunes, with results, which as he said at the end, were not bad for a rehearsal.

It was gay and cheerful evening.

The Young American Artists series closed its fifteenth season at Curtiss hall last night with a joint recital by Olive Meminger, mezzo-soprano, and Ruth Alzella Wilkins, pianist. Miss Meminger, heard in songs by Caccini and Sibella, justified her mezzo-soprano classification in range, but in quality aroused the suspicion that she is a truncated lyric soprano with good chances of being a completed lyric by and by. In the meantime she has become a pretty fair singer.

Miss Wilkins introduced herself in one of the piano antiquities, two movements from the Moscheles Concerto in G minor. She did it with quite a bit of manner and more than a little ability, projecting a tone with quality and quite as much artistic sympathy as the piece deserved. As a matter of fact, she could easily have made good effect in something nearer to present day style. Ella Snell Gara played the second piano.

A few weeks ago the possibility of changing the time of the Saturday night Chicago Symphony concerts was suggested. The possibility has now become a fact.

FARM AND GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

HOW TO GET BETTER LAWNS.

Two of the most logical treatments for lawns at the present season of the year are described by two authorities, one of whom is at Purdue university in Indiana and the other at the college of agriculture at the University of Illinois.

Alternate freezing and thawing, especially such as has occurred during the last few months of an unusual winter season, means that rolling the lawn is highly desirable, says S. W. Decker of the floricultural division of the Illinois college of agriculture. Several additional light rollings during the growing season also are desirable, except that it should not be done while the soil is wet, he advises.

Another timely treatment is that discussed by Oliver C. Lee, botanist on the agricultural extension staff of Purdue university. He suggests a plant food treatment to hasten the growth of the grass in order to crowd out weeds.

Thanks Given Mundelein for Aid to College

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Copyright: 1931: By The Chicago Tribune.]

ROME, April 23.—Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago received the applause and tanks of 500 prelates and seminarians for his assistance in making the new College of Propaganda Fide here possible. This was during imposing ceremonies unveiling a large bronze bust of Pope Pius XI. in the main hall of the new college this afternoon. The college will be formally dedicated tomorrow.

Nine cardinals attended today's ceremonies and Cardinal Mundelein was seated between Cardinal Van Rossum and Cardinal Pietro Gasparri. After a musical program Msgr. Dini, rector of the Propaganda Fide, made a short address thanking Cardinal Mundelein. He was followed by Msgr. Salotti, secretary of the Propaganda Fide. He said that the new college was due to Pope Pius' initiative supported by the coöperation of eminent personages, citing specially Cardinals Mundelein and Van Rossum. He expressed hope that Cardinal Mundelein's sojourn in Rome, where he passed part of his student days, would be for him a renewal of his own youth.

For today's ceremonies the college was decorated with the flags of the various nations, with the American flag predominating. Cardinal Mundelein expects to have a long audience with the pope on Saturday. He will report on the affairs of his archdiocese, and probably will inform the pontiff of the repercussion in the United States to the pontiff's recent encyclicals on the education of youth and chaste marriage.

At his hotel tonight Cardinal Mundelein received visits from several high personages in the Vatican city.

The cardinal's first day in Rome was busy. Early this morning he received Msgr. Kiley, spiritual director of the American college in Rome, and after him Msgr. Quinn, national director of the Propaganda Fide in the United States.

Today, St. George's day, was the cardinal's saint day, and in honor of it students of the Archepiscopa Seminary college of Chicago had sent to him a huge basket of flowers which required ten men to carry, and which was with difficulty brought into the hotel.

When Small Town Gets Unbearable, Leave, Says Doris

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Give a dog a bad name in a small town and he's just about got to move on. Fannie Hurst gave us a pretty good idea of that in her most recent novel.

In a certain nearby place is living a girl of 23, who, after a period of two or three years of excitement chasing (from 18 to 21, to be exact), has been trying hard to live down a reputation for being a "fast one," as she herself puts it. However, the girl's actual behavior at no time warranted any such phrasing, she firmly contends.

But there she is, isolated from company of school girl and boy acquaintanceship. Their parents are prejudiced, chiefly because of publicity that befell the girl along with a motor accident, in which she was one of what the police determined was a gin party.

"I was young, then, and terribly thoughtless, but on my word of honor I swear I never did anything bad. Foolish I was—but never what I know is said about me. Any of the fellows I ran around with could tell that about me, if they would . . ."

The girl's question is whether it wouldn't be wiser for her to strike out for some other city, a distant one, and begin all over again, among new friends and in different employment. If there are no responsibilities to hold the girl in the small town, why not step off into a totally new atmosphere? More than one girl has recovered her standing after a period of absence during which time she has made good.

Perhaps the present moment isn't the timeliest one to suggest a move that involves employment seeking. But, ordinarily, a bright girl, who for one reason or another, has been made to feel inferior in small town social events, does the best thing possible for herself and her future by escaping to a new environment.

A friend tea-d recently with a woman in a beautifully appointed apartment which she'd won entirely on her own. A niece of hers was stranded in a small place with an invalid mother and a drunken father. "The girl hasn't a chance there," the aunt commented.

Child of Six Has Constant Fears as Result of Movies

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

In connection with the thinking we've been doing in this column on fear, the following letter has a special interest:

"My dear Mrs. Bevans: My son, who is 6½ years old, is in constant fear. He is afraid of dogs, and at night he will not even go from one room to another alone, and sometimes he is even afraid of shadows. I have explained to him that there is nothing to fear because there is no one in the family who is afraid. I have also had him examined by the doctor to see if there is anything wrong with him, but there is not. Also I have taken him to the dentist to check up on his teeth, because I want to be sure there is nothing physically wrong with him.

"This trouble started about six months ago when I allowed him to go to a movie. Now I do not allow him to go to any movies. Can you offer any suggestions on how to overcome this fear? I would appreciate them very much."

This mother has gone about her problem intelligently. She has eliminated physical causes. She has tried to argue the thing away. She has figured out the cause. But in six months she has not been able to effect a cure. There is no rule that applies to each individual difficulty.

Six is, after all, very young—and a highly impressionable age. Even when young children have something that frightens them explained it doesn't always explain it away. Halloween false faces, for example, will continue to terrify children of 5 and 6 even after the mask is taken off and they see familiar features behind it. Movies are terrifically impressive and exciting and real to little children, and the darkness and differentness of the surroundings add to the effect of the pictures themselves.

This little boy has been deeply impressed by the experience he had, and he must be helped.

Suggestions will be made tomorrow.

Society Turns Fancy Toward Louisville

BY THALIA

CONSIDER the versatility of the Casino ballroom! One day it is a depot for collecting elegant castoffs—i. e.: White Elephant rummage tea on Tuesday—the next it is peopled with smart luncheon parties and brings forsomes, and the next it is something else again.

Yesterday afternoon it was a movie picture house. Howard Gillette arranged a showing of movies of the famous "Grand National" at Aintree, England, and this one "for the benefit of the ladies." The pictures were shown at 5:30 o'clock.

And speaking of racing and horses, the Chicago pilgrimage to Louisville for the Kentucky Derby on May 16 is to be, as usual, a large one. Early reservations for clubhouse boxes at Churchill Downs have been made by Sheldon Clark, Thorne Donnelley, John B. Drake, Charles R. Knickerbocker, Albert D. Lasker, Otto W. Lehmann, Mrs. Francis Manierre, L. M. Stein, and Fred McNally. The Stuyvesant Peabodys are to take a house in Louisville for Derby week, as has been their custom for the last several years. They will have a house party and much gay entertaining while they're in the Blue Grass region.

Carter Harrison 71 Years Old and the Family Celebrates.

Mr. Carter H. Harrison's 71st birthday, which was yesterday, was celebrated by the various members of his family at a dinner party given on Wednesday evening by his sister, Mrs. Keaton Owsley, at her apartment. Did you notice the cute story in the column "Sixteen Years Ago Today" in yesterday's editorial page about Mr. Harrison's mint patch and his mint julep recipe, and wasn't it a coincidence?] The Harrisons haven't made their summer travel plans yet, but Mr. Harrison is going up to Huron Mountain in a week or so for a short stay. Their daughter, Mrs. Edith Harrison Manierre, is to sail in about 2 weeks for Europe. She's taken a villa near Cannes in southern France for the summer and is taking the children with her.

Miss Jane Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. George Lee of the Ambassador East, and William Edward Graham, the Ernest R. Grahams' son, are to be married at 4 o'clock in the afternoon of June 1 at St. Chrysostom's. The wedding reception is to be at the Ambassador East. Miss Martha Lee is to be her sister's only attendant, and Mr. Graham is to be best man for his son. William Fellowes and George Edmunds Mackey of Chicago and Edwin C. Dulaney of Louisville are to do the ushering.

Arden Shore Committee Starts Lake Forest Drive.

Bright and early on Monday, May 4, the Lake Forest committee for the Arden Shore association will begin soliciting funds in its annual drive. Mrs. Robert Hotz is drive chairman and the special district chairmen are Mrs. Phelps Kelley, Mrs. Daniel Winter, Mrs. James M. Hopkins Jr., Mrs. Knight Cowles, and Mrs. Frederick Wacker. Mrs. Kingman Douglass is president of the Lake Forest committee. Some 18 or 20 boys and girls in the drawing classes at the Alcott school are working away at poster designs. Mr. and Mrs. Milo Winter are to pick out the best ones, and the first and second place medal winners and the honorable mentions will be displayed in the hardware store on the square.

Return of Several Travelers; Arrival of New Chicagoan.

We hear—that the Donald R. McLennans have returned from Virginia Hot Springs . . . that Mr. and Mrs. Howard Peabody, who have been in Florida and other parts of the south for some time, are back [they sent the children on by train and motored themselves] . . . that Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Leigh Langtry announce the birth of a son on April 3 . . . that Mrs. Noble B. WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., April 23.—[Special.]—President and Mrs. Hoover had luncheon today with the Girl Scouts in their "little house" given them by Mrs. Hoover. Six girl scouts of the District of Columbia served them. Among other guests were the secretary of agriculture, Arthur M. Hyde; Dr. Lillian Galbraith, chairman of the woman's division of the President's emergency committee for unemployment; Dr. Louise Stanley, chief of the federal bureau of home economics, under whose direction the simple meal was prepared; Dr. James Ford, executive director of the Better Homes in America, which was the inspiration of the opening of the little house, and Mrs. Nicholas F. Brady, executive chairman of the National Girl Scouts.

Maj. Gen. William E. Horton gave a tea this afternoon in his apartment in honor of Miss Anne Washington, great-grandniece of Gen. Washington, official hostess at the International Colonial exposition and Overseas exposition to be held in Paris this summer. Gen. Horton is one of the officials of the exposition.

ONE OF SHAKESPEARE FAMILY IS PRESENT AT FETE HONORING POET

A youthful member of the Shakespeare family—the Stratford-on-Avon clan famous these 300 or more years—sat at a luncheon in the Chicago Woman's club yesterday, and heard the name of her ancestor, the immortal William Shakespeare, lauded on his 367th birthday.

The young woman until her marriage three years ago to Donald S. McWilliams of Chicago, bore the name of Mary Arden Shakespeare. That also was the name of William Shakespeare's mother. Mrs. McWilliams claims relationship to the playwright through a direct lineage from his uncle, and her family for generations has come from Stratford-on-Avon. A brother, Geoffrey Shakespeare, is at present a member of the British parliament, and was former secretary to Lloyd George.

"Always in our family the eldest son has been called William," Mrs. Williams explained. "That is the name of my eldest brother, who will, strange enough, celebrate his birthday tomorrow. I was named from the poet's mother. We always have been proud to bear the name of Shakespeare."

More than 250 members of the art and literature department of the club attended the all-day celebration of Shakespeare's birth, which began with a lecture recital on "The Women of Shakespeare," in the club theater. Scenes from "Hamlet," "Macbeth." "Romeo and Juliet," said presented.

At the luncheon meeting Godfrey Haggard, British consul, eulogized the poet and discussed his influence during the last three centuries.

"William Shakespeare probably has done more to unify American culture than any one thing," Mr. Haggard said. "By 1720 he appeared in the Harvard library, and by 1750 the emperor of the Cherokee Indians, history reveals, was entertained by 'Othello.' And in the Kentucky mountains Shakespeare lingers to this day."

When You CAN'T QUIT

A headache is often the sign of fatigue. When temples throb it's time to rest. If you can't stop work, you can stop the pain. Bayer Aspirin will do it, every time. Take two or three tablets, a swallow of water, and carry-on—in comfort.

Don't work with nerves on edge or try all day to forget a nagging pain that aspirin could end in a jiffy! Genuine aspirin can't harm you; just be sure it's Bayer.

In every package of Bayer Aspirin are proven directions for headaches, colds, sore throat, neuralgia, neuritis, etc. Carry these tablets with you, and be prepared. To block a sudden cold on the street-car; quiet a grumbling tooth at the office; relieve a headache in the theatre; spare you a sleepless night when nerves are "jumping."

And no modern girl needs "time out" for the time of month! Bayer Aspirin is an absolute antidote for periodic pain.

Take Bayer Aspirin for any ache or pain, and take enough to end it. It can't depress the heart. That is medical opinion. That is why it is only sensible to insist on the genuine tablets that bear the Bayer cross. The pocket tin is a convenient size. The bottle of 100 tablets is most economical to buy.

POLAND CHARGES GERMANY BACKS UKRAINE TERROR

Says General Staff Gives Funds and Advice.

March on Legation

BERLIN, April 23.—(AP)—A dispatch from Warsaw tonight said police there had thwarted attempts by students who were holding an anti-German demonstration, to reach the German legation. The police blocked the streets. It was the second demonstration this week inspired by recent differences between Danzig and Poland.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LVOV, Poland, April 23.—The Polish side of Ukrainian-Polish conflict contains as many accusations and recriminations as the Ukrainian side. The Poles officially admit that the "pacification" of 4,000,000 inhabitants of Galicia resulted in many outrages which are a shame to the Polish state. In discussing the atrocities committed by the police and soldiers, the Ukrainians appear to be stunned with the horror and extent of the terrorization of the population. The Poles are ashamed and are eager to make amends. Marshal Pilsudski's government is taking steps to pave the way for Polish-Ukrainian conciliation and the opening of new negotiations concerning autonomous rights in Galicia.

Polish officials say one of the reasons for failure to reach an agreement is that the Ukrainians are themselves split into two different camps. The most important is an illegal group with an unknown membership calling itself the Ukrainian Military organization, which is seeking to advance the cause of an independent Ukrainian state. One of the leaders of this group, the Poles say, is Col. Konovalets, who resides in Berlin and who receives both financial aid and instructions from the German general staff.

Responsible for Terrorism.

The Ukrainian Military organization, according to the Poles, is responsible for the acts of sabotage in Galicia and the pacification campaign was only decided upon after the Polish authorities had found proofs that an uprising was being prepared in the Polish Ukraine.

"Poland is not afraid of a war at present, but we are afraid of a putsch," said the councilor of the Lvov governor. "We possess documents showing that the German general staff was implicated in provoking the terrorist campaign and uprising in Galicia. We were further informed that if this attempt to start a revolt was successful the Germans were going to start a putsch in Upper Silesia and the Danzig corridor and change their eastern frontiers to suit themselves without waiting for their demands to be acted upon by the league of nations. This action would have involved Poland in a war, for we are not going to permit our frontiers to be changed without an armed conflict.

Refuse State University.

"In connection with the demarks of the Ukrainian for a state university in Lvov, we refuse to grant this since Lvov already has a Polish university with 6,138 students, of whom 55 per cent are Poles, 30 per cent are Jews and 15 per cent are Ukrainians. If we established another university here there would be constant fighting between the students and disorders in the city.

"We were obliged to close the three Ukrainian high schools and the large number of grammar schools because they were hotbeds of insurrection and the students were engaged in acts of sabotage against the government. In place of them we have opened a large number of bi-lingual and Polish schools and we are not attempting to force the Ukrainian students to leave the Greek Catholic church for the Roman Catholic church.

"The part the Greek Catholic clergy has played in complicating this situation is difficult to estimate.

"On this map behind my desk this Galician province is divided into the three dioceses of the Greek Catholic church. The colored pins show where incendiary fires have been set, attempts to start fires, acts of sabotage against railroads and telegraph lines and armed attacks against authorities. The figures are interesting. In the diocese of Lvov, which comes under the leadership of Metropolit Sheptysky, there were during the period from July to November of last year 146 fires, 18 attempted fires, eight acts of sabotage and eighteen attacks against government officials, a total of 190 cases of terrorism.

"To the south is the diocese of Archbishop Chomyzsym. In this diocese there were 17 fires, four attempted fires, three acts of sabotage and 2 attacks against officials; a total of twenty-six. To the west in the diocese of Archbishop Kocialovski, where there were eighteen fires, one attempted fire, four acts of sabotage and two armed attacks; a total of twenty-five.

Holds Metropolit Responsible.

"This shows that more than two-thirds of the terrorist acts have taken place in the diocese of Metropolit Sheptysky, whose attitude toward the Polish government has fostered a spirit of disloyalty among the population. We believe the Metropolit to be the leader of Ukrainian movement for autonomy and to some extent responsible for the situation which has developed.

"The funds for the activities of the terrorists mostly came from abroad. The German general staff supplied some money and in return receives military information. We have arrested and tried a number of spies proving those charges."

CRAIN SATISFIED WITH RECORD, HE SAYS AT INQUIRY

New York, April 23.—[Special.]—District Attorney T. C. T. Crain delivered a rousing defense of his conduct of office this afternoon at the hearing on charges before Commissioner Samuel Seabury and wound up with the declaration that: "We have administered the district attorney's office since Jan. 1, 1930, on a common sense and intelligent basis." That he did not get indictments against racketeers, grafting policemen, cheating lawyers and bondsmen and all the corrupt crew exposed by the Seabury investigation in the last few months he defended just as stoutly.

He had never asked a grand jury to return an indictment, he said, and he "endeavored to make the grand jury something more than a mere rubber stamp to vote the inclinations of a prosecutor." He preferred, instead of punishing law breakers, to awaken the community's eyes to what was going on through the media of grand jury presentments.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The active presence of Wes Ferrell at Comiskey park yesterday caused the fast hitting to drop down to figures in keeping with the readings of early thermometers. The big lad, who triumphed 25 times last season, really was so good that the situation never got beyond his control. Rudy Garland [Lefty] Braxton, the White Sox nominee at the start, and his successor, Jim Moore, the situation was exactly the reverse; so there was nothing for the south siders to do but fold up peaceably before the Cleveland Indians. They did so by 8 to 2.

Whereas Braxton got himself into trouble as early as the third inning and never got out of it, Ferrell was a long time abandoning the idea that he could register a shutout. He not only conducted a runless show for himself for five innings, but gave up only one bargain hit. After that the Tribe did a bit better. They paired two clean drives for a deserved run in the sixth and completed their day's attack with two more hits, both measured in the eighth. With the added help of an error the latter pair became their second and last run.

Indians Score in Third.

A bad bunt by Hunnefield on an attempted squeeze play kept the Indians from scoring on Braxton in the second, but they probably didn't feel so about this after a couple runs had taken their way in the third. A single by Burnett with one out set this rally going. He stole second but could have conserved his energy because Fonseca followed with a triple on which it could have been just as easy to score the run first. After Averill had walked, Bishopp cracked a single past Kamm and this enabled Fonseca to stroll home. Braxton avoided further difficulties for the moment by throwing out both Vosmik and Falk.

Two more hits off Braxton in the fourth increased the Tribe's margin to one run. Hunnefield led off with a ineffectual hopper to Braxton, but reflections arose immediately in the form of Sewell's two bagger to the left field information bureau. Sewell promptly hugged second while Kamm was throwing out Ferrell. Then Burnett found a single over first base and Sewell registered. A stolen base and a passed ball in succession moved Burnett around to third and he died there on Richrodt took in Fonseca's fly.

Reynolds Hits Triple.

Boston came up with his first pass of the game in the sixth and the Indians promptly proved they appreciated gifts in any form. They converted it into a run, making their advantage read 4 to 0. The free ticket went to Falk to open the inning. He picked up a peg on Hunnefield's error, Sewell was put out of the way on a fly to right, whereupon Ferrell

Cold Prevents Cubs' Contest at Pittsburgh

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 23.—Cold weather having for the second time caused the postponement of the Pittsburgh home opener against the Cubs, our nine this afternoon took the opportunity to figure out the statistics of the seven baseball contests played in the tropical city of Chicago before the unfortunate migration to this snow and smoke swept municipality.

The mathematicians' huddle revealed that Lester Bell is leading the hitters among the regulars, and that he is the only one of the constant players who has not fanned. In 24 times at bat Les has made nine hits, including two doubles, for an average of .375. Stephenson and English also have made nine hits, but Stevie has had 25 times at bat for an average of .360, while Woody's 27 times at bat pulled him down to .333.

Hornsby and Wilson Tie.

Managers Rogers Hornsby and Hack Wilson are tied with six hits in 25 times at bat, for averages of .240, but Rogers has made two homers and two doubles, while the home run king's only extra base showing was a lone double. The manager leads the club in runs scored with seven, while Wilson and Cuyler are tied in this department with five each. Wilson leads Hornsby for strikeout honors, five whiffs to four. Cuyler also is vying for this distinction with four strikeouts, and has been in one fewer game than Rog and Hack. Kl, incidentally, has batted .333, making seven hits.

Charley Grimm is at the foot of the class with an average of .143, but has specialized in long distance work. Of the four hits he has propelled, three have been doubles.

Third Day of Rest.

Today's layoff gave the Cubs their third successive day of rest and the span will enable Manager Hornsby to take his choice of pitchers from the entire staff, though the field scarcely includes Root, who has won two victories, and Bob Smith, who has pitched two games also, the last one in Chicago on Monday. The boss said today that he was considering Blake, Malone, and Bush as his best bets for the Pirate opener.

Scialaba Knocks Out Foe in Bantam Final.

A. A. U. Champions

Bantamweight—Nick Scialaba, Chicago.
Featherweight—Dave Day, Chicago.
Lightweight—George Holden, Chicago.
Welterweight—Frank Knauer, Milwaukee.
Middleweight—Haywood Storey, Chicago.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Four members of Chicago's Golden Gloves team won Central A. A. U. boxing championships last night at the Stadium. Jimmy Eliopoulos, Nick Scialaba, George Holden, and Tony Sutton of the team which whipped New York in the intercity matches and a quartet of other Central A. A. U. title holders will fight Monday night in Madison Square Garden, New York, for national A. A. U. championships.

Tony Sutton was the first champion crowned. The Golden Gloves light heavyweight did not have to fight in the finals, for his opponent, John Persche, could not continue because of a broken hand. In his semi-final bout Sutton had to battle four rounds to outpoint Leo Myslinski of Chicago.

Scialaba Scores K. O.

Big Earle Satner of Minneapolis is the heavyweight king. He knocked out Raymond Drehobi in the second round after having the Chicago boy on the floor three times in the first session.

Jimmy Eliopoulos of the Golden Gloves team won the 112 pound title. After two fairly even rounds with Albert De Schepper of Rockford, Jimmy tore in for the deciding margin in one of the best battles of the evening.

Nick Scialaba, Golden Gloves intercity champion, knocked out Woodrow Chancellor of Minneapolis in the second round of their fight for the bantamweight crown. The first round was about even, but in the second Nick had his opponent on the floor for a count of nine three times before the knockout.

Holden Takes Decision.

George Holden, Golden Gloves lightweight, won his fight from John Esposito of Chicago after losing the first round. Holden won the second by a slight margin and had Esposito on the floor for a nine count in the third round.

French Drop Fine Old Fight Weapon—a Kick in the Pants

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 23.—Members of the joint Chicago-New York Golden Gloves boxing team will be pleased to learn that the French boxers who are coming over to fight them in Chicago on May 12 have agreed not to practice "savate" in these contests, especially when they learn what savate is.

My translation may not be quite literal, but a general description of savate is a kick in the trousers or some other vital spot. Mr. Herol Egan, sports editor of the Paris edition of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, has assured me that the French system of boxing with the feet is much more effective than the Anglo-Saxon practice of fighting with fists.

The Great Taxi Battle.

"One night as I was taking a friend home from a party, or vice versa," Mr. Egan states, "my friend, who is Irish, got into an argument with a taxi driver who was a Frenchman weighing about 200 pounds. The driver said he could lick any three Englishmen in the world simultaneously, and my Irish friend said: 'If you mean to call me an Englishman, stop the cab so I can avenge my honor.'

"The driver then said: 'It would not be a sporting contest unless I insulted your friend, too, so I will call both of you Englishmen.'"

Mr. Egan is from Houston, Tex., so he decided to merge his honor with that of his Irish friend, and the driver stopped the cab.

Driver Kicks Two Goals.

"The driver hopped off, folded his arms across his chest defiantly, balanced on his toes and said deliberately: 'You are nothing but a couple of Englishmen!' My friend cocked his picnic punch and let fly, while I adopted strategy and started feinting with great skill and deception. I am slightly confused regarding the sequence of events, but the sequence makes no difference anyway as both of us wound up in careless attitudes on the sidewalk from blows from the Frenchman's foot. And we had only a vague recollection of the driver leaning from the taxi as he drove away and yelling: 'I repeat; you are a couple of Englishmen.'

"The French have progressed greatly in boxing with their hands," Mr. Egan continued, "but if they lose in Chicago it should be remembered that they are fighting without their natural weapons, their feet. Personally I think the abandonment of savate is deplorable, as the kick in the trousers or other vital spot had been developed to a high artistic plane, and if this were an Olympic event France would undoubtedly kick the trousers off the entire world."

TICKET RUSH GOES ON

Chicago boxing fans yesterday continued their rush for tickets to the international Golden Gloves bouts. Although all of the $3 seats have been snapped up, the box office still has a supply of $2 and $1 tickets. Applications may be addressed to the Ticket Manager, Golden Gloves, Tournament, THE TRIBUNE, Chicago.

The rush will reach its height at 4 o'clock on the afternoon of May 12, the day of the bouts, when 100,000 fifty cent general admission seats will be put on sale at Soldiers' field.

France Calls Its Fighters for Trip to Chicago Ring

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 23—Friend Arch: The ten French national amateur champions or runnersup who will battle the Intercity Golden Gloves winners for international honors at Chicago on May 12 received telegraphic instruction today for them to assemble at the Restaurant Mollard, across from the Gare St. Lazare, for lunch next Wednesday.

I told the French Boxing Federation leaders that Wednesday noon seemed a little late as a deadline for France's fistic heroes to answer roll call for such a long trip, and suggested bringing the Knights of Glovedom together several days ahead of the sailing date.

"There is no need to worry," said the federation leaders. "The only mishap that could keep one of those fighters from reporting on time would be a broken neck."

After the boys have had their first meal at THE TRIBUNE'S expense, they will be escorted to the offices of the American consulate to meet Consul General Leo Keena and staff.

It looked today as if a real difficulty in the completion of final arrangements had been reached. Under the consulate rules the French champs would have to get their visas from the districts in which they lived. This, several of the punchers found, was impossible. Most of the invaders, Arch, are short on francs, and layoffs for trips to the consular offices in the various cities are impossible. But Edmond Taylor, of THE TRIBUNE foreign service here, got busy, and through the courtesy of the consulate arranged a visa party for Wednesday afternoon.

Arch, knowing the way you give our Golden Glove fighters sendoff parties, I suggested to the French officials that it would be a good idea to have a band at the station for the boys' departure for the States.

"We have never heard of such a thing," the French boxing leaders said.

"It's a good time to start," said we, and forthwith sent agents to find a band. Little luck has been reported so far, as the bars here seem to have everything but bandsmen.

BECKER AGAIN HEADS OUTDOOR WRITERS' GROUP

Bob Becker, outdoors editor of THE TRIBUNE, was reëlected president of the National Outdoor Writers association last night at their annual banquet in the bungalow on the roof of the Sherman hotel. Cal Johnson of Chicago was elected vice president. Ozark Ripley of Memphis, Tenn., was chosen second vice president, and Sam Steuber of Columbus, O., was elected secretary.

Paul G. Redington, head of the United States Biological survey in Washington, and Jack Miner, Ontario bird bander, were speakers.

Ottawa Hockey Club Head Quits; Team Loses Money

OTTAWA, Ont., April 23.—(AP)—William Foran, president of the Ottawa Senators of the National Hockey league, has resigned. He said he took this action to give the Auditorium board a free hand in dealing with the delicate financial situation. The Senators have been losing money for the last two or three years.

BABE'S ON ROAD TO RECOVERY; HE CAN WIGGLE TOES

Nerve Paralyzed, but He May Be Out in Week.

Boston, Mass., April 23.—[Special.]—Flanked by two physicians, surrounded by nurses and attendants and with his wife sitting at the bedside, Babe Ruth was resting comfortably here today in the Peter Brent Brigham hospital while the Yankees, held in idleness by a steady downpour of rain, remained secluded in their hotel quarters eagerly awaiting reports upon the progress of the distinguished invalid.

With his left leg painfully damaged in the sixth inning of yesterday's encounter with the Red Sox, encased in a contraption that resembled an illuminated dog house, the Babe was receiving the ministration of those about him with a display of his customary good nature which returned to him this morning upon receiving assurance that this latest mishap to befall him may not prove as serious as at first supposed.

Nerve Center Paralyzed.

The home run slugger had spent a rather fitful night bemoaning the belief that his leg was broken and that his career on the diamond had come to an end, but this morning the intense pain had subsided considerably and in addition to this, an X-ray examination, made by his attending physicians, Dr. Francis C. Newton and Dr. John Homans, had established fairly definitely that no bones had been fractured or broken, nor was there any evidence of any dislocation.

The injury was diagnosed as a paralysis of a nerve center in his left thigh caused by a sharp blow. This blow Ruth received when he crashed into Catcher Berry as the latter, a powerful fellow and former all-American football star, attempted to block the Babe's dash for the plate.

The fact that Ruth did not collapse until several minutes later when he returned to left field and turned to chase a hit to the fence was explained by the fact that in injuries of this sort paralysis from a blow does not always manifest itself instantly.

May Be Ready for Athletics.

The fact, therefore, that he apparently had not strained any ligament or tendon, as at first supposed, led to the general belief that he would not be kept idle long, although his doctors declined today to advance any opinion as to when he would be able to return to the lineup. It was accepted as a certainty that he will be out for at least a week and while this means his elimination from the series with the Senators beginning in Washington on Sunday, there is a feeling of optimism in the Yankee camp that he will be ready for action in time to engage in the next clash with the Athletics which will take place immediately after the series with the Senators.

Thermolite treatment was being applied to the Babe's injured leg today and under the influence of the high powered rays the doctors soon were able to note a marked improvement in the condition of paralysis. Indeed, by noon such advancement was made that the Babe already found himself able to wiggle his left toes and this cheerful tiding at once was relayed from the sick chamber to the outer world where it was received with no little acclaim.

In fact, all Boston today seemed to be concerning itself greatly in its distinguished patient and a steady flow of telephone calls and messages kept pouring into the hospital. Visitors, too, came in droves though when the press become too great the doctors ruled against it and later in the day only Manager Joe McCarthy and other members of the team were admitted to Ruth's room.

Fires Destroy Hertz Stable, Two Horses

Fires of unknown origin swept stables at two Chicago district race tracks yesterday and last night. At Arlington Park, the private barn of John Hertz was destroyed by a blaze which began shortly after 9 o'clock in the evening, while earlier in the day two thoroughbreds were burned to death in temporary quarters near Washington Park.

The Hertz barn, capable of housing 40 horses, was unoccupied. When the blaze began, the three watchmen on duty were in other sections of the big racing plant and before the Arlington Heights fire department could get to the scene, the flames had gathered considerable headway.

Puts Damage at $10,000.

Mr. Hertz said last night that he had recently installed an electric lighting system and he attributed the fire to defective wiring. He estimated the damage at slightly less than $10,000, which was covered by insurance.

Two Horses Destroyed.

Ben Marshall and Ray Squires, owned by D. L. Kiefer of Havre de Grace, Md., were the two horses burned to death near Washington Park. They were to have raced in the meeting which begins at that track on May 25, and were quartered in a neighboring barn pending the opening of the Washington Park stables on May 1.

Ben Marshall, which has campaigned in the Chicago district with some success during the last few seasons, was valued at $50,000. Ray Squires was purchased for $4,100.

Two Negro grooms who were supposed to have been sleeping in the barn, could not be found after the fire.

Capablanca Wins Fifth Straight in Chess Tourney

New York, April 23.—(AP)—Jose R. Capablanca, Cuban chess expert, won his fifth consecutive victory as the international chess masters' tournament went into the fifth round tonight. The Cuban was the first of the 12 players to finish a match tonight, defeating A. Edward Santasiere, New York state champion, in 37 moves.

14,000 to See Champs at Stadium Tonight.

The Card

Tony Canzoneri vs. Jack Berg, 10 rounds.
Steve Hallako vs. Tony Herrera, 8 rounds.
Barney Rose vs. Lud Abella, 8 rounds.
Harry Dublinsky vs. Roger Bernard, 8 rounds.
Joe Doktor vs. Natie Brown, 4 rounds.
Ed Steeve vs. Mickey Patrick, 4 rounds.

The lightweight and junior welterweight championships of the world will be at stake tonight when Jack [Kid] Berg of Whitechapel, England, meets Tony Canzoneri, fiery little New York Italian, at the Chicago Stadium in the most important and appealing fight of the year.

Berg, holder of the junior welter crown, signed to meet Canzoneri for the latter's lightweight diadem. In so doing he placed in jeopardy his own title, since both he and Canzoneri will come in five pounds under the 140 pound junior welterweight limit.

This situation is unique in boxing annals. No two titles have ever been at stake in one bout before. Peculiarities are not limited to this alone, however. Stadium officials report a pronounced lethargy on the part of the two and three dollar customers. The greater part of the advance sales have been the higher priced seats, they say.

Predict 14,000 Customers.

It might also be considered odd that a bout of such magnitude will attract no more than about 14,000 customers. After outbidding New York on the strength of his contention that the bout would draw more here than it would in the east, Matchmaker Lewis views the apparent lack of greater attendance as a hindrance to his attempts to get other headline boxers matched for the west side arena.

Berg is favored over the lightweight king, but there is a growing impression that Canzoneri will upset him early in the fight. Both finished their training yesterday in good shape, although Canzoneri suffered a slight cut over the eye. It was not serious enough, however, to cause any real concern in his camp.

Tony is confident and eager, but Berg, while none the less eager, is very nervous and irritable. His ten days of weight losing is said to have done him no harm, although Canzoneri has garnered his greatest confidence from his conviction that Berg is greatly weakened.

Weight Loss Is Problem.

The Whitechapel flash weighed 138 pounds when he defended his title against Billy Wallace two weeks ago. At that time he was said to be in prime shape. Whether he can lose three pounds without impairing his stamina is problematical. At any rate, this phase of the matter will undoubtedly be the deciding factor in the outcome.

"I beat him once," Berg said yesterday, "and I'll beat him again. The weight hasn't bothered me a bit and I feel as strong now as I did for Wallace."

Canzoneri was a trifle more enthusiastic when he finished his drill. "I am in perfect shape for this fight, something I have not been able to say since I won the championship," he said. "I am confident I can knock out Berg and I expect to do it within three rounds."

No Radio Broadcast.

Sidney N. Strotz, Stadium president, announced yesterday there would be no radio broadcast. Motion pictures will be taken of the fight, however. Canzoneri, as champion, will receive a share of the picture money and Berg has already purchased the British rights to the film. He will get his cut from these showings.

U.S. GOVERNMENT TO HELP FOWL IN BATTLE FOR LIFE

Survey Chief Tells Plans at Outdoor Show.

BY BOB BECKER.

American sportsmen may expect to see open seasons on waterfowl reduced so that they will be on a parity with the seasons for taking quail, pheasants, and other nonmigratory birds. This was one of the warnings sounded yesterday by Paul G. Redington, chief of the U. S. biological survey, when he addressed the game conference of the Izaak Walton league at the Sherman hotel. Mr. Redington spoke on the unfavorable conditions which now confront waterfowl and upland game, a subject of vital concern to more than 6,000,000 hunters in the country.

Waltonian representatives from more than 35 states, conservation authorities and game experts, heard the survey chief condemn unwise drainage, unnecessary forest fires which destroy many square miles of timbered country each year, and water pollution as three of the merciless forces which are wiping out much of the life and beauty of our woods and waters.

Government Plans Refuge.

"Drainage projects of the type that have in the past destroyed some of the most notable waterfowl resorts in America should never have been undertaken until competent examination showed beyond a doubt that such drainage was necessary from an economic standpoint," he said.

To offset the destruction of waterfowl habitat, drainage of marshes and lack of rest and feeding grounds for ducks and geese the survey chief said that the government was working on a basic system of game refuges on water areas consisting of from 60 to 100 of these sanctuaries containing 20,000 acres each. Similar efforts are being made by Canadian authorities.

Drought also was blamed for the destruction of many important forms of valuable wild life. In order to alleviate the effects of this great disaster which has killed fish, birds and animals like a plague, Mr. Redington urged Waltonians and other sportsmen to "consent to restrictions commensurate with the degree of emergency."

Other Officials to Speak.

The survey chief will be followed today by other government conservation authorities who are scheduled to address the game conference. Among the speakers are Henry O'Malley, commissioner of the U. S. bureau of fisheries, Dr. M. M. Ellis, also of the fisheries bureau, and Dr. Harold C. Bryant, assistant director of the U. S. Park service.

The game conference will take a recess at noon today so that out of town Waltonians may visit the John G. Shedd aquarium and inspect the numerous exhibits of fishes.

Tonight more than 1,000 delegates and members of Chicagoland Izaak Walton chapters will assemble in the grand ballroom of the Sherman to hear Admiral Richard E. Byrd and Senator Harry B. Hawes, who is vice chairman of the special U. S. senate committee on conservation of wild life. President Hoover is sending a message of greeting to the meeting.

Minneapolis Gets Award.

At last night's session Minneapolis was announced as the most efficient fish growing chapter of the league, by virtue of its having produced and planted an average of 77,000 black bass per year for the last four years. A bronze plaque and a cash award of $250 was given to the Minneapolis group under the provisions of the James Lawton Childs contest which the Walton league conducted last year to decide which chapter could grow the most game fish.

RING LARDNER HEARS FROM WILLIS CLOUGH

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 23.—Dear Friend I have not yet picked out no place to live as we are only here such a short time this time and leave Saturday night for a series in St. Louis. So I been staying at the Schenley hotel which is almost right across the street from the ball park and George Grantham said it was too bad they could not move the ball park into the hotel as that would save me the trouble of taking any exercise day or night both, he is a great kidder. I made the remark how silly it was to only play 4 games here when the fans has been waiting all these weeks to welcome the club home and you would think they would leave us stay here long enough for the fans to get use to the new faces and Bill Minchman. There was no way of judging how long that would take because, for instance, he has seen me every day for 6 weeks and roomed with me pretty near a week and he don't beleive he will ever get use to my face especially when he wakes up in the morning. I said any way I wished we would make an eastern trip before we go to St. Louis as I am always wanted to see the big eastern cities but Paul Waner said you better be glad we are going to St. Louis because if Manager Ens should happen to get the idea that you was homesick for Arizona it would be a lot better for your feet if he got the idea in St. Louis than Boston.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

ORGANIZED BASEBALL.

ORGANIZED baseball has scored a notable legal victory, if the decision is upheld, in a case brought by the St. Louis American league club questioning Judge Landis' authority as czar of baseball. Federal Judge Lindley dismissed the suit for "want of equity." The Wake is not well enough versed in legal lore to know just what that means, but we interpret it as similar to a convention not to bid no trump with two suits wide open and a singleton. We doubt whether this one decision covers all phases of the national agreement, but it certainly is important as far as it goes.

Strangely enough, it was before Judge Landis himself that the first big case concerning organized baseball was heard. That was back in Federal league days when Landis was on the federal bench. At that time the so-called "outlaw" league in a suit attacked organized baseball with its player reservations and territorial agreements as a trust.

After hearing the evidence, Judge Landis took the case under consideration, or advisement, or whatever it is they take a case under. He considered, and considered, and considered without handing down a decision. While he was still considering, the Federal league, in financial shoals, sold whatever it had of real and "nuisance" assets to the two major leagues and the suit was withdrawn.

Perhaps it was just as well. We have not the squire's confidence enough to know what he would have decided, if he had decided. Certainly, however, if his decree had been adverse, it would have been embarrassing at this time.

Organized baseball, in fact if not in law, is a trust. When a player signs a contract with any club he signs, subject to some restrictions for his protection, most of his rights away. The cards are stacked all in favor of the club owners. While some notable injustices, on the face of what facts are known, have taken place, it is surprising under the circumstances the players have obtained so much in the way of fair dealing. Public sentiment attends to that, in part, and magnate self-interest in wanting loyal players does the rest.

One does not question that organized baseball is necessary to guarantee stability and justify the huge investments now required to operate major league plants. Without that protection, capital could not be enlisted. Chaos would ensue each winter when it came time to sign the "ath-a-letes" for the ensuing season. So while players, at times, may get the worst of it, this "benevolent trust," if a trust, is a good thing for baseball permanency and probably for the players as well if a period of time is considered.

Mons. de Flanayshon, whose Kentucky Derby comment and predictions appeared in this column each spring, was laid to rest yesterday. The Wake acted as a bearer. Mons. de Flanayshon accompanied us to Louisville each spring while a Chicago resident, and after moving east frequently returned for the Kentucky classic. Interested in all sports, "horses" were his favorite subject of conversation. Mons. de Flanayshon, or Johnnie Flanigan, our friend since boyhood, was a great little chap, an entertaining companion, and a good sportsman.

Boat Show Opens Today at Navy Pier

The modern mariner begins his biggest ten days of the year with the opening today of the second Chicago National Boat show at Motor Boat mart, on the upper deck of Navy pier. The show will continue through May 3, and during its progress will display everything to delight a motor boating fan's heart, from 45 foot cruisers to tiny outboard craft, from costly engines and deck furniture to fittings for less expensive boats.

Manufacturers throughout the country will exhibit their wares at the show. The last of the available floor space was taken at noon yesterday, according to Hubbard H. Erickson, manager of the exposition. This indicates that visitors to the show will find 80,000 square feet, the allotted space for the exposition, arranged in three parallel boulevards, 1,200 feet in length, covered with displays of every type of power boat, with a few sail and ice boats thrown in for good measure.

Exhibits Valued at $500,000.

It is estimated that the value of the various boats and accessories on display will total $500,000.

The first boat show last year was regarded as a success for an initial venture, but officials of the exposition state that this year's display will outdo it in attendance and number of boats, engines and fittings shown. Last year six cruiser types were exhibited, whereas more than 20 will be on display at today's opening. The cruisers will be in the minority, however, since the more popular runabout type and the various inboard and outboard motor boats will take up most of the Navy pier floor space.

The boats at the show will not be confined to the indoors, since demonstrators will be in the water and at the docks accessible to the showroom to show their products to potential owners.

Show Harbor Plan.

Aside from the actual boat displays there will be a number of exhibits of interest to yachtsmen and motor boating enthusiasts who own their own boats. These will include a graphic display of the extensive harbor development planned for Chicago boats from Evanston to Jackson park.

Maroons Wallop Western State Teachers, 11 to 3

Western State Teachers' college of Kalamazoo, Mich., took an 11 to 3 beating from the University of Chicago baseball team yesterday afternoon on Greenwood field. The State team two weeks ago defeated Wisconsin, which comes to the Midway this afternoon for its first conference game of the season.

The Maroon club hopped on Pray, starting State pitcher, for five runs in the first inning and four more before he departed in the second. Will Urban, veteran Chicago right-hander, had the State team in good control, allowing but seven hits and striking out ten men. Neigenfiend, who succeeded Pray, fanned nine Maroon players with his lefthand curves.

Sommerfield probably will start for Wisconsin this afternoon. Pat Page plans to use Art Cahill, but has Roy Henshaw, the lefthander who last week pitched a six hit game against Illinois, in reserve. Score:

Indians Beat Sox, 8 to 2; Ferrell Hurls

slid a grounder between Kamm and the bag. Falk scored and Ferrell went as far as second to await the end of the inning on Burnett's fly.

Until the Sox mastered the trick of scoring a run in the sixth they had been painfully innocent of causing Ferrell any worry. Their only hit in five chapters was a flukey pop double by Blue to start the first frame. The next hit was Simons' single through short after Blue had fanned in the sixth. Reynolds gave Falk a needed workout chasing a triple to right center, Simons scoring. Neither Eichrodt nor Cissell could assist Reynolds in his ambition to get over the plate.

The last run hung up against Braxton in the seventh was another offspring of a pass. Fonseca walked, Averill flied out and Hodapp's fly fell in short center for a single. Fonseca went to third on the bargain hit and home a moment later on Appling's fumble of Vosmik's grounder. Appling had a double play in front of him and make the mistake of trying to start it before he had the ball in hand.

Sox Get a Run.

Hunnefield was the lad who assisted the Sox to their run in the eighth. With one out Simons was granted a single on a grounder that plunked Hunnefield on the left shoulder. Reynolds forced Simons and continued to second when Hunnefield heaved the ball to the dugout in attempting a double play. Eichrodt then pushed a single through Burnett and Reynolds scored.

The Indians offered no resistance against Moore in the eighth, but made up for the oversight when they knocked off their day's work with three runs in the ninth. Fonseca led off with an infield hit and scored on Averill's double to right center. Hodapp was thrown out, and on Vosmik's tap to Cissell an attempt was made to nail Averill at the plate, but after the confusion usually attendant upon such plays Averill was safely back on third and Vosmik on second. Both tallied when Falk singled.

Tommy Thomas, who was billed to start yesterday but was withdrawn at the last moment, will stage his third come-back attempt this afternoon. Hudlin will oppose him. It will be ladies' day.

3,000 GATHER FOR ATTACK ON DRAKE RELAY RECORDS

Des Moines, Ia., April 23.—(AP)—Three thousands athletes from universities, colleges and high schools were gathering here tonight for the opening of the twenty-second annual Drake relays tomorrow. Weather forecasts indicated the day would be chilly with a possibility of rain or snow to hamper the athletes in record-breaking attempts.

The competitors comprised one of the best balanced fields of record-breaking performers ever assembled for the meet, premier midwestern event of the spring track season.

Should weather conditions improve by Saturday, there appeared to be excellent chances for meet records in the 120 yard high hurdles, two mile run, broad jump and shot put, while previous performances of relay teams in both the college and university sections indicated possible shattering of a half dozen or more of these marks.

Preliminaries will be held tomorrow in the 440, 880 and mile relays, and all of the individual events except the two mile run. The college section events, besides the sprint medley relay, are preliminaries in the 880, mile and two mile relays.

SIXTEEN BOY SCOUTS RECEIVE EAGLE RANKING

Sixteen Chicago Boy Scouts were awarded the Eagle rank before the court of review at Scout headquarters, 9 West Washington street, last night. This makes 46 Scouts who have received the highest scouting award since the first of the year.

Only ten became Eagle scouts during the corresponding period in 1930. Samuel G. Gorsline, Scout commissioner and chairman of the court of honor, presided. Following are those who received the award:

Chick Hafey of Cardinals Faces Ban

St. Louis, Mo., April 23.—(AP)—The ten day grace period in which Chick Hafey, hardhitting Cardinal outfielder, may don a Cardinal uniform expires tomorrow and his automatic suspension will follow.

Holdout Hafey and his baseball club are only $1,000 apart in their terms. President Sam Breadon has offered the outfielder $12,500 and chick has asked $13,500. All trade deals are off, President Breadon said.

Hafey's whereabouts were unknown in the Cardinals' camp tonight. The last parley between the player and his club was made by telephone some time ago when he was in California.

However, neither the Cardinals nor Hafey are probably losing much sleep over the failure to come to terms. If Hafey were suspended he and his club could still get together after the grace period and with the consent of the commissioner, come to terms. In that event Hafey would probably lose the amount of salary equivalent to the time he had held out and the period needed to get into condition.

PETER PRIDD PUT AT HEAD OF TURF TWO YEAR OLDS

Texas Trio Rated Highly by Prof. Binoculars.

This is the last of a series of articles on horses, owners, and jockeys who are expected to figure prominently in the coming turf campaign.

BY FRENCH LANE.

We find our old friend, Mr. Binoculars, who has been seeing all sorts of things that are going to happen on the American turf six months from now, dressed up like the village schoolmaster this morning.

There are the spectacles down over the bridge of the nose, the long black shallow tail coat, the black cravat, the reading fork, and what not.

For Prof. Binoculars is at school again—kindergarten, rather—where he helps 2 year old thoroughbred race horses, the best of which are just beginning to go to the post, are learning their A, B, C's of racing.

And it is the professor's task to tell you the names of a few of the brightest and fleetest boy and girl thoroughbreds in this big class which is growing considerably more than a year old. The professor will pick out some of the pupils that are going to amount to something some day. There's no job too big for the promising.

Cover a Lot of Territory.

Much territory must be covered in this assignment. It requires binoculars with lenses so powerful that they can look through the Rocky mountains in California and strong enough to see down into the Texas Panhandle country. They must be binoculars that can see things that are happening in New York, Canada, and Maryland, and which find it fairly easy to see in the whole scene of what's going on in Kentucky and Illinois in just a few fleeting glances.

Well, the professor says something about a very bright boy in the class whose name is Peter Pridd.

Peter is a blue blood, all right. His daddy is Peter Pan and his mother was the very fashionable Ponty Pridd, who came to this country from England a few years back. Peter is going to race in the silks of Walter J. Salmon of New York. If Prof. Binoculars has told you all the things he's seen the youngster do, you would dash right over to the nearest bookmaker and wager on him the very next ratcher out of the box. But it isn't Prof. Binoculars' intention to encourage you to wager on the horses, and he's not sure Peter Pridd will win right away. But he thinks Peter will be right near the head of the class when the great 2 year old championship classes are run late in the summer and fall.

Texas Trio Among Leaders.

There are all sorts of brilliant pupils from Texas in this class. Texas Spirit is the name of one of them. He is a son of Sir Gallahad III.-Fastidious. Then there's Liberty Limited, also a son of Sir Gallahad III.-Dare Say, and Sir Melton, the young son of Sir Gallahad III.-Bessie Melton. At the Saratoga yearling sales last August, these three sons of Sir Gallahad III. and the Texas multi-millionaire, W. L. Waggoner, $75,000.

These youngsters are moving from Texas into Kentucky as this is written. Prof. Binoculars says he watched them turn in some marvelous speed trials when they were training over their private track in Texas.

The professor also speaks of a very bright boy whose name is Man of Light. He's an English duke or lord or something, having been imported from England by Col. Phil Chinn, the Kentucky horse trader, and sold for a very large sum to the Audley Farm stable of Virginia. But, according to the professor, this young Englishman is ready run once he takes off his overcoat and starts galloping.

The pupil fairly well advanced, but which the professor does not have much faith in is Proteus, the son of Double-Our Option, which was the champion 2 year old of the winter season. But the professor is impressed with another little fellow called Wise Count, a son of Wise Counsellor-Grace Darling, which already has won two races in Maryland, thus starting his campaign very much in the fashion Proteus did last year.

Then there are the fashionable Whitney boys and girls—forty owned by Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney and the thirty others the property of Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree stable—in the class.

Pick of Whitney Crop.

Step Up, a son of Wildair-Balance, is one of the brightest Whitney youngsters this spring. Blond Knight, son of Blondin-Fly By Knight, has shown great promise in his trials. Equipoise, a son of St. James, is another likely pupil, while Cotho, a son of St. Germains-Mrs. Trubbel, and closely related to Twenty Grand, is another which is never late to school. The Professor is very proud of a little fellow in the class called Portam. He is the first stake the youngsters took part in this year—the Bowie Memorial—Portam stepped out and made a show of his rivals. The son of The Porter-Amaryllis surely demonstrated in this stake that he has been taking his lessons well.

There are four or five promising pupils in the class, all sons of General Thatcher, that are ready to race in the Nevada Stock Farm silks. Menelek, a bay colt, has shown more promise than the others.

A very bright young fellow called Gallop Along is sort of a pet with Prof. Binoculars. He is a son of Wrack and his mother is Virginia L. He is a brother of the once noted Single Foot, and a half brother to Canter, which won $151,926 during his brief racing career.

Girls Impress Professor.

And there are some girls in the kindergarten class—maybe the professor shouldn't call 'em speedy—but they are very fast. The fleetest of all of them on what the professor has been able to observe is Gala Flight, a daughter of Sir Gallahad III-Starflight and a little sister to the very formidable 3 year old Insco. She is owned by Griffin Watkins of Alton, Ill.

Another that has shown all sorts of speed and is bred to be a champion is the daughter of Sir Gallahad III.-Risky, in the John Hertz stable. She is a half sister to Risque, one of the 3 year old stars in the Hertz stable.

Maybe the next 2 year old champion has not been mentioned here. But Prof. Binoculars says if the champion isn't in this group he has named you can come right over and he'll give you his watch.

Lady Teddy is another daughter of Sir Gallahad III which burns up the track. High Flight, a daughter of High Time, is one that can fly during the morning training hours. Nevada Queen was a sensation at Agua Caliente, breaking a track record every time she started.

PROGRAM TO AID JOBLESS STATED BY LA FOLLETTE

Gives Congress Group's Plan in Boston Speech.

Boston, Mass., April 23.—(AP)—A seven point legislative program designed to ease the nation's economic strain was advanced tonight by Senator La Follette on behalf of the so called progressive groups in congress.

The Wisconsin Republican, who heads the committee on unemployment of the Washington conference of progressives of both parties, deplored mergers and wage reductions in a speech before the Ford Hall forum and added:

"To avoid the evils of unjust distribution of wealth and anarchic control of industry, the progressives are contending for federal aid to meet the emergency of unemployment relief, a shorter work day and shorter work week, maintenance of wage levels, stabilization of industry, unemployment insurance, rehabilitation of agriculture, and exercise of the power of taxation through the graduated income and inheritance tax laws to meet the increasing burdens and responsibilities of government."

Forsees Balance of Power.

This program, said La Follette, whose group will hold the balance of power in both houses in the next congress, would result in a maximum reduction of unemployment, maintenance of purchasing power of the masses and a constantly rising standard of living.

Although they mean permanent unemployment and lowered purchasing power, he said, mergers and wage cuts had been proposed by many industrialists as the only way out of present day conditions.

"It is a bald proposal," he added, "to make the wage earner pay the cost of deflation. It means a debased standard of living and degradation of citizenship."

Again assailing President Hoover's speech congratulating the Red Cross for relying exclusively on voluntary private aid in its drought relief operations, La Follette said labor department data showed "while the spirit of those able to give charity was being well nourished, the meager physical nourishment o fthose out of work was being obtained primarily out of the government funds."

Burden Thrown on Communities.

"The federal government and the federal income taxpayers escaped. It is true," he said, "but as a result a staggering burden has been thrown upon municipal, county, and state governments, which are forced in all too many cases to obtain a heavy share of their income from taxes on real estate."

It was the duty as well as the opportunity of progressives to formulate a constructive program to be advanced at the December session, he continued, adding:

"The philosophy of laissez faire applied during the last ten years has brought disaster. It is obvious that we cannot manage our highly developed and intricate machinery upon the basis of ideas or organization and control developed in a predominantly agricultural and individualistic society of 150 years ago."

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Something Going to Come from That

VICTIM OF RARE MALADY AWAITS DEATH IN MONTH

Missionary from Corea Doomed, He Says.

Cleveland, O., April 23.—(AP)—City medical officials announced tonight that a mysterious disease with which the Rev. Ralph H. Thurber, formerly a missionary in Korea, is suffering, has been diagnosed as distomiasis, contracted through eating raw or poorly cooked fish in the orient. They said the missionary expected to die within a month.

Officials at City hospital said they were unable to confirm Mr. Thurber's estimate as to the possible limitation of his life, as it was the first case ever reported here, and one of four or five known in this country.

Dr. Harold J. Knapp, city health commissioner, and hospital staff physicians said they considered the patient more qualified than they to pass judgment on the seriousness of his case.

Has Seen 500 Cases.

Mr. Thurber told them, they added, that among some 500 or so cases he had observed in the orient, those that reached a stage parallel to his condition caused death in a few weeks.

"The disease is confined practically entirely to the orient, and is caused by a tiny parasite known as a 'fluke,'" Dr. Knapp quoted the Rev. Mr. Thurber. "The parasites lodge somewhere in the abdominal or chest organs and form cysts, where they develop and multiply.

"I have been suffering more or less from what I suppose to be this same infection for seven or eight years, and have had several operations for removal of the parasitic cysts.

The 37 year old missionary, who is in America on a furlough, was stricken here last Friday while en route to Detroit with a party of fellow missionaries.

Rug Collector Filaria Victim.

New York, April 23.—(AP)—James Franklin Ballard, 80, world famous collector of oriental rugs, died today, the victim of filiria, a tropical blood disease contracted two years ago during his travels in oriental countries.

Mr. Ballard, who at 55 developed a sudden passion for collecting strange and rare rugs, had in the last quarter century travelled more than 500,000 miles to collect his unusual specimens of weavings, valued at more than $750,000.

On his return from a trip to Egypt and India two years ago, he complained of feeling ill and was placed under the care of physicians. Dr. Frank Erdwurn said he had been in the hospital only two days before his death.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

Kentland, Ind., April 23.—[Special.]—John Higgins, who, 70 years ago enlisted in the Union army as a drummer boy at the age of 12, will celebrate his eighty-second birthday here tomorrow. Higgins is the youngest civil war drummer boy in the country. His parents died shortly after his birth in Brooklyn in 1849, and he was brought to Indiana with other orphans in 1860, becoming the protégé of Samuel Brambe, a storekeeper here.

JOHN HIGGINS.

In the summer of 1861, following political discussions around the stove in the Bramble store, a company was raised in Kentland and proceded to Indianapolis, where it became company B of the 51st Indiana volunteers. Higgins went along as the drummer boy and after twice being rejected because of his small stature, was permitted to remain.

The regiment, organized by Col. A. J. Streight, participated in the second day of the battle of Shiloh. That night a group of drummer boys evacuating the wounded from the battlefield stopped the ambulance when they heard a soldier moaning. Searching the woods, they fell over the body of a sleeping soldier who tossed off the rubber blanket in which he was rolled, revealing himself as Maj. Gen. Grant. Having the battle well in hand, he was snatching a bit of rest under a tree in the rain.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Then often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute.

REV. CARRADINE, RETIRED PASTOR, EVANGELIST, DIES

The Rev. Beverly Carradine, 83 years old, a retired Methodist minister and evangelist, died yesterday at a private sanitarium in Western Springs. He was born on the Altermont plantation, near Yazoo, Miss., and was a veteran of the confederate army, having served with the cavalry during the civil war.

The Rev. Mr. Carradine served in pastorates in New Orleans and St. Louis. He toured the country as an evangelist as pastor of the Rayne Memorial and Carondelet Methodist churches, New Orleans, he was influential in breaking the Louisiana state lotteries. The Rayne congregation sent him to Europe. He was transferred to St. Louis later, serving in the Centenary and First Methodist churches there. The Rev. Mr. Carradine wrote fiction and religious works, and was an editor of religious journals.

Surviving him are five daughters, Mrs. Lula Samuel of Hinsdale, Miss Glendy and Miss Victoria Carradine of Chicago, Mrs. Maude Virginia Westbrook of New Orleans, and Mrs. Elliott K. Dixon of St. Louis, and one son, Burke Carradine of Chicago.

FINGERPRINTS ON PISTOL STUDIED TO SOLVE DEATH

Traverse City, Mich., April 23.—(AP)—Finger print experts today studied the pistol with which Adam Bellinger, 20, was slain at his home early Sunday, hoping that the weapon recovered late yesterday may provide a clew that will solve the youth's death.

Orville Bellinger, 52, father of Adam, admitted to state police that he had hidden the weapon and led them to a hollow stump at the Bellinger home, where the mud-plastered automatic pistol was found. Bellinger, however, made no change in his earlier contention that Adam committed suicide as he stood in a dark room beside Miss Evelyn Lewis, 19, of Grand Rapids.

The father denied knowledge of the missing bullet that pierced his son's brain, killing him instantly. The father also said he could not explain a cross-shaped brand cut into the forehead of his son with a knife.

Miss Lewis was rearrested early last night after a day in custody of her parents, who had expressed the belief she would tell them more than she would tell police. The girl has been steadfast in her statement that Adam shot himself.

Longworth's Sister Visits His Widow in Cincinnati

DIES SUDDENLY IN HOME.

FIND EVIDENCE THAT TRADE IS SLOWLY RISING

Not So Poor as Some Would Believe.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Out of all the welter of conflicting reports concerning trade and industry emerges the fact that the general situation is slowly improving. Thus, last month brought some further expansion in industrial activity, according to the monthly survey made public by the federal reserve board yesterday. And this expansion afforded some amelioration to the unemployment situation.

Judged by conditions in normal times, industry is not in as bad shape as some of the gloomy commentators suggest. The reserve board finds that industrial production increased 2 per cent last month and its seasonally adjusted index stood at 85 per cent of the 1923-'25 average. However, it compares unfavorably with the 104 per cent registered in March, 1930.

"Further increase in industrial activity was reported for March, which usually shows little change from February," the survey says "Factory employment and pay rolls increased by the usual seasonal amount between the middle of February and the middle of March. The volume of building contracts awarded in March showed considerable growth, largely of a seasonal nature. The general level of wholesale prices continued to decline.

Auto Sales Improve.

"There was a considerable increase in the daily average output of steel, which ordinarily shows little change from February to March, although in the first half of April steel mill activity declined. Production of automobiles increased by about the usual seasonal percentage. Activity at cotton mills increased slightly, contrary to the ordinary seasonal movement, and there was a substantial increase in output of shoes."

The survey gives particular attention to the automobile industry. Total factory output last month was 276,-311 units, an increase of 56,402 over February production. This expansion, it is said, resulted from a substantial pickup in actual demand for cars. On the other hand, employment declined in the agricultural machinery and petroleum refining industries and at car building shops, contrary to the usual seasonal trend, while the tire and fertilizer industries showed less than usual increases.

Relative to agricultural conditions, the survey says that definite improvement in moisture conditions in the drought area was an important development. It also mentions an advance in the price of wheat last month.

Stronger Credit Demand.

It would also appear that the mild improvement in general conditions has resulted in a somewhat stronger demand for credit for commercial purposes. The weekly statement of the federal reserve system, issued last night, shows that the member banks increased their borrowings from the reserve banks by $3,246,000, bringing the total to $135,250,000.

At the same time the reserve banks took on an additional $20,132,000 of bankers' acceptances. Their deposits expanded $29,602,000 and note circulation rose $10,795,000. Gold and total reserves increased $20,965,000 and $28,-67,000, respectively.

Despite rumors of a prospective reduction, the New York reserve bank made no change yesterday in its 2 per cent rediscount rate. Its report shows an increase of $5,048,000 in member banks' borrowings, which now stand at $31,192,000, and an increase of $16,424,000 in bankers' acceptances. Deposits rose $24,317,000. Reserves increased $7,691,000 and the reserve ratio rose to 87.3 per cent, compared with 84.6 per cent a week ago.

The Chicago reserve bank reported an increase of $986,000 in member banks' borrowings, bringing them to $13,337,000. Bankers' acceptances rested $1,524,000. Deposits expanded $1,767,000. Reserves increased $19,-235,800 and the reserve ratio rose to 84.1 per cent, compared with 85.6 per cent last week.

BROKERS' LOANS EASE

Although the stock market declined last week the reserve board's weekly report on brokers' loans showed a shrinkage of only $5,000,000. This brought the present total down to $1,344,000,000, compared with $4,217,-000,000 a year ago, or a decrease of $3,873,000,000. The New York banks increased their own loans by $26,000,-000 but the interior banks withdrew $18,000,000 and non-banking lenders withdrew $15,000,000.

Allis-Chalmers Profit for Quarter Is $482,807

The Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company reports for the first quarter net profit of $482,807, equal to more than 38 cents a share on the common stock, against $1,170,937 or 93 cents a share in the corresponding quarter of 1930. Booking for the first quarter this year totaled $6,450,788, against $14,661,413 for the first quarter last year. The report, however, said that each month's bookings thus far this year have shown an increase over the preceding month, February recording a 33 per cent increase over January, and March a 26 per cent increase over February.

Western Wheat Growers Sever Farm Board Ties

Grand Forks, N. D., April 23.—(AP)—George E. Duis, president, today announced the North Dakota-Montana Wheat Growers' association has severed "all connection with the farm board." The association, he said, will continue operating independently and may bring legal action to recover claims totaling $620,805 which it has lodged against the farm board.

Maurice L. Rothschild Plans Three Story Store Addition

BY AL CHASE.

State street's first major building improvement in so long a time that few can remember back when was announced last night by Maurice L. Rothschild, Inc. It is to be a new three story addition on top of the present nine story men's and women's clothing store at the southwest corner of State street and Jackson boulevard. Bids will be asked within ten days and work will then get under way at once with the idea of having it completed by fall. Alfred S. Alschuler is architect.

MAURICE L. ROTHSCHILD.

"The present business situation is groggy; in a prize fight when your opponent is groggy then's the time to give him a knockout wallop, eh?" said Maurice L. Rothschild, president of his firm. "That's just what we're doing. We're going ahead, spending money on a big addition which will give employment to a lot of workmen during its erection and provide us with 40,000 additional square feet of floor space and, of course, result in many more employes for our firm."

Incidentally, David Mayer Jr., vice president and general manager of Maurice L. Rothschild, Inc., stated that the firm now employs 125 more than it did a year ago at this time. "And we haven't cut a salary or laid a man off," he added.

Will Expand Departments.

The three new stories will be used for selling floors entirely. Two comparatively new departments will be much enlarged. The women's and misses' dresses will have an entire floor and the women's and misses' coats will occupy all of one of the new stories. The use of the third has not yet been determined.

Maurice L. Rothschild, who now has a personal fortune reported to be in the neighborhood of $15,000,000, according to a recent article in a trade publication, has had a colorful career. He started business in 1885 in a one story store in Seneca, Kas. Within a couple of years he established a store in Minneapolis. Later he opened a store in St. Paul.

The Chicago store was started in 1906. The first unit of 9 stories fronted only thirty-eight feet on State street with a frontage on Jackson of 100 feet. It was a prompt success, despite strenuous competition in the neighborhood, and its rapid growth necessitated a nine story addition to the south with a frontage of forty-seven feet on State street and the full depth of the store.

Has Praise for Tribune.

The last nine story addition was completed only a few months ago and consisted of twenty-four feet of frontage on State street, with 100 feet of depth.

Already Mr. Rothschild is looking ahead of this three story addition to the time when Chicago can stand up with other great metropolitan centers and point to its subway. He stated yesterday that when the State street subway is open for business passengers will find Maurice L. Rothschild, Inc., with an entrance direct from a proposed basement salesroom. At present the basement is not used for sales purposes.

"The firm's success in Chicago has been directly attributable to TRIBUNE advertising," said Mr. Rothschild. "Last year we spent 71 per cent of our advertising dollars with THE TRIBUNE."

KELLY GIVES VIEWS ON MERCHANDISING OF ELECTRICAL DEVICES

Merchandising of electrical appliances by the ordinary retail merchant rather than by the electrical utility companies was advocated yesterday by D. F. Kelly, president of the Fair department store and head of the National Retail Dry Goods association, at a luncheon of the Electric association of Chicago at the Palmer house.

Attending the luncheon as guests of the association were James Simpson of Marshall Field's, Gen. R. E. Wood of Sears-Roebuck's, George B. Everitt of Montgomery Ward's, and John T. Pirie of Carson Pirie Scott's, representing the leading mercantile establishments of the central west.

Mr. Kelly, who also heads a joint committee of the utilities and retailers known as the electrical merchandising joint committee, discussed the progress the committee has made toward working out a method for electrical merchandising that is designed to settle the problem to the satisfaction of both groups.

STANDARD GAS EARNS $6.04 PER COMMON SHARE

New York, April 23.—(AP)—Standard Gas and Electric company today reported surplus consolidated earnings of $13,082,498 for 1930, equivalent to $6.04 a common share. This compares with $10,298,053, or $6.59 a common share on a smaller capitalization in 1929.

Gross earnings of the public utility subsidiaries or affiliates aggregated $153,732,480 against $154,616,926. Income was affected adversely by the general business depression and the drought, the report said, which reduced the output of hydro-electric power and necessitated increased steam electric generation.

REPORT U. S. PLANS AMERICAN BOND AND MORTGAGE CO. PROBE

Washington, D. C., April 23.—(AP)—A widespread investigation of the American Bond and Mortgage company, with activities in half a dozen of the largest cities, is contemplated by the justice department. Federal officials disclosed several days ago that acting upon complaints from stockholders of the company inquiry had been made at scattered points into affairs of the $100,000,000 concern.

It was said authoritatively today, however, that since the first intimation of an investigation, complaints against it had come to the justice department in such volume that there "undoubtedly will be a general investigation."

The company has financed some of the country's largest hotels and apartment houses, having an important part in the construction of the Mayflower hotel here, the Park Central and Libby hotels in New York, the Leverich Towers in Brooklyn, the Mayfair apartments in Philadelphia, and the Longwood Towers in Boston.

If an investigation is made it probably will be conducted by the criminal division of the justice department, headed by Assistant Attorney General Nugent Dodds, who supervised the inquiry into the finances of the F. H. Smith company here, resulting in the detention of three officials.

Stock sales of the concern were estimated to exceed $100,000,000. Complaints from stockholders, it was said, have been received at the department since before last fall and piecemeal inquiries made by several United States attorneys in their various localities. It was disclosed also that post-office inspectors operating in New England have been conducting their own investigation to determine whether the company's sales campaigns have violated any of the mail laws.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 23.—Net income of the General Motors corporation declined in the first quarter this year to $28,999,400, equal after preferred dividends to 61 cents a share on the 43,-500,000 common shares, it was indicated in the preliminary report issued today.

This showing, which included equities in undivided profits of subsidiaries and affiliates, not consolidated, compared with net income of $44,968,500, equivalent after preferred dividends to 98 cents a share in the first three months of 1930. Dividends are being paid at the quarterly rate of 75 cents a share, so that requirements on the junior stock for the first three months were not earned.

Cash Holdings Rise.

Holdings of cash and government securities were increased to $179,333,100, as compared with $125,814,900 at the end of March, 1930. Net working capital gained more than $11,000,000 to $292,723,600 from $281,037,600 at the end of last year, and compared with $267,791,500 on March 31, 1930.

The statement, showing a stronger cash position and the quarterly dividend nearly earned, was regarded in Wall street as favorable in view of the general shrinkage of corporation profits in the last quarter.

Sales of General Motors dealers to consumers in the first quarter this year amounted to 231,881 cars, a moderate reduction from the total of 286,-690 cars sold in the like period of last year. Sales to dealers in the United States during the quarter were 255,997 as reduced from 323,443. Total sales of General Motors to dealers, including the United States and foreign countries, amounted to 304,547 units, as compared with 368,695 in 1930.

STUDEBAKER SALES UP

New York, April 23.—(AP)—March sales of the Studebaker corporation were ahead of any month since September, 1929, and April sales so far are ahead of March, President Erskine announced today in making public the report of earnings for the first quarter of 1931.

The net profits for that period, however, after deducting dividends for Pierce-Arrow preferred stock and the minority stockholders' interest were $8,909,749, a decrease of $533,677 from the corresponding period last year. The 1931 earnings are equivalent to 35 cents a share on the common stock, compared with 62 cents in the like period last year.

Sales of automobiles during the first quarter this year numbered 17,366 vehicles, compared with 19,465 last year. Current assets totaled $29,774,-206 as of March 31, compared with current liabilities of $9,490,215.

U. S. TAKES STEP TO EXERT WATER POWER CONTROL

Washington, D. C., April 23.—(AP)—The power commission has made its first move toward exercising the power given it by law to regulate the rates charged and securities issued by its licensees.

It voted, at the instance of Commissioners Draper and McNinch, to ask of each company operating water power plants under federal license the extent to which its activities came under state regulation; whether or not its power was sold to the public directly or through a subsidiary or other power company; whether its power was carried for sale across state lines, and whether its accounting was under any form of state supervision.

These questions will be set forth in a questionnaire to which replies within 60 days will be requested. The water power act of 1920 provided that the commission could control the rates, securities, and services of utilities it licenses, but only if the states in which they do business are not empowered to take such control. The questionnaire.

New York, April 23.—Skirmishes between bull and bear raiding forces kept the fur flying on the stock exchange front today. First one side and then the other gained the advantage, but when the smoke cleared away the bulls held a narrow advantage.

It was the most active session the market has experienced in weeks, the turnover amounting to nearly 4,000,000 shares. At times the ticker was 4 or 5 minutes behind the market.

The bulls started it. Prodded beyond their endurance by the steady decline of the last six weeks, they rose up in their might in the first hour of trading and bought stocks with such free hands that many began to wonder if the long expected rally were not at last getting under way. United States Steel, American Can, American Telephone, and a host of other active favorites, including several of the rails, pointed vigorously upward and the whole list plugged in behind them. Orders for some of the pivotals seemed to bespeak the presence of really worth while support and such offerings as came into the list were soaked up quite easily.

Decline Starts About Noon.

Along toward noon, however, forces for the decline got busy and by "delivery time" a majority of issues listed on the board had been driven to new lows for the year and many of them through the bottoms they bumped when things were at their worst last December. United States Steel, currently looked upon more than ever as the market leader, crashed below 125, the figure often

CHICAGO STOCK PRICES REVIVE IN LATE TRADING

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Chicago stocks went through another dousing of liquidation yesterday, but revived in time to have most of damage repaired before the close. The selling brought brand new low quotations for a long list of shares but the later buying lifted those and the final figures represented only minor changes from Wednesday's close.

The selling movement reached a peak around midday following a period of steadiness which had lasted about an hour after the opening.

The tenor of the day's news developments showed little change. As was expected another batch of unimpressive earnings statements and a few more dividend reductions were offered. There were reports of a semi-official nature from one or two companies, however, which offered an antidote to the routine news of the day.

It was reported that the Walgreen company for the six months ended March 31 will show net earnings of $850,000, which is equivalent to approximately 36 cents a share on the outstanding common stock. Net sales for the six months period were $26,058,443, as compared with $26,320,777 in the corresponding period last year. The earnings for the corresponding period last year are not available. April sales were said to be running ahead of last year. The last six months of the company's fiscal year is customarily the best earnings period because of the increase in soda fountain business during the summer.

The first quarter earnings of the Bendix Aviation corporation and subsidiaries are said to have covered dividend requirements on the common stock. It is believed that the company will show net for the first three months of about $525,000, the estimate being based on the dividend requirements on the stock outstanding at the close of 1930. In the first quarter the company reported net of $751,681, equivalent to 36 cents a share on the common stock outstanding.

General Theaters Eases.

The controversy over the auditing system used by Fox Film corporation has led to weakness in General Theaters stock. Shares of General Theaters, which is a substantial holder of Fox, were down over two points here yesterday.

The exchange announced that three seats have been transferrer. Two memberships brought $14,000 and the third $16,000. The previous sale was made at $20,000.

A pension plan providing for retirement of exchange employes at the age of 65 has been adopted, it was announced.

CANADIAN GRAIN COMMISSION WILL MEET HERE TODAY

The royal grain commission, appointed by Premier Bennett of Canada to study the question of whether trading in futures contracts in grain is of equal benefit to growers as to other members of the grain industry, will make its headquarters in Chicago at the Drake hotel, it was stated yesterday by President James C. Murray of the Chicago Board of Trade in explaining purposes of the committee's visit here.

The commission will arrive in Chicago today, following meetings at Winnipeg, Calgary and Regina. A meeting was held at Minneapolis yesterday.

"Several members of the Chicago Board of Trade and possibly some members of neighboring markets have accepted the invitation to appear before the royal commission," Mr. Murray said.

"Leading merchandisers and distributors of grain in Chicago will explain their operations in hedging and the conduct of their general grain businesses to the commission. Prominent operators on the futures markets of the Board of Trade also will attend."

As a subscriber I write to inquire if you have any information on New Orleans Public Service company first and refunding 5s due 1933.—C. L. F.

New Orleans Public Service, Inc., is controlled by Electric Power and Light corporation and is under the supervision of Electric Bond and Share company. It supplies electric power and light, gas and street railway service in New Orleans.

In 1929 51 per cent of gross earnings was derived from electric power and light, 31 per cent from electric railway and 18 per cent from gas. The company's earnings from its street railway division were adversely affected by a strike in 1929 which continued for several months. This encouraged the use of jitney buses which continued operation until discouraged by a court injunction in February, 1930.

Another factor that has affected recent earnings has been the substitution of natural for manufactured gas at a rate which the company declares is unprofitable. In 1922 an agreement with the City of New Orleans provided for adjustment of rates to enable the company to earn a 7½ per cent return. On Sept. 30, 1928, the rate base was in excess of $79,800,000.

The $12,000,000 issue of first and refunding 5s, series A, due 1952, together with the $18,000,000 series B bonds, are issued under an indenture which authorizes total issuance of $500,000,000 of bonds. The two issues are secured by a direct first mortgage lien covering property valued at $24,550,000 under the valuation arrived at between the company and the city. They are further secured by a general lien on additional properties valued at more than $54,631,000, subject to slightly more than $10,000,000 divisional issues, and miscellaneous other security. The sinking fund provides that each year an amount equal to 5 per cent of the underlying bonds and this issue shall be used either to purchase bonds or to provide for improvements, acquisitions, etc., against which no bonds may be issued.

In 1930 interest on total funded debt was earned 1.37 times, against 1.32 times in 1929. Interest on this particular issue was earned 3.2 times during the five year period ended Dec. 31, 1929. For 1928 interest was earned 1.72 times and for 1927 1.92 times.

For January and February, 1931, gross income was $1,288,955 and interest, etc., was $527,107. For January and February, 1930, gross was $1,217,252. Interest, etc., was $537,412 before depreciation.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 8,000; hogs, 17,000; sheep, 12,000.

A drastic cut was made in hog prices yesterday and closing sales were only a shade above the low point of the season. In fact, the general average for the entire day at 7.15 was only 15c above the bottom established in February. One load reached $7.50 at the start, but few passed $7.30 near the close.

All buyers carried limited orders and 9,000 were still in the pens at the close. However, according to all reports, the big decline has curtailed the marketward movement from most points for the rest of the week. Five markets report 40,000 in sight for today, against 58,900 last Friday. The heaviness yesterday ranged from 10c to 40c lower.

Today's Hogs Bid $7.30.

Light weight hogs for today's delivery were bid $7.30 on the "to arrive" market yesterday, but there were no sellers at that figure. Hogs weighing 210@260 lbs were bid $7.00 and buyers offered to pay $6.75 for 190@210 lb butchers.

May light were offered at $8.00 and June contracts were offered at $8.25. September light were bid $8.25 and offered at $8.60. Medium and heavy grades for September delivery were also offered at $8.60, but the highest bids for these contracts stopped at $8.25.

Top steers pushed forward to $10.25 on moderate supplies yesterday, while other classes of cattle were steady to 15c lower, selling slowly at the reaction. Fancy 1,194 lb steers topped the list, going to shippers at $10.25.

Lambs Slump Sharply.

Lamb prices slumped 25@50c on yesterday's dull "all day" trade, with closing sales lowest of the day. Top yearling lambs stopped at $9.75, while not handy weights to packers brought $9.50. Lambs without fleece sold at $8.50@8.85, and some medium grades around $8.00.

A lot of Colorado spring lambs averaging 74 lbs sold at $12.00, being in a class by themselves in point of quality. Aged sheep and yearlings were steady. Aggregate receipts were large. The total at 7 points was 34,000. Only three Thursday totals have been larger since early in January.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Demand for fresh butter and eggs was only fair, but prices generally showed little change. Receipts, 8,774 tubs butter and 9,455 cases eggs. Live heavy hens were steady to ½c lower and other poultry generally unchanged. Receipts, 1 car and 27 trucks. Potatoes sold at former prices. Receipts, 103 cars old, with 207 cars on track. Arrivals of new, 9 cars, with 20 cars on track.

UNCERTAINTY OF BUSINESS FELT IN GRAIN MART

Corn and Oats at New Lows, Wheat Declines.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Uncertainty as to the future of general business, reflected in the stock market's recent weakness, found its counterpart in grains yesterday, with May and July corn and all deliveries of oats dropping to a new low for the season, as did butter and eggs on the Mercantile exchange. May corn dropped to 58¾c, off 1¼c from Wednesday's finish, and a new low since April, 1922, while May oats at 18¾c were the lowest since September, 1905.

Liquidation was on in old May wheat at the start, with the trade having the impression that customers of the leading cooperative were getting out of their holdings, with a decline to 81½c, the lowest since March 24, and the finish was at the bottom with a net loss of ¼c. Deferred deliveries held within a range of 1⅝@1½c and closed at the inside figures with losses of 1⅛@1¾c, July being 62⅜@62½c, September 64⅛@62½c, and December 65⅝@ 65½c.

Await New Market Factors.

Bearish sentiment in wheat of late has been intensified by the fact that the July delivery has run into aggressive selling every time it has advanced to around 65c, and at the inside figure yesterday that future was off 2¾c from the high of the previous day. The failure of crop damage reports to materialize from the American southwest has also had some influence, as has the lack of aggressive export demand from Europe since the rumors were circulated on Monday that the farm board would dump its holdings. Total sales in all positions for the day were 300,000 to 400,000 bu Canadian wheat.

Nebraska Condition High.

Outlook for the new winter wheat crop, with the exception of California, is very favorable. The Nebraska midmonth report made the condition 96, compared with 95 a month ago and 86.4 last year, while the abandoned acreage is estimated at only 1 per cent of that seeded last fall. The government April 1 returns showed a condition of 92.

Winipeg wheat futures closed ⅝@ ⅝c lower, with July at 62⅛c. According to a message received late in the day by J. E. Bennett & Co. there was active buying there in the last 15 minutes of the session by exporters, which suggested that business might be worked over night, and some sales of cash wheat were made right at the close, but the quantities were not known.

According to reports from Kansas City, the stabilization corporation is taking cash wheat in that market at a price slightly above a figure that would permit it being shipped profitably to other terminal markets, and the same condition is said to prevail at Duluth.

Liquidation in Corn.

Stop loss orders were uncovered in corn yesterday, and with numerous scattered longs going out of their holdings prices dropped rapidly, with the finish at net losses of ½@1¼c, May finishing at 58⅜@58¾c; July, 60⅝@60¾c; September, 58⅝@60c, and December, 53⅛@53¼c. Lack of an aggressive shipping demand and fairly liberal arrivals count against any material unturn as the trade sees it.

Liquidation was on in oats, with stop loss orders uncovered, but after the break into new ground for the season sufficient buying by cash interests developed to bring about a moderate rally in the May and the close was ⅝@¾c lower, with May 19@19¼c; July, 29¾c; September, 29⅛c, and December, 32½c. Shipping sales aggregated 85,000 bu. Rye finished ½@¾c lower with wheat, May being 35¾c; July, 38c, and September, 39¾c.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Wheat traders express themselves as mainly bearish and look for a regular declining market, unless developments within the next few days suggest a decided change in the character of the crop news and the speculative and export buying. With the security market declining irregularly with a bearish sentiment in Wall street and timidity among grain speculators, the disposition is to sell on all bulges and take profits on moderate price recessions.

An impression prevails among wheat traders that the volume of May wheat that has come out in the last few days is from the government. So far as known, it is understood to be sales by the Farmers National and is for speculators who have held in anticipation of a sharp advance, but with the combination of bearish conditions against the market, they have been getting out at prices slightly above the pegged figure, 81c, for old May.

SPRING WHEAT SEEDING

"Except for wind and resulting dust storms, conditions in the northwest were generally favorable for seeding operations during the last week," says Van Dusen Harrington of Minneapolis. "Bread wheat and durum seeding is finished in most sections of South Dakota, southern Minnesota, and southern North Dakota. Seeding coarse grains rapidly approaching completion and ground is being prepared for corn and flax. In more northern areas farmers are well along and with reasonably good weather crops should be in little earlier this spring than in an average year.

"There is a deficiency of subsoil moisture in almost all sections and generous precipitation during the growing season is of utmost importance. Most districts have sufficient moisture for germination and to carry crops for from two to three weeks."

Winter wheat made good growth and is generally reported from 6 to 9 inches tall and is beginning to joint over the eastern half of the state as far north as the Kansas river basin," says the Kansas weather-crop report. "In some of the southeastern counties it is nearly all jointed. Corn planting is under way over the eastern two-thirds of the state, in the southeastern counties 50 to 75 per cent is already planted and some is coming up. Pastures are far enough advanced to support live stock over the southeastern part of the state."

WILL MOVE OFFICES.

Edward W. Edwards, president of the Valvoline Oil company, said the executive offices of the concern will be moved soon to Cincinnati from New York.

BULLS AND BEARS COME TO GRIPS; BATTLE RAGES

Stocks Rally, Dip, Then Close Higher.

Westinghouse Electric, Bethlehem Steel, New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio, and numerous other prime speculative favorites yielded to new sales for the bear market on losses of from 1 to 5 points. General Motors was pounded into new low ground for the movement, along with Radio Corporation and other shares which had been active on the market's early rise.

Another rally was followed by another bear attack, with operations hitting an irregular trend and the pace slowing up toward the close. Net changes ranged from a gain of 16½ points in Auburn Automobile to a loss of 6½ in Central Railroad of New Jersey.

Movie Attendance Drops.

Much of the early buying was said to be based on reports that the Federal Reserve Bank of New York was preparing to reduce its rediscount rate. The bears on the other hand found some very effective ammunition in the statement of Adolph Zukor, president of the Paramount Publix corporation, that theaters throughout the country were experiencing a falling off in attendance and in the daily grist of earnings figures for the first quarter.

The Zukor statement was made the cause for a raid on the amusement issues and the weakness in this group had an unsettling influence on the entire list. At one time Fox Film was down about 5 points, General Theater Equipment sold off more than 3 points, Loew's broke a similar amount, and Paramount and Warner were used to new lows. Most of these issues were able to recover parts of their earlier losses before the close, however.

Westinghouse Declines.

Westinghouse Electric was caught in the vortex of a vicious selling movement and yielded to the lowest prices reached since 1927, when it sold as low as 67. Evidently the disappointing nature of its first quarter report was a little too much for it to bear up under.

With a sale of Jersey Central below into the last of the one time haughty railroad stocks in the 200 to 300 class gave up the ghost. The market was left with only one so-called active issue, Peoples Gas, actually selling down. One other, Laclede Gas, was quoted at 205@220. Two or three other such obsolete stocks, such as Kansas Central, have a value in the higher realms.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 23.—In spite of the suggestion of officials of the United States Steel corporation at the annual meeting this week that a policy of distributing about 60 per cent of earnings as dividends be followed, Wall street felt certain today that the regular $7 annual dividend rate on the common stock would be maintained at the meeting of directors next Tuesday, even though earnings for the quarter fall short of requirements.

Net income from actual operations in the first three months of the year was estimated today at between $9,000,000 and $11,000,000, after interest, depletion, etc. The balance after preferred dividends was expected to amount to between 25 and 50 cents a share on the 8,696,859 common shares, without allowing for "special income."

In the final quarter last year net income was $12,366,088, including $3,000,000 of special income. Earnings from operations amounted to 27 cents a share on the special income contributed 43 cents to the total of 70 cents a share. For the first quarter of 1930 net income totaled $35,777,807, of which $3,000,000 was special income, a total of $4.46 on the 8,560,876 common shares.

Factory Costs.

STUDEBAKER CAN SAVE YOU TIME AND MONEY

We have almost 200 used cars in our building for you to choose from—a selection of makes and models that no other dealer offers.

And our prices are always ROCK BOTTOM, which is your assurance that you will save money if you buy from us.

YOUR GUARANTEE.

PAIGE COACH—Considering the fine condition of the exterior and interior, and the fact that the motor runs smoothly—this is an exceptional bargain at our price. Has 4 wire wheels, and many extras. $128.

STUDEBAKER COACH—Spec. 6, equipped with shock absorbers, spotlight, bumpers, practically new snare tires, etc. Has a sweet motor, and the appearance is attractive. $145.

BRUNN ROADSTER—A sporty car for cadena rumble seat and many extras. Finished in beautiful two-tone color combination. Has low-slung lines and a powerful motor. Will not remain long at our price of $295.

NASH COUPE—1928 Spec. 6 that was only driven a short time, as it was in storage while the owner was away on a trip for 14 months. The finish, upholstery and tires are in dandy condition and the motor is A-1. $295.

PLYMOUTH SEDAN—One of the very latest models that was only driven a few thousand miles. It's the last word for powerful appearance and sparkling performance. A remarkable value at $395.

CHRYSLER BROUGHAM—1928 model 62 five-pass. 2 pass. that we recondition as one of our finest buys. Equipped with shock absorbers, spare tire, sweet motor, etc. The finish has not a mar on it and the upholstery appears unused. $395.

WILLYS-KNIGHT SEDAN, 1929 De Luxe model 70 with wire wheels, and is loaded full of extras. This car looks and runs better than many new cars selling for twice its price. Married at $645 for quick sale.

STUDEBAKER SEDAN—1928 Pres. 8 model that sold for approximately $1,800. The motor was carefully checked by expert Studebaker mechanics and you will satisfy the most exacting buyer. Has a like-new finish, and the finish shows like a new dollar. Equipped with shock absorbers, brake, spare tire, bumpers, etc. Priced at $685 but worth considerably more.

ESSEX SEDAN—Late model with wire wheels, side mounts, nonshatterable glass, spotlight, shock absorbers, and many other extras. The finish is a handsome blue and the upholstery appears new. The motor runs very efficiently. This distinctive little sedan cannot be duplicated for the price anywhere near our price—$795.

HUPMOBILE SEDAN—You will have to travel far and wide to find the equal of this 1927 Century 8. If we told you it has never been driven 5 mile you might think we were exaggerating a bit, but the fact remains that it is a handsome car, and tires of this Hupmobile need a thorough demonstration—would convince you that it is in brand new condition today. Equipped with every special extra. Special for $845.

ROOSEVELT CABRIOLET—This 8 cyl. car must be seen to be appreciated. It's one of the latest models succeeding a handsome 1930 car. Has wire wheels, side mounts, radio and many extras. $495.
